MSRP 2025

Audio	Video
[Dr. Friday] Well, the MSRP first of all stands for Medical Student Research Program and it's a program here on our campus for medical students who predominantly are between years one and two of their education. Although this year we have a significant number of students who chose to participate between years two and three. It gives them an opportunity to make contact with a mentor here on our campus and develop and complete a small research project. Participation in research, particularly in the MSRP is an important part of our students' education.	Montage of medical students of differing ethnicities and genders presenting their research poster results to judges, faculty, and fellow students in a large open room with posters displayed on rows of cork boards.
The skills that they develop in research is like learning how to not only ask a question, but figure out how to answer it.	Woman with short, graying hair, wearing a black sweater, standing beside a display with all the participants photos Text: Ellen Friday, P H D Co-Director, Medical Student Research Program
Today is the day where everything comes together. The students get the chance to show their work to their peers, other faculty, friends who are here on campus. At final count, I believe we had 71 posters and we have. But some of these are joint posters, so we have, almost 90 people participating. I just want to say it's not about the program itself today. It's about these kids here and what they have done to develop, learn so that they can be future teachers to not only themselves, but others.	Montage of more medical students standing in front of their research posters sharing their findings with faculty, judges and fellow students.