Mrs. Bergh,
 I've really
 been a fun year.
 You're my favorite teacher. I haven't had so much fun
 in your class as I did to see you in the summer.
 Love

Mrs. Bergh,
 Hope see you next year. I think your
 one of the nicest teachers around. Have fun and take good care
 of your cute little baby. From your favorite classmate

Dear Dave
 I hope you have a great summer
 and I hope to see you soon.

The Reflection Of Man Through Time

The years an individual spends in school are the basis for his life. Each individual leaves with a different set of values and talents, and determines his course by them. For the remainder of his life he will reflect back on the experiences of his past and re-evaluate actions and results, each time seeking out a better way.

The purpose of a yearbook is to record as many facets of our school life as space will allow, for each of these facets becomes a part of the basis from which we direct our lives. The excitement of an assembly, the friendships we find and take with us, even the effort we put into school assignments, all the memories we gain are invaluable. A yearbook must capture the memory of those experiences in words and pictures.

The CAIRN Staff put a special effort into that purpose, because we feel that a student should be able to see, from year to year, where they have gone and where they intend to go, as individuals, and as an entire student body.

We give you, the inhabitants of Timberline,
The 1973 CAIRN

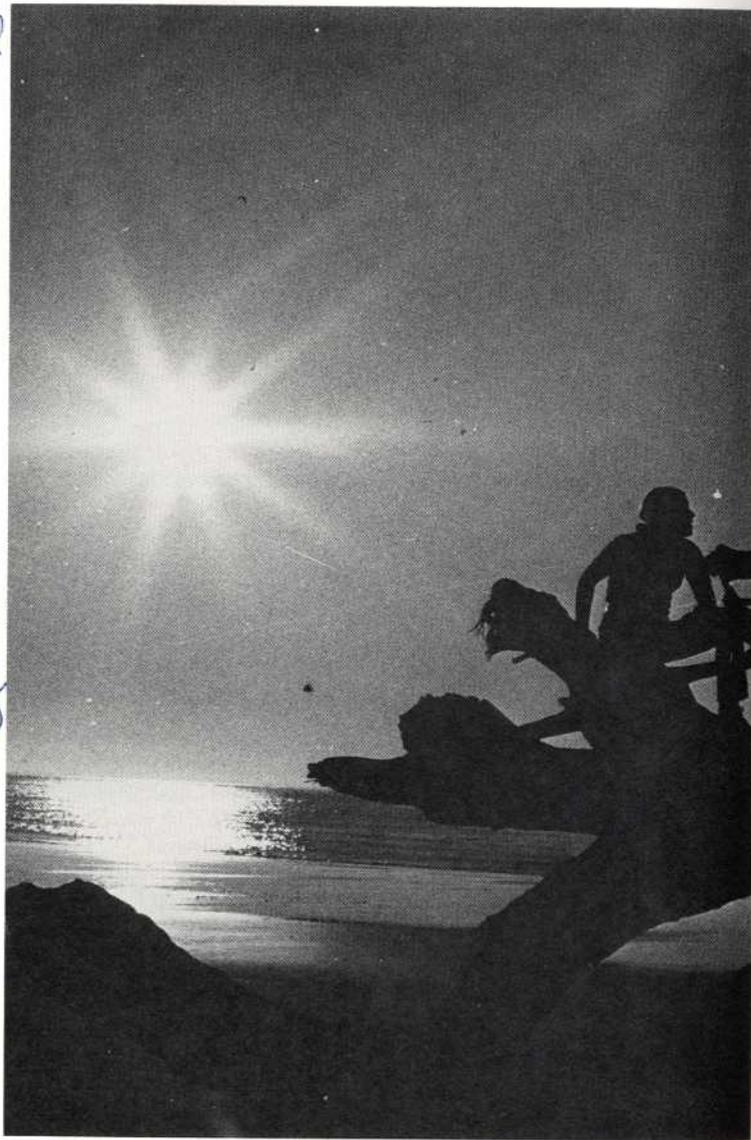

The symbol you see in the background was designed as a graphic illustration of the theme of this year's edition: "The Reflection of Man Through Time." We would like to thank Mr. Jim Horn and Scott Rockwell for their creative efforts in developing it.

now, right,

This page seems like the best page to write on. Reflections is what I look back on to remember all the things we did in class, our sewing experiences and my fast shirt that you helped me so much with, then our happenings that came with nutrition, and then watching ^{you} ~~keep~~ the owners from blowing up. I don't have very many teachers that I feel close to but I feel very close to you. Thank you for the pick up down to South Sound & to the hospital. I know we gave you some hard times but you're going to think we were beautiful when you see next years freshmen. I will never forget your class or your friendship and I hope I will always deserve it. You will be able to always depend on my friendship. Have a great summer and take good care of that baby of yours. What a Doll!!

Mrs. Bergh,
 I sure regret not having you for a teacher
 this year, but an advisor was still waiting to see that you are a very easy person to talk to, sometime baby I hope.
 Have patience with the

 Have a nice summer.
 Love ya,

Mrs. Bergh,
 Even though I didn't see you much this

Keep On Truckin'!

The freshman class is the first out of the blocks in the advisor-advisee rush.

