

San Joaquin Valley Air Pollution Control District recommendations if you can see and smell smoke and see ash falling-

Taking a look at the district's air monitors, data seems to indicate there are minimal health risks but it's only because monitors detect fine particulate matter, which can't be seen by the naked eye. The danger lies in what you can see. Ash is a lot larger if you can see and smell smoke and see ash falling, treat it as a level four or five.
