Stanford Neurodiversity Project-Research Education Advocacy Camp for High School Students

Application Deadline: Thursday, April 16, 2026

Hybrid: July 6 - July 17, 2026

In-person: July 20 - July 31, 2026

Two-week summer camp for high school students!

Learn about neurodiversity advocacy, the strengths-based model, universal design principles, and more!

Hear from neurodivergent student advocates, Stanford faculty members, and guest speakers.

Collaborate on neurodiversity advocacy projects with experienced camp leaders and fellow high school students.

Create impactful advocacy projects using cutting edge technology platforms.

“I love how this camp balances education and social bonding, promoting inclusivity and making everyone (including me) feel safe and welcomed.”

“There are not any words that I can say to express how much I have learned from this camp. I have increased my knowledge, made long-lasting connections, and even understood more on neurodiversity.”
