

Dear Cheltenham Community,

I hope this message finds you doing well. As a school district and community, we share a common goal: to prepare every Cheltenham student not only for success in school, but for life beyond graduation — as confident, caring, and capable citizens.

Over the past two years, teams of students, staff, and community members have collaborated to define the key skills and traits we believe all Cheltenham graduates should have — characteristics like resilience, integrity, communication, cultural competence, and critical thinking. We call this our Portrait of a Graduate, and it will guide how we teach, support, and inspire our students for years to come.

Now, we need your voice.

Please join us for a Portrait of a Graduate Community Focus Group on Saturday, November 1 from 9:30-11:30 a.m. at Cedarbrook Middle School.

This is an informal, drop-in event — you can come at any time during the session, review our draft competencies, and share your ideas about what our graduates should know, be, and value as members of this community.

Whether you're a parent/guardian, business owner, retiree, or recent graduate — your perspective matters. If you'd like to RSVP in advance, you can do so using this link (though it's not required to attend).

Thank you for being an active partner in helping shape the future of our schools and our community. I look forward to seeing you there.

Respectfully,

Dr. Brian W. Scriven
Superintendent of Schools