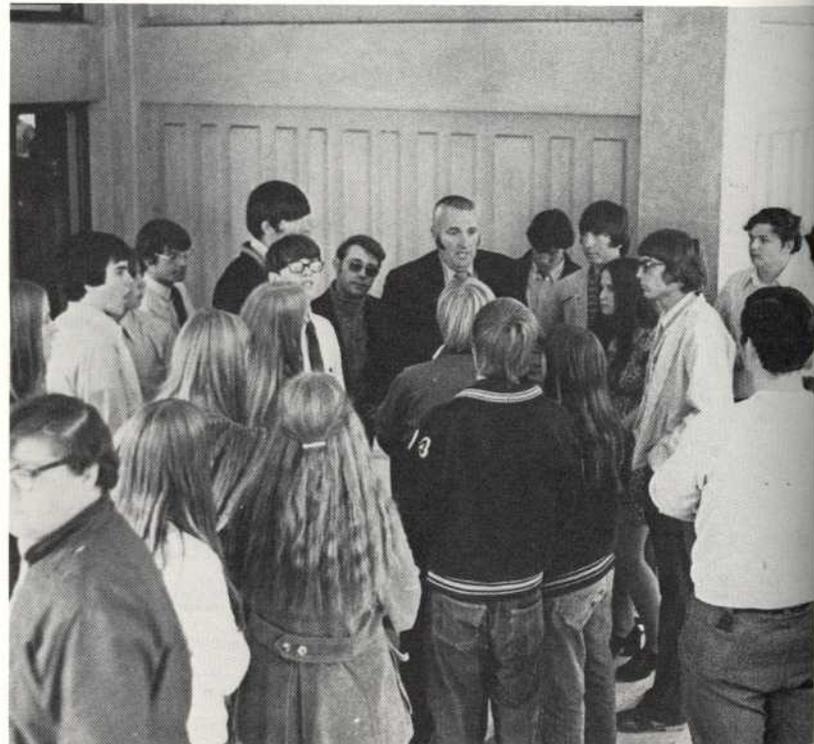

Out To Lunch

According to Webster:

Boycott: to engage in a concerted refusal to have anything to do with, usu. expression of disapproval or to force acceptance of certain conditions.

The student body chose to make progress after suffering a necessary reprimand for the irresponsible actions of a few. As a reward for the leadership shown after the boycott the students earned the go ahead on an ala-cart lunch program.

Although we face many complex struggles and feel great accomplishment as we overcome obstacles, our greatest strength is often found in something as simple as a carnival.

