

Department of Educational Support Services
Arts in Education

Spotlight: Ball in the House

* NEW VENDOR ****

Get ready for high-energy R&B, Soul, and Pop, all a cappella!

Boston-based Ball in the House has wowed audiences worldwide with powerhouse vocals and interactive performances that get everyone singing, dancing, and beatboxing along.

An unforgettable show of music, harmony, and pure fun!

And Now I See: Race, Racism and American Music:

Celebrate the rich tapestry of African American music, from Spirituals and Gospel to Jazz, Soul, Hip-Hop, and R&B.

Explore the origins, evolution, and cultural impact of each genre, discovering how these powerful styles have shaped music across generations.

Examine the impact of racism on musical expression and artists, while honoring the immense contributions and influence of African American musicians throughout history.

Totally Vocally:

Through a mix of contemporary and classic covers, plus original songs, Ball in the House (BitH) brings music to life while teaching the art and science of performance!

Discover what a cappella is and how it works, explore the technology behind a sound system, hear how different voice parts blend to create harmony, learn the basics of beatboxing and rhythm, experience the history of a cappella from chant to doo-wop, get introduced to songwriting and collaboration, and engage directly with the performers.

Highlights teamwork, showing how to work together, both as people and as voices to create their signature sound. Through fun stories and relatable experiences about peer pressure and persistence, to get involved and stay involved in the arts!

Details including contact information & pricing can be found along with similar programs in the Eastern Suffolk BOCES Arts-In Education online catalogue: artsined.esboces.org

631.286.6989