

Researching Factors that Affect Children's Attitudes Toward Environmental Conservation

Question Significance

- The environment's health has always been a priority of mine.
- It will create key data to improve student attitudes towards conservation for future generations.
- It will provide data for researchers and changemakers wanting to help this cause.

How My Research is Different from Others

I will research and find which combination of socioeconomic status, environmental teachings, and watershed proximity has the largest effect on students' attitudes.

Data I Am Collecting

- Qualitative data will be gathered to develop a sense of the students' initial and final attitudes towards the environment
- Quantitative data will be to explore the variables affecting the attitudes.
