Orangeburg County School District Goes Pink for Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Orangeburg, SC – Orangeburg County School District (OCSD) is proud to stand in solidarity with those affected by breast cancer by participating in Breast Cancer Awareness Month. As part of this important effort, OCSD is encouraging all district employees and students to wear pink on Wednesday, October 15, for OCSD Goes Pink Day.

Breast cancer remains one of the most common cancers among women, and awareness is key to saving lives. Health experts continue to stress the importance of women's health, including scheduling regular mammograms, performing self-checks, and paying close attention to changes in the body. Alarming, breast cancer is increasingly being diagnosed in younger women, underscoring the need for early detection and vigilance.

“OCSD Goes Pink is more than just a day to wear pink, it's a day to remind our community that awareness, prevention, and early detection make all the difference,” said Dr. Shawn D. Foster, Superintendent of Orangeburg County School District. “We want our students, staff, and families to be empowered with knowledge and to take steps toward protecting their health.”

By wearing pink together, the OCSD family will honor survivors, support those currently battling breast cancer, and remember the lives lost to the disease.