Simple Pleasures Are The Best

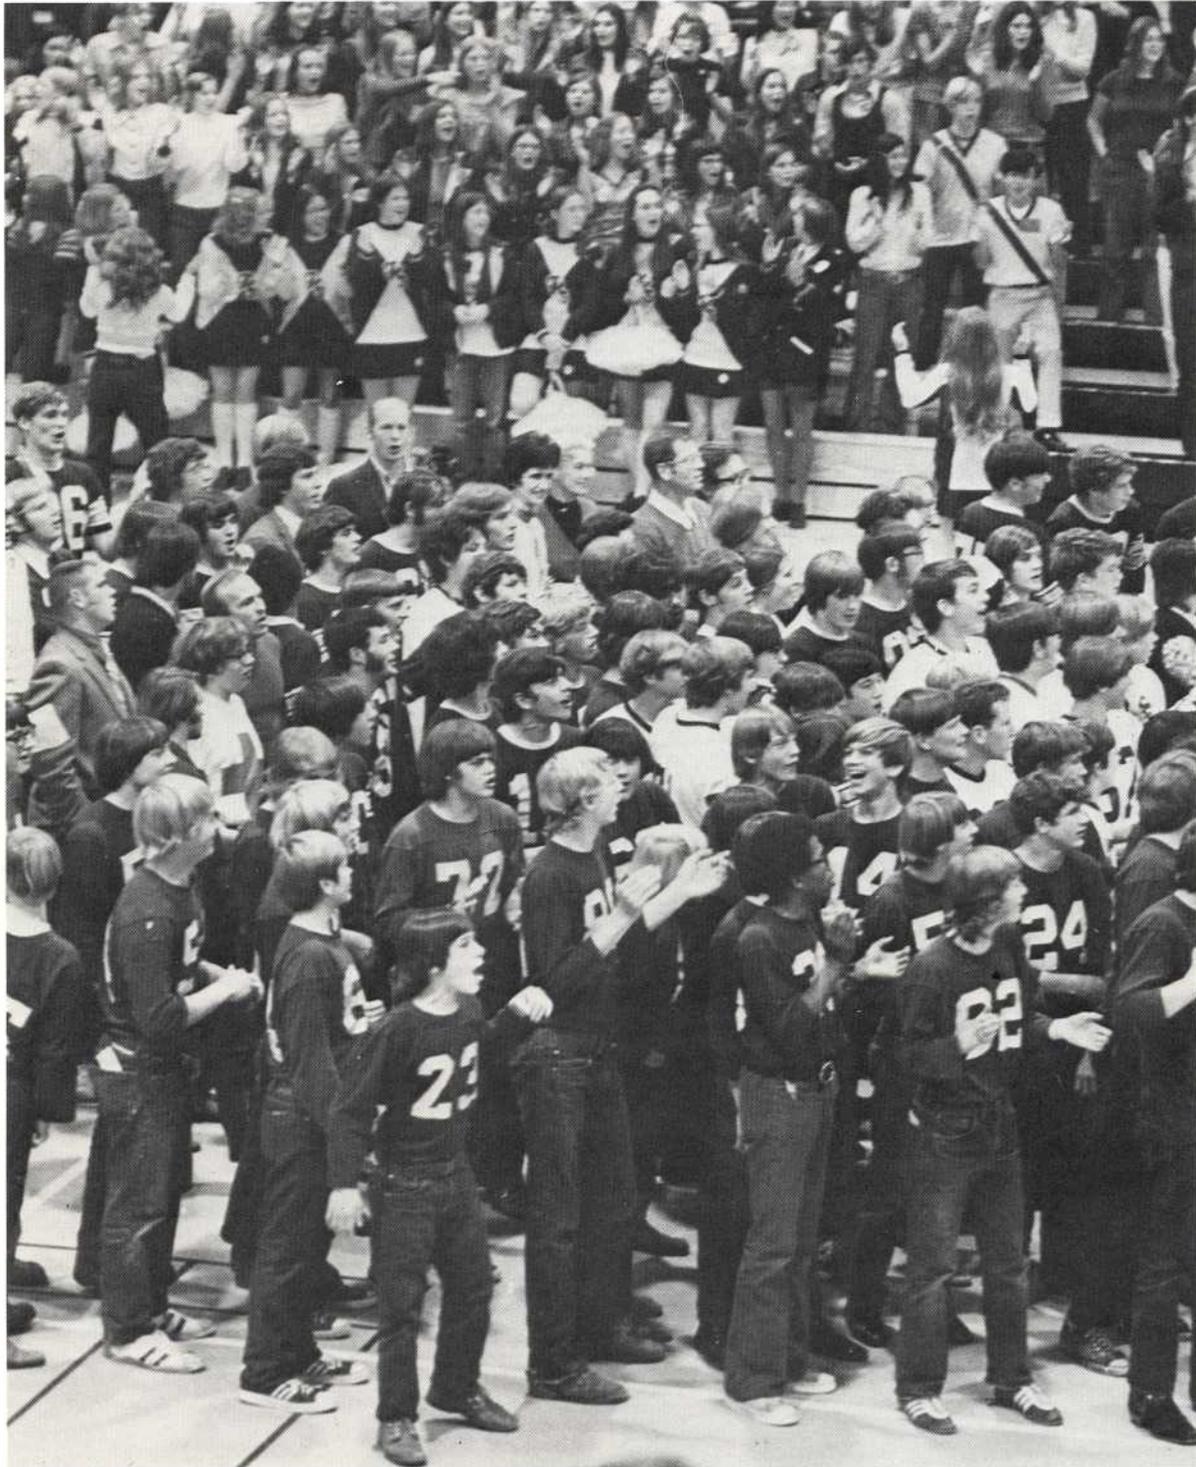

Timberline changed. A new outlook developed sometime during the summer. New walls were erected and old paths destroyed. This could be noted in the halls and in the students. We found a new direction and began to progress. But accomplishment comes through a process of trial and error, so progress came to us through struggle.

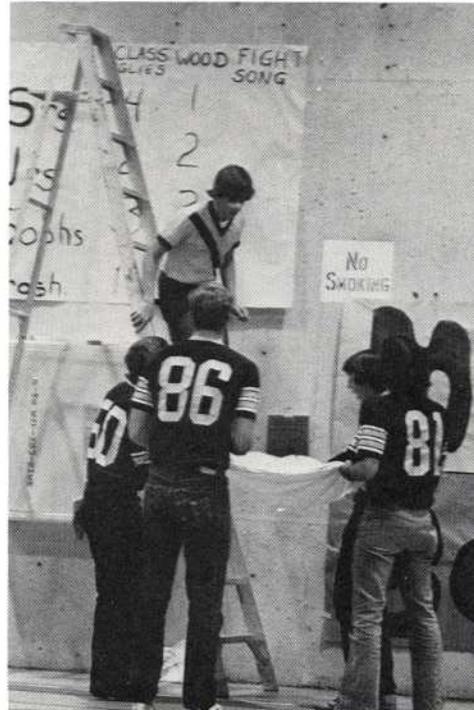

A change for the better was the instigation of the advisor-advisee program. With all the poise of an Olympic Marathon, the classes were released one by one to hunt down and secure an advisor. The program forced students to seek out the counsel of the faculty, and in turn, the faculty members were given a better opportunity to keep the students informed and involved.

So with a new direction we continue to progress and no matter what the obstacle we just gotta "Keep on Truckin'!"

We Honor Green And Gold

All hats off to Blazers,
 Cheer them on to fame.
 Fight ever on to victory,
 We're sure to win this game!
 Go Blazers, go Blazers,
 We honor green and gold.
 Fight, fight, fight, for Timberline,
 Forever brave and bold!

Spirit week, October 16-19, was a full week designed to reawaken the spirit at Timberline, brought the entire student body alive.

The fight song truly became the alma mater of the school as the football squads and teachers piled out onto the gym floor to lead the student body in half a dozen choruses.

