KEY TAKEAWAYS

Our board meeting agendas often include many items for discussion. While you will always be able to review the agenda, meeting minutes, and video recordings of these meetings on our Board webpage, this Board Bulletin provides key takeaways for our Stevenson community.

1 The Technology and Engineering team presented their recent efforts to develop resilience and a mindset of continuous improvement in their classes. Their “practice, rehearsal, performance” method gives students a safe and supportive environment to try something new (practice), try small projects to develop their skills (rehearsal) and then work toward a capstone project (performance).

Does this methodology work to build resilience and a mind for continuous improvement in students? Student Voice Survey data suggests so: 90% say they are likely to try a different strategy when learning something new; and 88% say they are likely to reach out to their teacher for feedback.

Technology design students successfully threw an ice cream pop up event, where students were invited to experience or try out their design creations, including video games, print designs and animations, while enjoying ice cream treats. The event gave students an opportunity to proudly showcase their works.
