[Dr. Tabassom] EM/FM is a combined residency program in both emergency medicine and family medicine. We split our time between the emergency department, the clinics and the wards. At the end of five years, we have the opportunity to be board certified in both emergency medicine and family medicine. We are fortunate enough to be able to have close connections with all of our faculty, in both the emergency medicine department and the family medicine department. I'm able to reach out to any one of them for either any patient questions or even outside of work. They're always available for any guidance regarding fellowships, patient care, or anything else that we may need and are never judgmental and always easy to approach. We are fortunate to have protected time for didactics from both the emergency medicine and the family medicine side. On Wednesdays, we have protected time for emergency medicine didactics. And we do not have any morning shifts scheduled that day. On Fridays we have time for family medicine, and we have no clinic. And we have protected time off from wards so we are able to attend conference.	Dr. Tabassom on camera

The combined Emergency Medicine and Family Medicine program here at LSU Health Shreveport is a unique program and is one of very few in the country. The hospital is a level one trauma center, and this ensures that we see a wide variety of pathology every single day. The faculty that I work with, along with the residents, are all extremely warm and welcoming. At the end of five years, I'm really excited to be double boarded in emergency medicine and family medicine, and I'm certain that the training I have received has prepared me well for the real world.
