January 2026

Welcome Back Students! Happy New Year, 2026!

I hope that everyone had a relaxing and festive Christmas/Holiday Break! It's that time of year once again when we all think about, talk about, or at least consider making some new year resolutions. With that in mind, I would like to offer up some suggestions, or "resolutions" parents/guardians can make together with their child/children in helping them to be as successful as possible at school. Please consider "Mr. Damrau's Study Tips for Success" when making "resolutions" (goals) with your child/children.

Mr. D's Practice/Study Tips To Support Your Child In Being A Successful Student!

Make sure your child has a quiet, well-lit place to read and/or do homework. Avoid having your child read or do homework with the television on or in places with other distractions, such as people coming and going.

Read with your child daily/nightly. Set up a daily/nightly schedule to read with your child. Speak with your child's teacher to determine an appropriate amount of time. Take turns reading.

Make sure the materials your child needs, such as paper, pencils and a dictionary, are available. Ask your child if special materials will be needed for some projects and get them in advance.

Help your child with time management. Establish a set time each day for reading, math facts practice, and/or doing homework. Make every attempt to not let your child leave reading practice/homework until just before bedtime. Think about using a weekend morning or afternoon for working on big projects, especially if the project involves getting together with classmates.

Be positive about reading, math facts review, and homework. Remind your child how important learning and school is. The attitude you express about their studies will be the attitude your child acquires.

When your child does homework/practice, mirror that practice. Show your child that the skills they are learning are related to tasks you do as an adult. If your child is reading, you read too. If your child is practicing math, balance your checkbook. Make correlations to daily life activities.

When your child asks for help, provide guidance, not answers. Giving answers means your child will not learn the material. Too much help teaches your child that when the going gets challenging, someone will do the work for him or her.

When the teacher asks that you play a role in supporting practice (reading, math facts), make every effort to help if possible. Cooperate with the teacher as best you are able. It shows your child that school and home are a team, working together for his/her benefit.

Stay informed – review classroom teacher notes, updates, and newsletters. Talk with your child's teacher. Make sure you know and understand how often reading and math facts practice should occur at home, and the purpose behind any homework.

Watch your child for signs of frustration. Let your child take a short break if he/she is having trouble keeping his/her mind on an assignment. Contact your child's teacher if/when you witness struggles with a concept or skill.

Reward progress. If your child has been successful in improving reading and math scores, celebrate that success with a special event (e.g., pizza, a walk, a trip to the park, playing a game with them) to reinforce the positive effort.

Here's to wishing everyone a happy and successful new year in 2026!

A Note from your Assistant Principal

I hope that you have all enjoyed the holidays together and are geared up for the rest of the winter season. While some things are a little different this year with our construction, I think it would be safe to say that the students have been flexible and adaptable!

A Spotlight on Libraries

By Kelly Vaver

Where can parents go to find literary resources for their children, explore unique programs, and not pay a cent? The public library! With the magic of a simple library card, kids and parents can check out books, music, movies, and so much more! Some libraries allow kids to check out board games, puzzles, and STEM kits. At the Everett Roehl Marshfield Public Library, people can reserve meeting rooms and borrow equipment such as digital talking book players and multi media projectors.

The library offers a wide variety of programming for kids, teens, and adults. Young children can participate in the “Read 1,000 Books Before Kindergarten” program where they can earn books and prizes when their parents read to them. In the summer, people of all ages can sign up for reading challenges and obtain raffle tickets for prizes. The library also offers story time, water play for toddlers, Lego nights, board game events, and teen programming. Adults can get tech help, study ancestry in the library’s genealogy room, attend gardening classes, join a book club, and more. The library also offers presentations from live musicians, authors, local dance groups, etc.

If you haven’t been to a public library lately, you’re missing out on all the fun! Stop by the Everett Roehl Marshfield Public Library or visit online at marshfieldlibrary.org.

Food Resources in Wood County

New Resource!

Our team put together this map of Food Resources in Wood County. You will find listings for food pantries, community meal sites, and more here!

The map is interactive and is meant to be used online by clicking the link, rather than just looking at the picture. When you open the map, you can click on the different locations for details like hours, contact information, and more.

Microtransit Service in Wood County

The Wood County Health Department, in partnership with Feonix Mobility Rising, are working on planning and operating a microtransit service in Wood County and the surrounding area, called Central Wisconsin Catch a Ride. Data from Wood County's most recent Community Health Assessment (CHA) identified transportation as an area of need for those in our county. With input from members of the Marshfield Chamber Foundation's Leadership Marshfield 2025 cohort, Central Wisconsin Catch a Ride was proposed. The program would be a part of Feonix Mobility Rising's nationwide network of microtransit services, designed to provide reliable and safe transportation for rural communities.

Central Wisconsin Catch a Ride will primarily focus on rides to healthcare, employment, and education — with the opportunity for basic needs rides to places like the grocery store or pharmacy as capacity allows. Rides can be booked over the phone or through an app supported by Feonix Mobility Rising at least 24 hours in advance. Rides will cost an estimated $3-5 per leg of the trip, but the fee has not yet been set. Car seats will be available for riders who have children but must be requested when booking a ride.

The program is hoping to be operational in May of 2026 but needs community support to make it happen. Donations can be made to the Marshfield Area Community Foundation page. You can also follow Central Wisconsin Catch a Ride on Facebook. If your organization is interested in donating monetary funds, in-kind resources, partnering on a rider contract, or learning more about the service, please reach out to cwcatcharide@gmail.com.

Grinch Day Fun

Students had fun when the Grinch popped into classrooms to make some mischief one Friday in December to celebrate the upcoming holidays.

Maybe Christmas
doesn't come from a store.
Maybe Christmas,
perhaps, means
a little bit more.

Winter Concert

MINTEL CONCERT

1st and 3rd grade students performed winter concerts at a new venue this year due to construction. Also, thank you parents for being so understanding of the changes this year.

REMINDER: Please have your child(ren) bring all their snow gear to school after winter break, the cold weather is here to stay and children will go out at recess whenever the temperature is 0 and above.