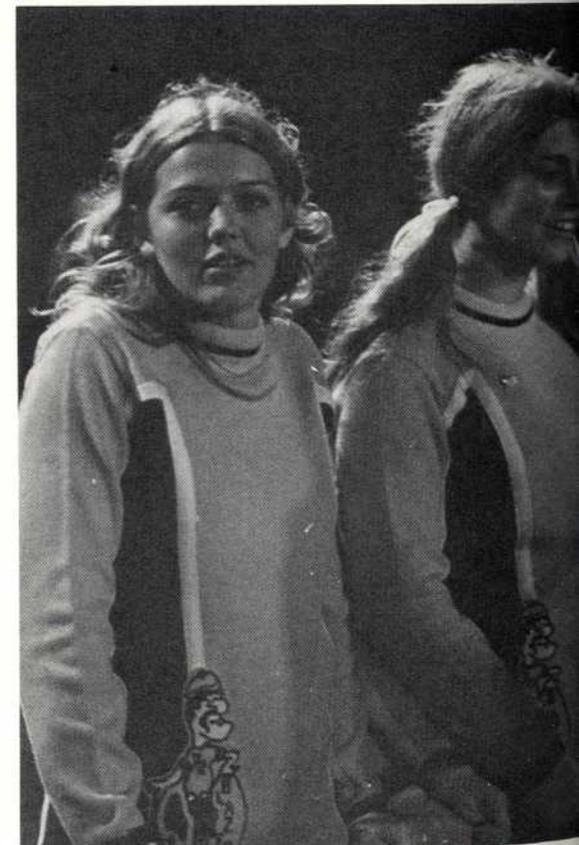

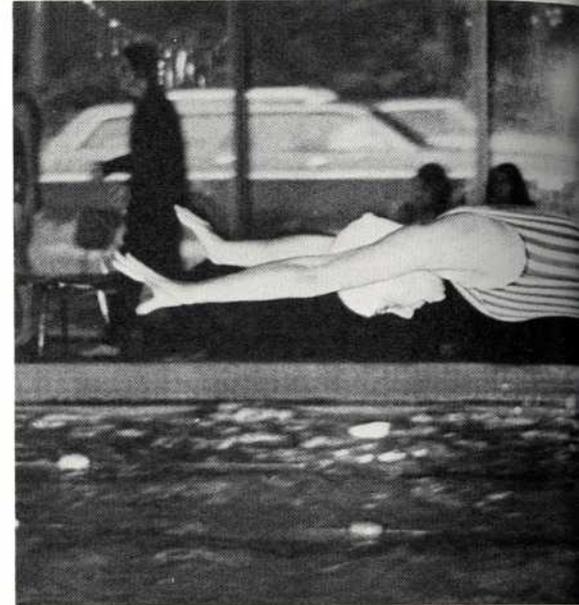

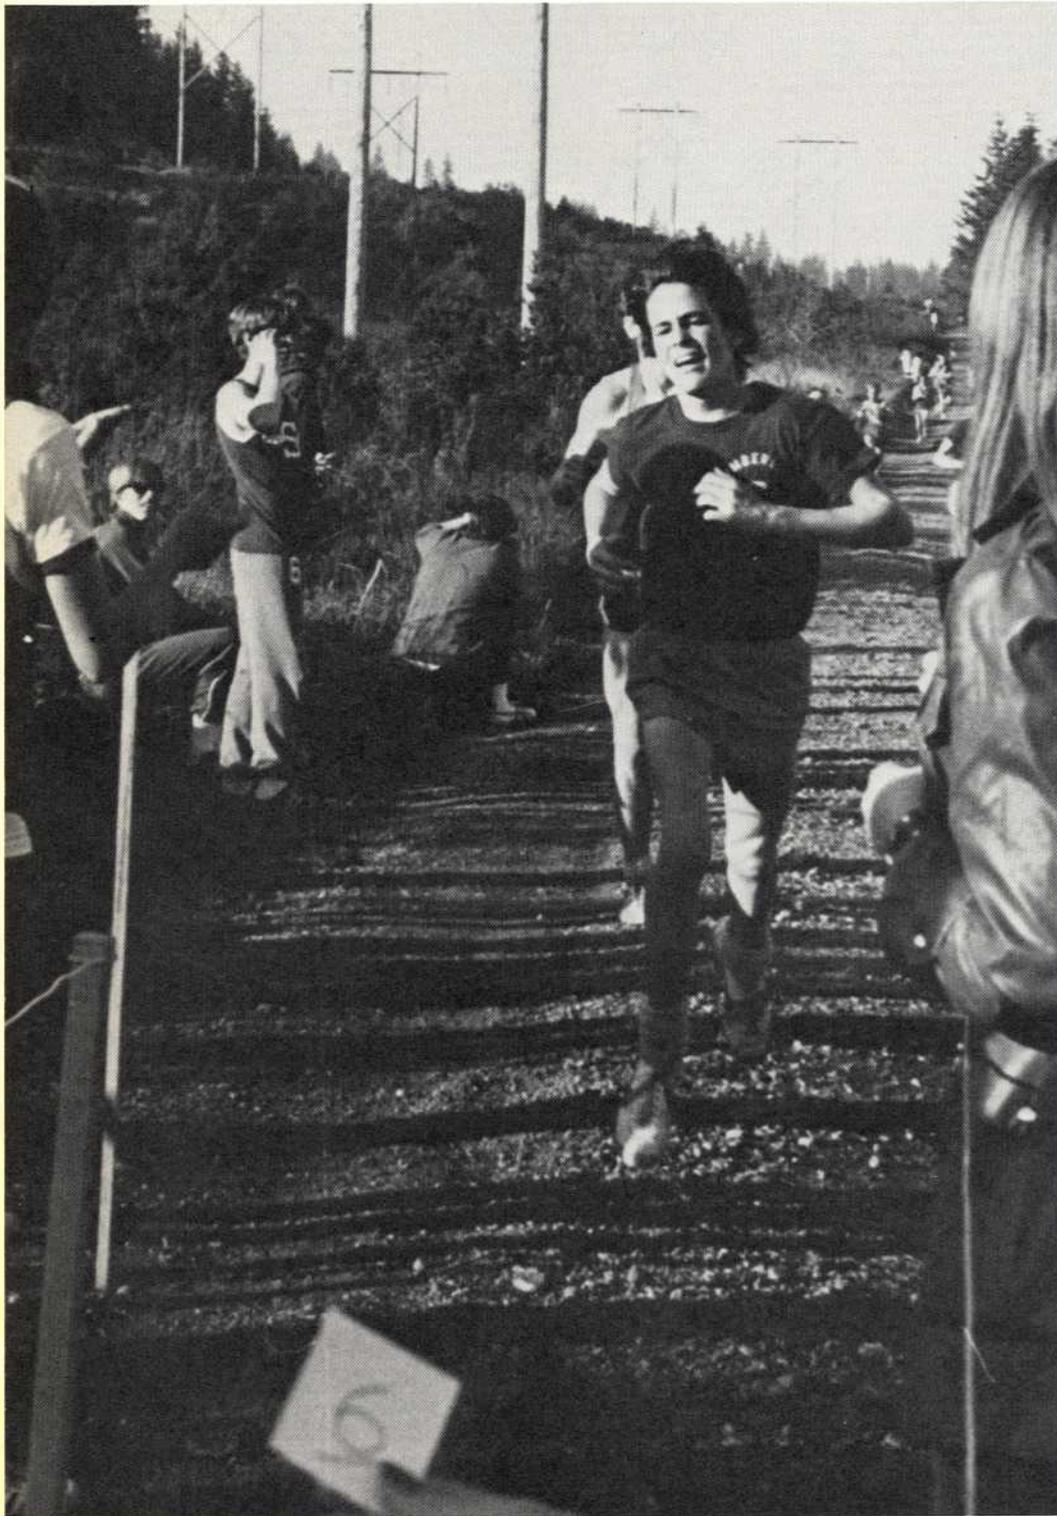

A tired but pleased cheer queen Denise Fouts said this, "I'm really happy at the outcome of spirit week. I hope the kids keep up the spirit!"

*To be determined,
to put out effort,
is to win.*

Autumn could be seen in the trees and felt in the air on the morning of August 24th, as the school year became a reality for Blazer athletes, with the opening day of the Fall Sports Season.

The usual quiet of a late summer's day was shattered by the varied sounds of coaches shaping teams from groups of individuals.

Cross Country enthusiasts had to learn the importance of perseverance, as early as the first day of turn-out. A long-distance runner knows a special kind of exhaustion, that rips at the throat and causes the legs to cry out for relief, and Coach Bykerk wasted no time in proving this.

Pep assemblies helped to start off the season, inspiring spirit for all of Timberline's activities, and maintaining interest of the students in their school.

