

TODDLER THREE: A Day in the Life

MORNING

Reggio invitations are a time to play and explore various centers around the classroom. Tray activities encourage independence and help us reach developmental milestones. Collaborative play spaces allow us to exercise the 6 Cs of Education: critical thinking, collaboration, communication, creativity, culture, and connectivity. During Morning Meeting, we come together for prayer and to review the flow of the day. Our SAGE Dining program provides a delicious snack that we often enjoy as a picnic outside. The playground, green space, and learning garden are extensions of the classroom where our observations enhance our play time. We also spend part of our morning learning in the Tinker Lab, a project-based learning program in a STEAM environment, and strengthening our bodies in P.E.

MID-MORNING

We love to read books, sing songs, and participate in finger plays. Somedays are reserved for "Talk Time" where practicing group conversations helps us dig deeper into project work. Throughout the week, small group time allows us to work on everything from religion to music, art and foreign language, or our emergent curriculum, which is designed by our students in collaboration with the teachers. Variety is the way to mix things up!

AFTERNOON

SAGE provides delicious meal options for lunch. We love red beans and rice, meatballs, and bang-bang chicken! At nap time, we enjoy peaceful music to help rest our hard-working bodies and minds. When we wake up, a little snack from SAGE is the perfect recharge to get us ready to pack up and prepare for dismissal or aftercare.

Learn more about our trailblazers at uanola.org!

