Title I Parent and Family Engagement Policy

for Eagleville Elementary School 2025-26

This policy is intended to inform and include all parents of children receiving Title I services in grades K-4 at Eagleville Elementary School. It is essential for our school to provide meaningful opportunities for parental engagement in order to ensure the development and progress of each child. The parent planning meetings, workshops and surveys provide the framework for this policy. End of the year surveys and parent meetings will be used to review and revise this policy as necessary.

Title I families are invited to Family Literacy events held at Eagleville throughout the year. Parents receive the District Parent Engagement policy and the Eagleville School Parent Learning compact in the fall. Moreover, parents are invited to a winter literacy workshop where they are provided with training and strategies for reinforcing skills and supporting their students at home. In addition, parents have the opportunity to attend student and parent programs, as well as individual conferences at different times during the school year. They will be encouraged to submit any questions or comments regarding the policy and the Title I program. This compact was reviewed, planned and agreed upon with parents.

Parents are invited to observe classes during American Education Week and to attend a parent teacher conference to review the child's needs and goals and learn about the curriculum and academic standards. In addition to receiving instructional support, Title I students also receive supplementary reading and math materials, including Reading Connection and Math Connection newsletters.

Parents are encouraged to call the reading specialist at any time if they have any questions about the Title I program or their child's progress.

Yours in learning,

Dr. Robert Corcoran
