How a parent can view their student's communications

Parents can see any communication sent to or from their child on ParentSquare. Here's how you can view this information.

1. Log in to your ParentSquare account

- Go to www.parentsquare.com.

Enter the email or phone number you used to sign up, along with your password.

2. Go to your student's profile

- After logging in, look for your student's name or photo on the left side of the screen.
- Click it to open your student's profile page.

3. View your student's communications

- On your student's profile page, click the View Communication button in the top right corner.

4. See the communications sent to or from your student
You'll see three tabs with different types of communications:

- Posts (default tab):
These are all the posts sent to your student, including school-wide or class updates such as announcements or news from teachers and staff.
- Alerts and Notices:
These are alerts and notices sent directly to your student (within the last 3 weeks), such as urgent messages, attendance alerts, or reminders.
- Messages:
These direct messages have been sent to or from your student and school staff. You'll see full message threads that involve your student.

These communications are view-only, so you won't be able to respond, react, or comment directly in ParentSquare.

Note: This feature is only available when using ParentSquare on a web browser. It is not yet available in the mobile app.
