

TUSKER TRACKS

A weekly, trunkated note from Dr. B

The Bronstein Brief

This week, I had the honor of attending the first of several varsity games in which we recognize our senior SHS athletes. Yesterday, I went to the girls varsity volleyball game, during which time speeches were given in celebration of each of our graduates. Thank you for your many contributions and sportsmanship over the years. I look forward to more senior celebrations over the next couple of weeks.

Once a Tusker, always a Tusker!

Tusker Pride

Ahead of Columbus Day, students in Professoressa Quinn's Italian classes celebrated the work of Michelangelo by painting as he did! No scaffolding was used, but students used the bottoms of their chairs to get the full experience of creating art while lying down.

Around the District

This week at Somers Middle School, the International Club gathered to learn about the country of Germany and its cultural traditions.

Students enjoyed decorating paper hearts as they snacked on soft pretzels, while getting a fun taste of German pastimes in a festive way!

Tusker Tidbits

Last week, Somers High School fashion students took Metro North to Grand Central, walked through Bryant Park to the Garment District and shopped at Mood Fabrics for fabric to begin their collections. They then headed down to the Fashion Institute of Technology (FIT) Campus for lunch and to visit the Museum at FIT exhibition, Dress, Dreams, and Desire: Fashion and Psychoanalysis. As a bonus, students had the chance to see the Textile Design department's exhibit, Cut & Miss: From Binary Draft to Woven Textile, where students had the opportunity to weave on a floor loom.
