Seven different players scored in a 17-point second-quarter outburst to pace Crockett County Middle School's boys to a 42-33 basketball triumph over host Dyersburg Tuesday night.

The win was the second in as many nights for Coach Tyler Gadlen's Cavaliers, who topped Milan 29-20 Monday night as solid free throw shooting supported a balanced offensive attack. Crockett's boys are now 4-2 on the season.

Coach Jamar Turner's girls downed Milan 41-17 Monday night as Trinity Pankey netted 13 points and Addie Whitby tallied 12, but the Lady Cavaliers fell at Dyersburg Tuesday night 39-29 as the hosts' TJ Jones tossed in a game-high 18 points. Crockett's girls are now 3-3.

RAFFLE FOR CANCER BATTLER: When a colleague is in need of assistance, the Crockett County community has a solid track record of lending aid.

The CCHS cafeteria staff is currently trying to raise money for co-worker Glenda Green, who is battling Stage 3 lymph node cancer. The staff has created multiple gift baskets from items donated by several Crockett businesses and will award them in a raffle to the winning ticket holders.

Each raffle ticket is $5, with the baskets set to be distributed when the raffle ends on Friday, November 7. Tickets are available from any CCHS cafeteria worker or can be purchased from the Facebook page of Jamye Hendrix, whose Venmo QR code is pictured there and among the photos on this post.

"Glenda has been a great asset to the high school and is terrific with all the kids," Hendrix said. "She's fought a long, hard battle with this cancer and is still trying to work, but she needs financial help. Our staff would really appreciate it if people in the community would purchase tickets. The gift baskets are really nice, and there is a wide variety of products among them." (Several are pictured with this post, but there are more included on the Hendrix Facebook page.)
