Oaks Middle School students love their lunchlady. In fact, they love her so much that a class of students, with the assistance of their music teacher, Brittany Martinez, secretly entered Cafeteria Lead Worker Lisa Stadler in a contest hosted by the Southern California School Nutrition Association.

The purpose of the statewide competition was to honor a school lunch super hero. The name of the competition was the “I Love My Lunchlady” contest. The students in Ms. Martinez’s class wrote a song parody and dressed in fruit and vegetable costumes to create a video honoring the cafeteria staff specifically Mrs. Lisa Stadler, the cafeteria lead. In the video the students sang about choosing healthy school meals and proclaimed their love for their lunchladies.

The video was judged against other submissions from around the state for content, style and correctness. Oaks Middle School was the winning submission for secondary schools.

Ms. Stadler will receive her award on Friday, May 5, 2016 at 9:30 a.m. at Oaks Middle School.
