A. Describe how the LEA will use Title III, Part A funds to supplement English Language Proficiency activities within the English Learner student population. Include the data sources used to determine the need for the funded activities.

ELL students receive additional push-in support for reading beginning in kindergarten (or upon classification as LY) with listening and speaking assistance through small group interventions. All teachers and paraprofessionals, including ELL specific staff, are charged with providing additional support to ELL students using strategies to target language acquisition, reading, speaking, writing, and listening skills. ELL staff receive professional development through the Instructional Services Department and the ELL Coordinator. FAST and WIDA data show that LY students are not scoring as high as their peers and additional help in the classroom is needed for these students. Title III funds will be used for the purpose of helping the students achieve English language proficiency. Tutoring: ELL students receive additional push-in support in reading, beginning at kindergarten (or upon classification as LY), with listening and speaking assistance through additional small group interventions. The support will continue as students progress to the point of reading comprehension appropriate for every student performing at grade level. All teachers of ELLs and paraprofessionals including ESOL-specific paras, are charged with providing additional support to the students either in their classroom work or to assist the students in using computer programs designed to provide targeted tutoring and language acquisition. Tutors receive professional development through the District ESOL Coordinator and/or the Department of Instructional Services.

ESOL Classes at the Secondary Level: Three class periods have been set at the middle school and three classes have been scheduled at the high school specifically for those LYs with less than 2 years in a US school. These classes, scheduled for elective credit, will focus on the

Area of Focus 2: Supplemental Professional Learning

A. Describe how the LEA will use Title III, Part A funds to supplement professional learning for personnel responsible for serving English Learners.

The District ESOL Coordinator will present professional development that addresses the unique needs of ELL students. Throughout the year and in the summer, professional development will provide teachers district-wide with researched-based strategies for ELLs. These strategies combined with regular classroom visits with feedback will result in better student learning and comprehension of academic content as teacher will receive coaching to improve their teaching skills. Data from progress monitoring and classroom assessments are analyzed and the District ESOL Coordinator continues to work with faculty, administration, and staff to help design differentiated instruction as needed. Individual and small group instruction is provided to students based on the data from the ongoing progress monitoring and classroom visits.

Professional development will be supported by Title I and Title II funds, local funding as well as School Improvement Grants, where applicable. Title III funds are also available for ESOL professionals and other teachers of English learners to attend professional development opportunities aligned with goal of increasing English proficiency while also learning content standards; however, other federal funds will be used for ESOL before expending Title III funds as directed by grants management ELL Specialist from-FLDOE/SALA. Teachers will be provided-training in ESOL strategies, WIDA framework/ELD Standards, and ELlevation throughout the school year and in the summer, with Title III funds providing stipends for off-contract PD on behalf of ELLs. The District ESOL Coordinator and other District Academic coaches will also work with all teachers of ELLs in providing modeling, data analysis, and instructional strategies that are research-based and support vocabulary and comprehension growth for students. Teachers of ELLs are encouraged to view/attend WIDA webinars housed on www.wida.us and live webinars offered throughout the year. District staff and contracted providers will provide support for implementation and interpretation of results related to software programs. The District ESOL Coordinator will also continue to educate faculty, administration, and staff on WIDA ELD standards framework along with research-based strategies in order to provide several methods to make instruction comprehensible to English learners of all proficiency levels in all subject areas and conversational situations socially and academically ELLs' teachers along with the Academic Coaches will review WIDA's framework to assist educators in designing and implementing MTSS systems that proactively supports the instruction intervention and assessment of ELLs and will provide professional development on utilizing this tool as appropriate.

Performance Matters software (the LEA's data warehouse) will be used to disaggregate longitudinal data including WIDA ACCESS for ELLs English proficiency, high stakes state assessments, and local diagnostics/assessments data. District instructional coaches will review the data with the administration and teachers to make instructional changes as needed. The data program to manage ELLs' data, ELlevation, will allow ESOL teachers to disseminate reports and other information to the classroom teacher(s) that will provide specific instructional strategies individualized per English learner, as well as complete monitoring forms. The District ESOL Coordinator will attend the Sanibel Leadership, and other conferences and workshops, as appropriate. Other teachers of ELLs and paraprofessionals will attend WIDA trainings as available within our region as provided by FLDOE or Heartland Educational Consortium, and other conferences as appropriate as funding permits, including but not limited to Sunshine State TESOL. Attending these conferences provides valuable professional development opportunities to bring back what is learned and "train the trainer" to disperse what is learned to put it in action. Networking with language acquisition professionals from all over Florida (and possibly the entire country and many other nations at WIDA National) also promotes growth in sharing ideas that have worked elsewhere to increase achievement of ELLs.

Area of Focus 3: Parental and Community Participation
A. Describe how the LEA will address Parental and Community Participation within the English Learners student population.
The LEA will engage the parents and the community through parent engagement nights and take home activities. The LEA has survey data from the 2024-2025 school year that indicates ELL families would like more time to meet with school staff and learn about the opportunities afforded to their students and the best way to access those activities. Two parent nights will be held, one in the fall and one in the spring. Parents also indicated that they would like to help their students at home but are unsure what to help with. The take home activities will include homework help books, dual language standards based activities, and a parent guide so that families will be able to work together. Research shows that the more engaged the family is in the education of their child(ren), the greater probability there is of expedited language acquisition. The District ESOL Coordinator in coordination with the school-based ESOL professionals and designated ELL Contacts, will plan and implement a variety of opportunities for parents to learn about their child's educational programming. A strong Family Literacy component exists, instructing parents on effective strategies for improving the academic success of their child, including encouragement to develop literacy in the home language as well as English. Materials including parent guides to helping with homework (available in Spanish and English) purchased with Title III funds are distributed to families of ELLs in an effort to help their child(ren) have greater academic success.
