Laura Valentino is the head softball coach at the University of Connecticut, having taken the position in July 2019. A Hofstra University alumna (2011), she played as an infielder, catcher, and designated player, and later earned a master's in special education from Fairfield University in 2013. Before becoming head coach, Coach Valentino served as an assistant coach at Fairfield, Charlotte, and Duke. At Duke, she was part of the inaugural staff in 2018, working primarily with infield, catching, and offensive strategy.

Under her leadership, UConn has experienced one of its strongest stretches in program history. Highlights include multiple 30+ win seasons, a Big East regular-season championship, and in 2025, UConn won the Big East Tournament Championship, its first since 2001, and returned to the NCAA Tournament.

Coach Valentino has been recognized for her ability to build strong team culture, break program records, and develop both athletic and academic success among her players.

Interested in Announcing Athletic Games?

Roslyn Athletics is looking for enthusiastic volunteers to serve as game announcers for our athletic events throughout the school year. Announcers play an important role in enhancing the game-day experience for athletes, families, and fans by providing introductions, play-by-play updates, and important announcements.

If you're interested in serving as an announcer for any of our teams, please complete the form below. We'll use this information to build a list of interested announcers and schedule opportunities based on availability and sport preferences. Announcers must have game rule knowledge.