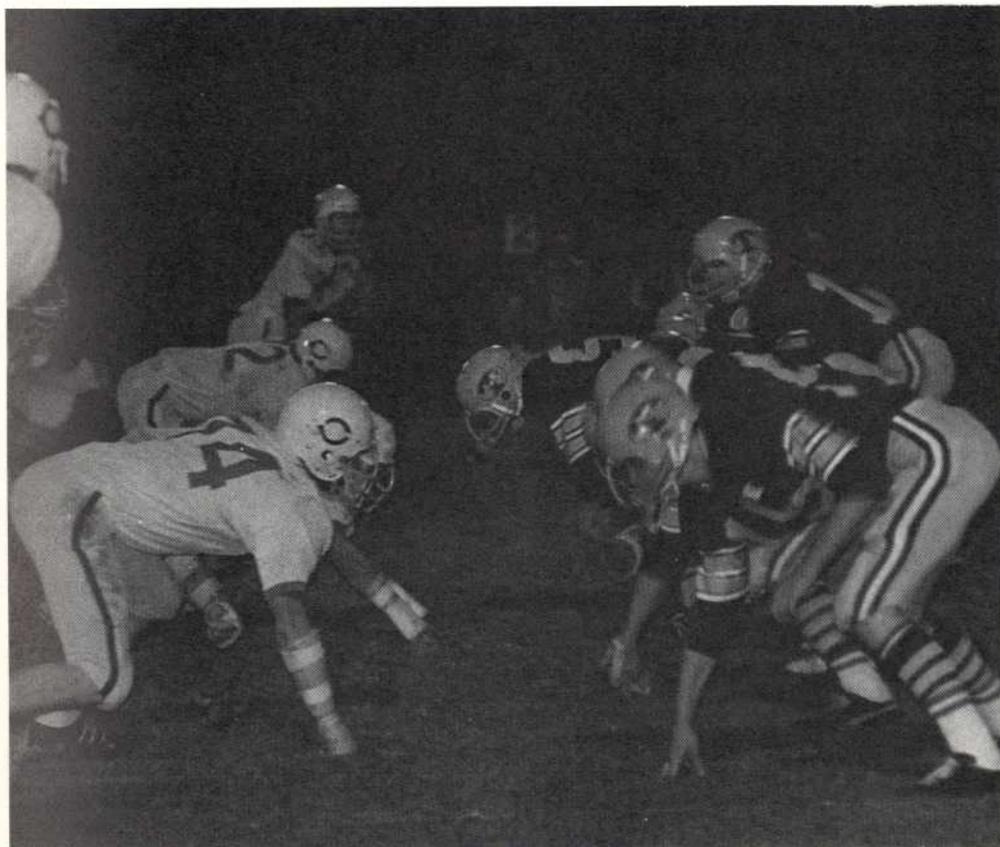

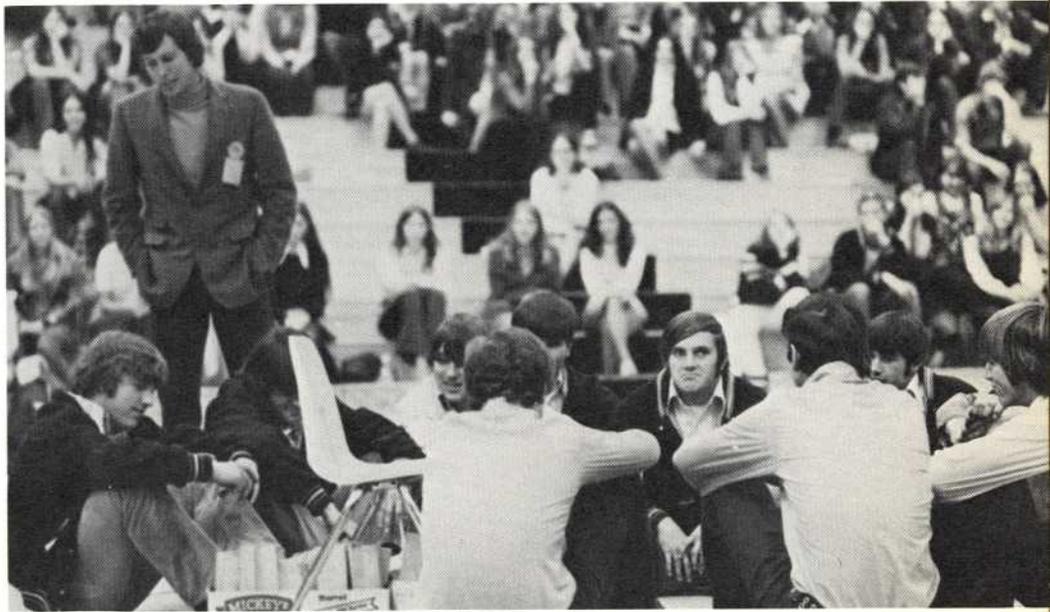

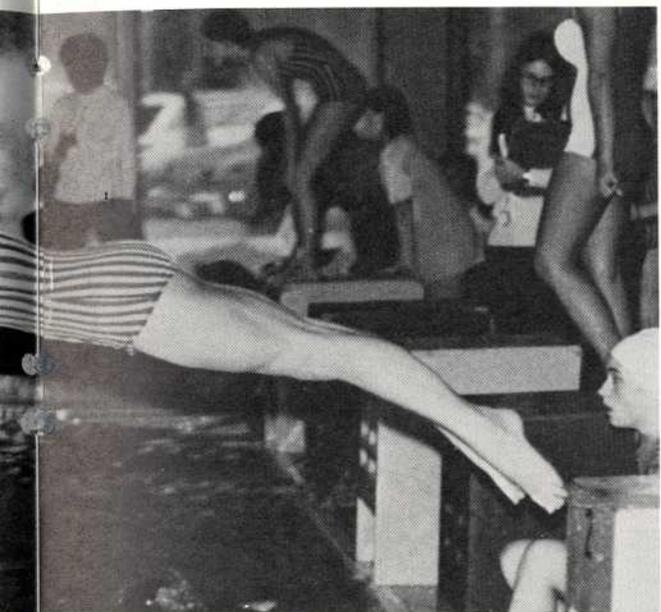

Soccer emerged at Timberline as an exciting and popular sport. Under the guidance of Charlie Randolph, the Blazer team attracted many members willing to work for the respect of other Black Hills League teams.

August gave way to September, and summer to fall, as the student body turned toward their first classes with an air of curiosity, reluctant to abandon the lazy mood of summer, but anxious to face the new school year, and to meet the fall season, a very active one for the Timberline Blazers.

