

NO WORK Wednesday

Do you feel like a break in the middle of the week?
Do you get tired of a normal school day?

If you have said yes then you should sign my petition for no work Wednesday.

Every other Wednesday you would go into school but you would just hang out with your friends and do LEGO, play on i-pads (for 45 minutes max), and go out to yard at any time you want.

There would be two activities on the board that you would have to do but other than that it would be free for all with some basic rules like no murder, no fire and stuff like that.

There would be two adults at yard all the time and there would also be assigned lunch and snack times but everything else is unplanned.

There would be one book for homework but if you had not finished the activities during the day then you would get them for homework as well as the other book.

This day would make the kids a lot happier and it would also mean the teachers get a bit of a break.
