

Gaps in State Funding

The state of Washington is constitutionally responsible for fully funding the costs of basic education, but even after reforms (the McCleary "Solution") and some investments in recent legislative sessions, the state's efforts aren't keeping up with actual expenses. Washington continues to fall short of its paramount, constitutional duty to fully fund basic K-12 education. The underfunding of education through an insufficient funding model is hurting our schools, our students, our communities, and ultimately our state's future. (source: waschoolfunding.org)

Special Education

Since 2021, Shoreline has been underfunded for Special Education by:

$22 million

Utilities & Insurance

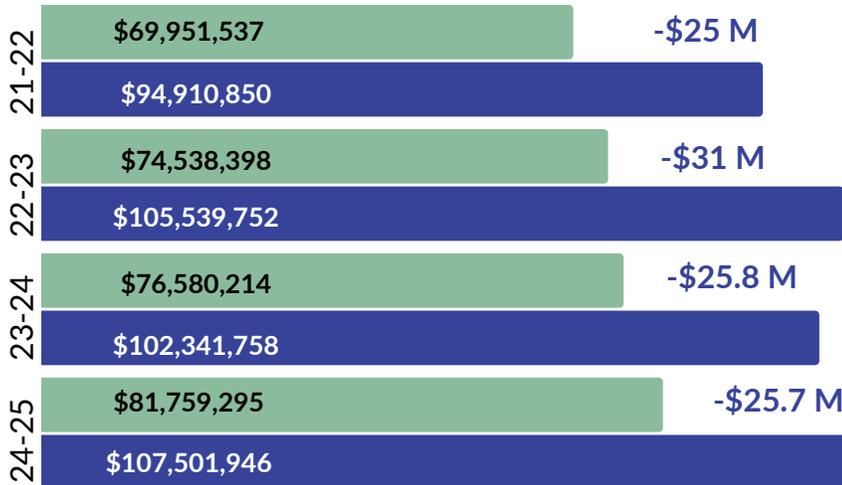

Since 2021, Shoreline has been underfunded for Utilities & Insurance by:

$6 million

Salaries & Benefits

Since 2021, Shoreline has been underfunded for Salaries & Benefits by:

$107 million

State Funding

District Expenses

Since 2021, funding gaps have cost Shoreline School District

$136 million