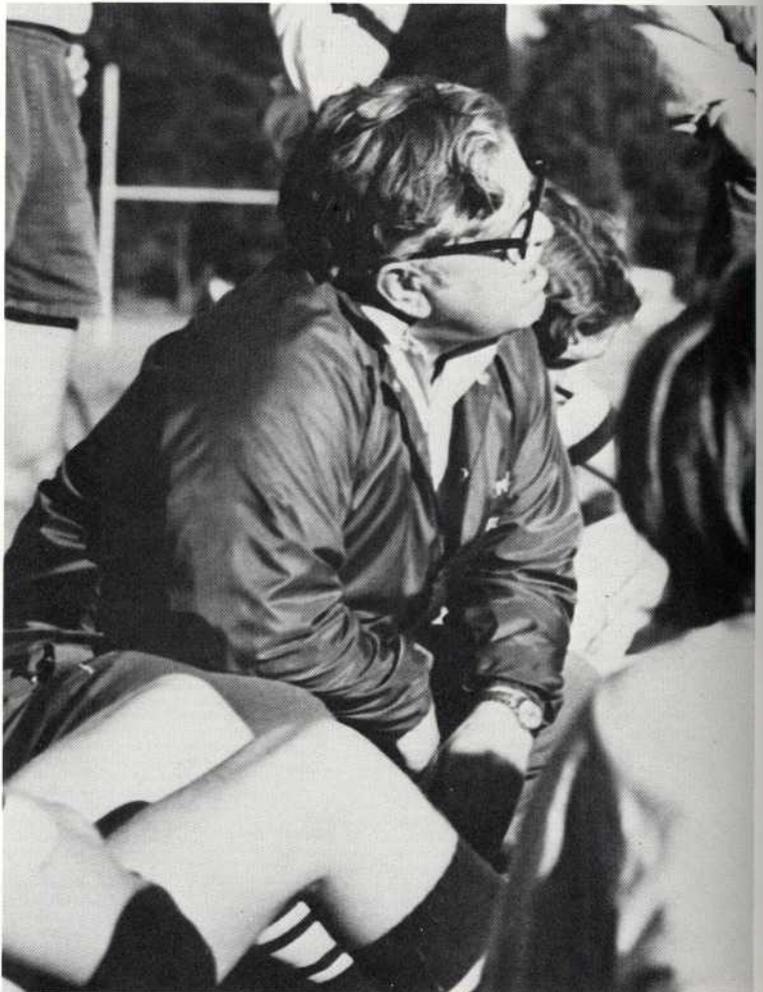

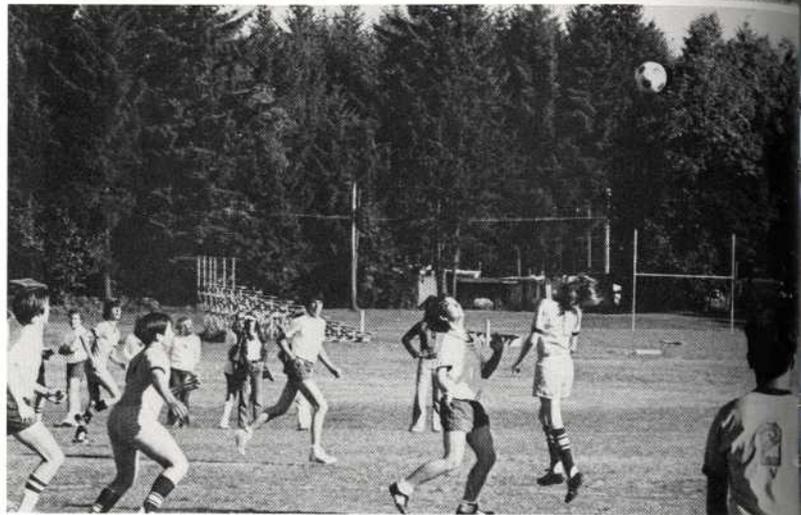

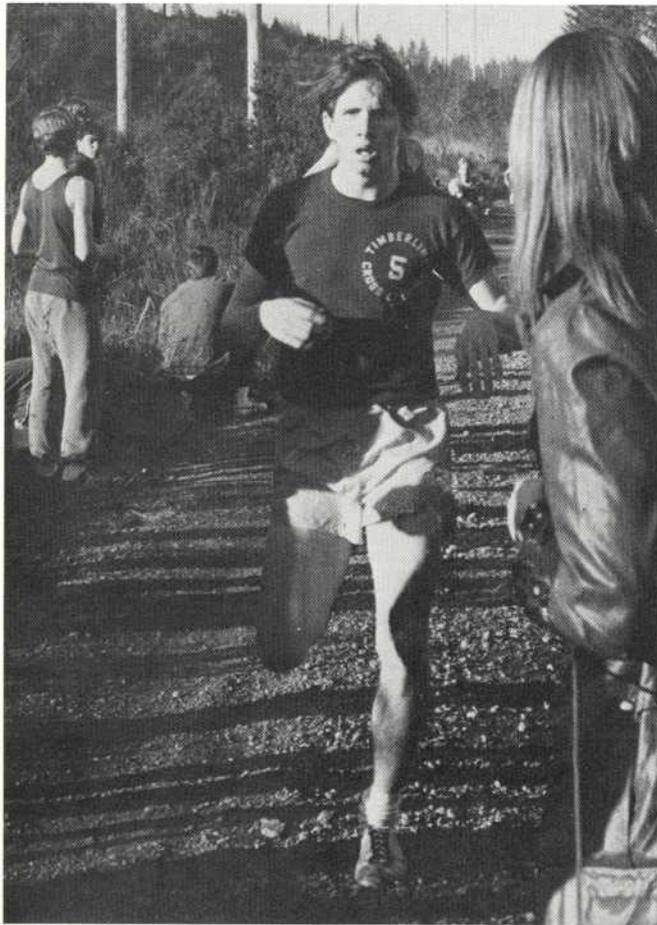

Time became the enemy of the Blazer swimmers, as they began their season of racing against the clock, against each other, and even against their own standards to better their performances. After a successful 1971 season, the team eagerly trained themselves for even tougher competition.

Spirit is an important part of any athletic event, and the Varsity Cheer Staff spent several hours daily, throughout the summer, preparing their addition to the Fall Sports Season.

The cheerleaders focused most of their attention on the Varsity Football team, which began as an assortment of individuals dreaming of personal and team victories.

“Personal Satisfaction Is Gained
As An Individual’s Potential Is Realized.”

Kicking, running, hitting the ball off the head—it's all a part of soccer. With the growing interest in this sport, Coaches Randolph and Webstad were able to recruit many players filled with enthusiasm and determined to excel.

Soccer is a high-speed game, requiring teamwork and quick thinking from its players. Complex strategies may be developed but all is lost when a team lacks unity and split-second reactions.

