

The 5 Pursuits at Home

Dr. Gholdy Muhammad

Families can use them at home to nurture curiosity, identity, and critical thinking in everyday life.

IDENTITY

Children learn who they are and where they come from.

At Home Example: Share family stories, traditions, and cultural practices. Invite children to create a family tree or identity collage.

SKILLS

Children practice and strengthen abilities in reading, writing, math, communication, and problem-solving.

At Home Example: Cooking together can build math (measuring), reading (recipes), and communication (explaining steps).

INTELLECT

Children build knowledge about the world, history, and current events.

At Home Example: Read news stories together, take outings, or discuss documentaries. Ask, “What’s one new thing we learned today?”

CRITICALITY

Children learn to recognize fairness, justice, and how systems affect people differently.

At Home Example: If watching a movie, pause to ask, “Whose voice is missing?” or “Was that fair?”

JOY

Learning should spark happiness, creativity, and a sense of belonging.

At Home Example: Family game nights, art projects, or dancing to music together. Celebrate accomplishments, big or small.
