

Bolles Marks National Signing Day with 28 College Commitments

The Bolles School celebrates 28 student-athletes on National Signing Day.

The Bolles School recognized and honored 28 of its student-athletes in a signing ceremony on Wednesday, Nov. 12 as they signed letters of intent to pursue their athletic and academic futures on a collegiate level. Bolles Athletic Director Rock Pillsbury opened the ceremony, inviting coaches to introduce their respective athletes.

The bleachers in the Davis Gym at the San Jose campus were packed with friends and families, joined by Bolles faculty and coaches, as the following seniors committed to their futures:

Baseball:

Rylan Baker, University of Central Florida

Women's Basketball:

Evie Freeman, Tennessee Tech University (also track and field)

Men's Lacrosse:

Greer Boree, Yale University

Will Martell, Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University

Jayden Mitchell, Florida Institute of Technology

Ty Teschner, Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University

Cam Zielinski, Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University

Women's Lacrosse:

Anna Giordano, University of Oregon

Men's Soccer:

Hudson Drum, College of Charleston

Men's Swimming and Diving:

Ethan Bathala, Duke University

Liam Carrington, North Carolina State University

George Dovellos, Harvard University

Michael Gumino, U.S. Military Academy

Krish Jain, Columbia University

Louis Joos, Yale University

Nicholas Kwan, University of Georgia

Clay Magyar, Florida State University

Lucas Young, University of Michigan

Charles Zuhoski, Duke University

Women's Swimming and Diving:

Victoria Edgar, Princeton University

Ella Gotham, Liberty University

Marleigh Howes, McGill University

Lucero Mejia Arce, Indiana University

Riley Miller, University of Cincinnati

Ainsley Stephan, University of Wisconsin

Elizabeth Stewart, U.S. Military Academy

Women's Track and Field:

Evie Freeman, Tennessee Tech University also basketball

Terrell McCoy, University of Illinois

Women's Triathlon:

Samantha Perry, University of Denver