[Dr. Herrera] If you're wanting to be that kind of doctor that can can handle pretty much everything. If you want to be able to do hospital medicine, work in the clinic, work in the emergency room and be competent in all those areas - this is the kind of place you want to train in.	Young male doctor with fair complexion, shaved head and close cropped dark beard and mustache (Doctor Herrera) He is wearing dark blue scrubs, standing in a clinic procedure room surrounded by medical equipment Text: Chase Herrera, D O Family Medicine Rural Residency Graduate
Dr. Wynn We see from cradle to grave, and we really are passionate about that fact.	Moving up entrance to North Caddo Medical Center
In the morning working with a patient who is pregnant, by the afternoon, delivering her baby, then running down the hall	Female doctor with a fair complexion and dark hair pulled back from her face. (Doctor Wynn) She is wearing green scrubs and talking with a patient in a clinic exam room to a patient - octogenarian in their eighties. We do see a lot of kids in the clinic	Dr. Herrera and Dr. Wynn walking down the hall at North Caddo Medical Center which is a very unique thing. I think about our program up here. Seeing kids, doesn't it make us nervous like it makes a lot of other family practice doctors.	Doctor Wynn in a clinic procedure room surrounded by medical equipment Text: Deborah Wynn, M D Family Medicine Rual Residency Graduate [Dr. Herrera] The attendings here all did the residency training here,	Wall of framed photos of doctors currently on staff so they're very competent in training rural physicians. They give us a lot of autonomy and an opportunity to grow.	Doctor Wynn in a clinic room talking with an older attending as a patient looks on

We practice many different procedures that you may not practice in a in a large institution in the city. Um, you know, we don't have many specialists that you're really going to be, you know, get your medical expertise to cover those areas for your patients and be really a complete physician. [Dr. Wynn] When it comes to the residents, we work with each other most of the day, day in, day out. So we really talk to each other about everything good, everything bad, and support each other through personal and professional things. You know, we try to tell each other as soon as you come out here, we are your family. If something's wrong, tell us it's a safe place.	Doctor Wynn on camera
[Dr. Herrera] We're really given a lot of autonomy in our schedule. So we're able to help each other out, take off when we need to. You know, if we have like family events, you know, where the residents are able to cover for each other. And in go take care of what we need to ... spend time with family.	Doctor Herrera on camera
[Dr. Wynn] The staff here is more supportive than I have found anywhere else, and it really makes you feel like home. They care about you.	Doctor Wynn talking and laughing with nurses and staff in the hospital
You care about them deeply. Things that happen in your life. You're really going through life together. These years that you're here.	Doctor Wynn on camera

[Dr. Herrera] One of the perks to working out here I feel like is the staff. You really since it isn't a large hospital you get to know everybody. You get to really build a relationship with all the nurses, respiratory staff,	Doctor Herrera on camera
Even the staff in the kitchen. And it's a it's a very, very friendly and a family oriented atmosphere. You know, you always see smiling faces when you walk through these doors.	Doctor Wynn holding an energy drink and talking with staff in the dining room. She smiles and waves as she leaves.
[Dr. Wynn] Something I think is unique about our attendings. They're fairly well-rounded compared to maybe the non rural alternatives. My my direct supervisor has a farm and a butcher shop with her husband.	Doctor Wynn on camera
And then when it comes to the support staff, these men and women are watching you learn on the spot. They know that there are some things you've never done before, and they make you feel like you're the doctor.	Doctor Herrera in the emergency room staff area talking with nurses and staff as they wait to be called
That's so unique here. The level of respect makes you rise to the occasion.	Doctor Wynn on camera
[Music]	Purple background wash with gold and white L S U Health Shreveport in bottom right corner. Text: Work Life Balance
[Dr. Wynn] The way that I balance is by taking the work as as it is sometimes there's a lot. Sometimes you're coming in at middle of	Doctor Wynn on camera
the night to do an induction or you're here the whole weekend writing upward of 20 notes. But you just know that you're getting	Doctor Wynn at a computer in the resident’s room discussing a note with other staff. Doctor Herrera is working at another computer everything out of your experience and you're going to be able to rest the next three weekends out of the month and really enjoy those times to recover. Really planning your life around the ebb and the flow and letting this be a season where you make the most of the experience.	Doctor Wynn on camera

[Dr. Herrera] In med school, I really found my addiction ... my love of fishing in South Florida. So, I did ...did a lot of fishing over there. And once I came here and did a rotation,	Doctor Herrera on camera noticed the lake was there, It was definitely a bonus for me. Not saying it's the only reason we came, but it definitely helped.	Sun setting over the lake nearby the hospital
