The PTO supported a kindergarten pumpkin patch field trip and a harvest party, and organized a treat trolley for teachers.

Movie night is planned for Friday with popcorn, licorice, water, and a hot dog cart, and a craft activity is also planned.

Sweet lees Ice cream was last Friday seemed to be a hit but the only downside is that families didn't seem to be saying they were from EOE which contributed to a lower percentage of kickback unlike other humble cow nights we made about $150 from the event The PTO is also organizing a "Spirit of Giving" event, including a hygiene drive and adopting families through the Lions Club, with a collection event on December 12th and distribution the following week.

Will have cheddar up code for donations for hygiene drive and adopt a family to ensure if someone wants to help but doesn't want to do the shopping they can donate with the code for specific needed items for the event. Donations collected December 8th-12th pickup for families would be set starting the 15th of December.

The upcoming event will feature a hot chocolate bar, snacks, and holiday card making for senior centers or military personnel. Volunteers will oversee the craft room and ensure supplies are available.

7:00 Harvest update We had a great turnout lots of trick-or-treating in the pods, We had our in-person book fair that night, which went well.

Our online book fair is still going, but we have zero orders.

Will get additional flyers out for the book fair and Liz will be adding to newsletter Harvest we had many volunteers, and the event, setup, and cleanup went smoothly.

Tearing down the things the night of and returning the next day to put them away worked nice although it was challenging to have such a big event on a school day with a short setup window.

The feedback was mostly positive, but there are areas that could have been smoother. Everyone seemed thankful that we moved the event indoors. With our donation codes open and accepting cash, it only cost us $301 to put the event on.

The next PTO meeting is scheduled for December 15th and will be held virtually Meeting adjourned at 7:19
