- Identify strangers

Essential/Guiding Question:

- What does kindness look, sound, and feel like?
- How can someone show kindness to others?
- Why is trust important in relationships?
- Why is the outcome of trust uncertain?
- What is the importance of nonverbal communication?
- What are conflict resolution skills?
- What techniques could be used to resolve a conflict?
- How could perspective help resolve a conflict?

Performance Task 4

- Students will be able to identify who is a stranger and identify ways to stay safe in their community:
 - Interactive Google Slides
 - Strangers Sort
 - Role Play Scenarios
 - Community Safety Task Cards

Stage 3: Learning Plan

Learning Opportunities/Strategies:

Understanding kindness

- Kindness diary - students will be keeping a small notebook where they will write any act of kindness that they complete. They may also write down an act of kindness that someone does to them. They will have a goal to reach for the week.
- Compliment activity - students will be split up into groups and be given strips of paper. They will write a compliment on each paper for each person in their group. The compliments will then be passed out, and the students will read them.

Exploring trust in relationships

- Healthy relationships short plays - students will be placed in groups and create a short play that will demonstrate elements of trusting relationships. In addition, they should add in examples of verbal and nonverbal communication.
- Active Listening Activity: Put students into groups of three. In each group, one student will begin by taking two minutes to tell a story. The second student should display active listening skills, like eye contact and responsive body language. Then, the second student will tell the first student the same story he or she told. Afterward, the third student should offer the second student feedback on his listening skills and ability to retell the story. Have the students switch roles until everyone has been in every role.

Stage 3: Learning Plan

Learning Opportunities/Strategies:

Digital Life 101

Students are introduced to the 24/7, social nature of digital media and technologies, and gain basic vocabulary and knowledge for discussing the media landscape.

Students watch the video “Digital Life 101 Animation,” which shows the 24/7, social nature of digital media — a change from the media consumption culture of the past. They then make similes about their digital lives and learn that because media connect us in more social and interactive ways than ever before, it is important to carry out online relationships responsibly. This lesson also serves as an assessment baseline for teachers to gain a better understanding of their students’ familiarity with digital media and vocabulary associated with digital life.

Cyberbullying: Be Upstanding

Students learn about the difference between being a passive bystander versus a brave upstander in cyberbullying situations. Students reflect on what it means to be brave and to stand up for others. They fill out the Why Care? Student Handout, create a diagram of the players involved, and generate ideas about how bystanders can become upstanders. They then identify concrete solutions for dealing with cyberbullying situations.

Safe Online Talk

While acknowledging the benefits of online talk and messaging, students consider scenarios in which they may feel uncomfortable, or may encounter inappropriate behavior on the Internet. Students first watch a short video in which teens share their rules of the road for connecting with others online. Through a guided class discussion, students then learn strategies for recognizing and responding to risky online interaction. Finally, students work in groups to rate the riskiness of several online scenarios using the Internet Traffic Light Student Handout.

Trillion Dollar Footprint

Students learn that they have a digital footprint, which can be searched, shared, and seen by a large, invisible audience. Students then learn that they can take some control over their digital footprint based on what they post

They then examine the blog posts, photos, and profiles of two fictional host applicants for a TV show called “Trillion Dollar Footprint” and decide which would make a more honest host who works well with others (Choose a Host).
