The committee reviewed progress to date and confirmed the bond planning process remains on schedule. The committee reviewed the bond planning timeline, noting that priority-setting and cost development will occur from January through March, draft recommendations will be shared with the community in the spring, and a final recommendation is expected to be presented to the Board in August, keeping momentum toward a potential November bond election

The meeting included an in-depth presentation from Piper Sandler, with Lauren providing an overview of General Obligation Bonds and answering questions, followed by a brief break.

Additional presentations covered the district's general fund and financial outlook, led by Superintendent Porter. Wenaha Group presented an overview of design and construction considerations in bond planning, including the differences between pre-election and post-election design work and recent comparison costs for public school projects.

Meeting adjourned at 9:02 p.m.
