Bethany
CHRISTIAN SCHOOLS

Learning that lasts.
Faith that lives.

Annual Report 2006-07

Principal's Report

—Allan Dueck

While 2006-07 was a year of continuing excellence in Christian education at Bethany, we also initiated an exciting two-year strategic planning initiative that engaged many constituents. This report presents several significant highlights at Bethany in 2006-07.

First, students thrived in Bethany's caring community. Ask a Bethany student or parent what is special about the school and chances are they will point to the importance of relationships. An intimate warm community, Bethany is a school with Christian teachers who enjoy relating to young people and feel called to help them develop their gifts, grow in faith commitments, and begin to discover a sense of vocation.

When I think of community at Bethany, I think of a teacher's drawing into school life a student who transferred in at the semester. I think of the student who came close to tears as he told classmates they had become his real family since the untimely death of his father five or six years ago. I think of the teacher who stays after class to review material with students anxious about the next day's test. And I think of a teacher's honestly sharing personal experiences in chapel to help students grow in understanding Christian living.

Second, students grew academically in Bethany's dynamic learning environment. Last year students excelled on standardized tests such as ISTEP and SAT, again significantly outperforming local, state, and national averages. A highlight last year was recognition for Bethany's outstanding graduation rates. Since we at Bethany have become used to the fact that between 95 and 100% of our students typically graduate, we tend to take outstanding graduation rates for granted. However, when the Goshen News ran a front-page article recognizing Bethany as the school with by far the best graduation rate in the county, people took notice.

Students thrive at Bethany for many reasons: the quality of the teachers; the warm caring community; a culture that values academic excellence; opportunities to participate in many activities that engage the whole person; supportive parents and families; excellence in instruction; and access to technology.

Third, Bethany worked hand-in-hand with families and congregations to support students' learning. In terms of formal programs, Bethany last year implemented a new Parent-Teacher Organization that gave parents and teachers opportunity to work side-by-side on an action group of their choice—among them, Teacher Support, Fine Arts, and Sports. The school also welcomed six more congregations into the Partnership Plan, raising membership to 17 congregations committed to providing financial and spiritual support for their young people choosing church schooling at Bethany.

In addition, Bethany also implemented a new Diversity Partners Plan to help make it possible for racial/ethnic students to attend. Furthermore, Bethany and Goshen College adopted a "Reciprocal Agreement" that, among other things, commits our institutions to collaborate on programs of special interest to the Mennonite Church and grants children of employees significantly discounted tuition at the other institution.

Bethany also reached out to area congregations in other ways. In September, for instance, Bethany and the Indiana-Michigan Mennonite Conference co-hosted youth sponsors for a dinner at the school, followed by an in-service on mentoring today's youth. In January Bethany hosted area pastors for half a day as each accompanied a student from their congregation to classes, chapel, and lunch. Indeed, Bethany serves the local and wider church by providing quality, Christ-centered education that "equips students for Christian discipleship in the church and around the world."

I thank you for the many ways you support Bethany in educating young people for Christian service.

Board Chair's Report

—Randy Christophel

Thank you for supporting Bethany Christian Schools by encouraging your children to enroll, attending games and plays, volunteering, serving on committees, praying for the school, and contributing financially! I welcome this opportunity to share some school highlights of 2006-07.

First, Bethany completed the first year of an intensive, two-year self-study/strategic-planning process. While this process is expected to culminate in re-accreditation by Indiana's Department of Education and first-time accreditation by the North Central Association and the Mennonite Education Agency, the primary reason for initiating this process was our desire to position Bethany for continued educational excellence in the 21st century.

A Strategic Planning Steering Committee, with counsel from consultant Curt Bechler, oversaw last year's work, which included these initiatives:

- A thorough self-study of school performance;
- Statistical analysis of data to provide a sound basis for school-improvement planning;
- Design of a new leadership development program for high school students; and
- Creation of a new set of foundation documents.

This work engaged key stakeholders from across Bethany's constituency—board members, employees, students, parents, alumni, pastors, donors, and friends. In settings ranging from small committees to the board and from the faculty to a 55-person visioning event, Bethany established a foundation for fleshing out a full-blown strategic plan.

Second, Bethany implemented many of Richard Harrison Bailey's marketing recommendations. Recognizing that Bethany typically retains a very high percentage of its students, Bethany sought ways to strengthen recruitment of new students. Among other things, the school adopted a new visual identity and installed a new school sign complete with LED display for announcing school events. Additionally, Bethany sought to increase its visibility through a coordinated billboard/radio/print media information campaign. The major thrust, however, was strengthening internal marketing by helping employees and board members find new ways to share the Bethany story.

Third, Bethany reshaped the school's mission statement and developed a completely new set of foundation documents. A major thrust in strategic planning was to rethink Bethany's mission in its current context. In-depth conversation and work took place. The pivotal event was a Friday-evening/Saturday morning Visioning Event on March 23-24 that brought together more than 50 friends of the school to focus on Bethany's mission and purpose.

The weekend yielded the essential ideas culminating in the school's new mission statement, formally adopted on September 17, 2007: Bethany Christian Schools is a dynamic learning community that integrates faith development with academic excellence. Bethany equips students for Christian discipleship in the church and around the world.

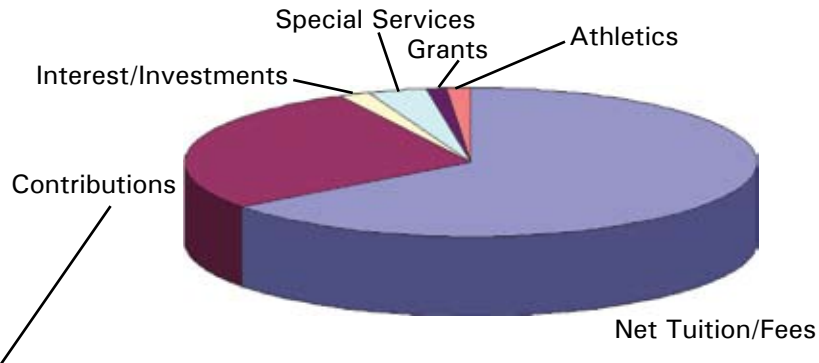

For the first time ever, Bethany also articulated core values: Christ-centered education, academic excellence, gifts development, and community. In addition, graduation competencies were spelled out under three headings: academic, spiritual growth, and lifestyle integrity. Finally, the strategic planning process defined the broader context of a Bethany education in terms of academic accreditation, church affiliation and theological context, and Mennonite education affiliation and accreditation.

My first year as board chair was an exciting one indeed. A school with a rich legacy of success, Bethany is actively defining directions for the future to ensure continued excellence. To achieve these goals, we need your encouragement, financial support, ideas, prayers, and active participation. I invite your continued engagement in Bethany's mission.

Our Mission

Bethany Christian Schools is a dynamic learning community that integrates faith development with academic excellence. Grounded in Mennonite values, Bethany equips students for Christian discipleship in the church and around the world.

Thanks to family, friends, alumni, businesses, and congregations listed in this report for your generous support in helping make it possible for students to acquire a Christian education at Bethany. This support covers the difference between tuition and the cost of education.