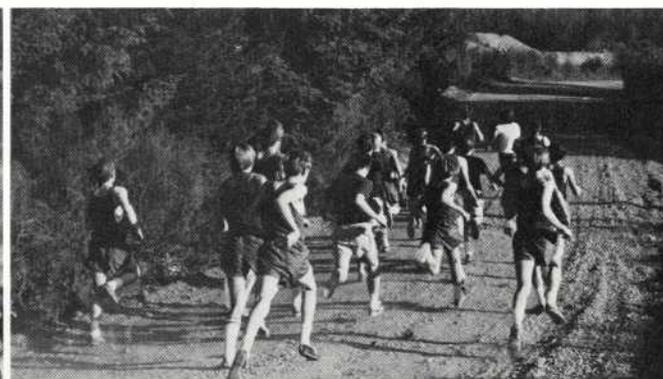

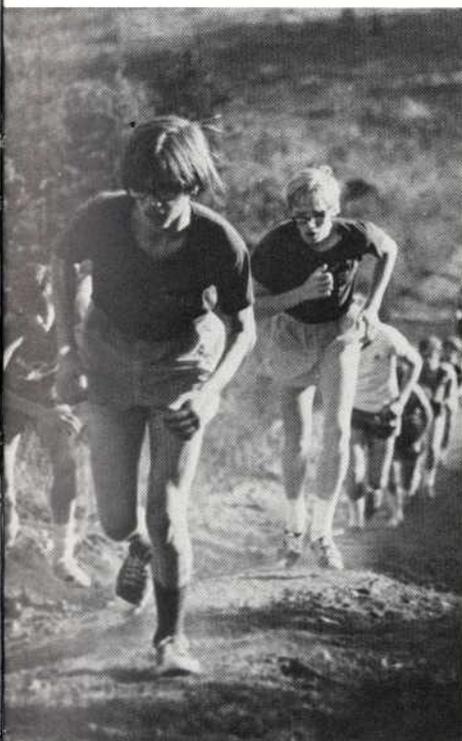

Timberline's soccer team had all these qualities, and managed to perfect their skills, enabling them to finish the season with a winning record.

Victory does not come easily in any sport, and Coach Randolph required constant dedication from his team.

A very outstanding match, and a highlight of the season, was the Jim Case Memorial match, when all profits were contributed to a local scholarship fund.

The soccer players shaped themselves into a unified group for Timberline, and proved themselves to be one of the greatest teams in the Black Hills League.

During the summer of 1972, an American, Frank Shorter, won an Olympic gold medal for marathon running.

Perhaps it was partly this man's accomplishment that inspired Timberline's Cross Country team to strive for new goals and personal victories.

After weeks of practice, when legs turn to rubber and sweat pours off the forehead to sting the eyes and mat the hair, the long distance runner receives his reward - the thrill of striding into the funnel, crossing the finish line, and receiving position number one.

The Blazer team, as a whole, received their rewards repeatedly, to finish the season with a record of ten wins and three losses.

Those victories meant enough to keep the team going, even in times of utter fatigue. It was this drive and dedication that kept the Blazers first, uphill or down, over rocks or through mud, and helped them become one of the season's most successful teams.

"Alright, Gammell, what's with the mini-bike?"

The 1972 Girls' Swim team continued on in the tradition of winners at Timberline, winning all their meets to remain undefeated for the third consecutive year.

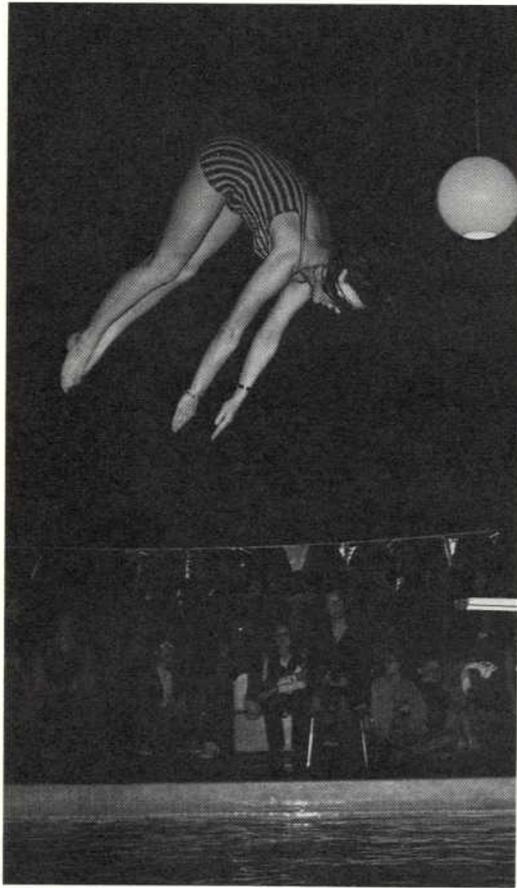

Fall came early for the swimmers, whose training began in August, and did not culminate until the week-end of November 10-12, with the state swim meet.

Excellence in swimming comes only after hours spent in the pool, and the Blazer swimmers earned their victories.

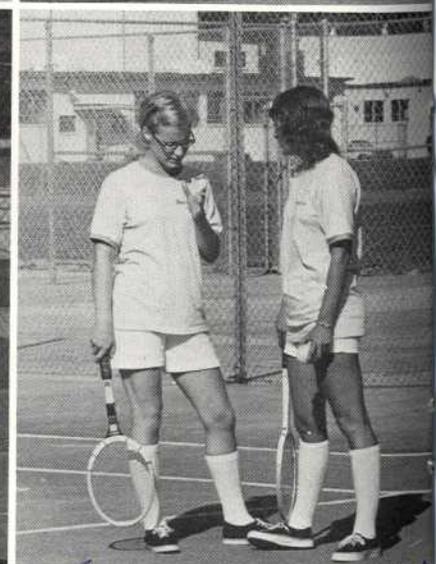

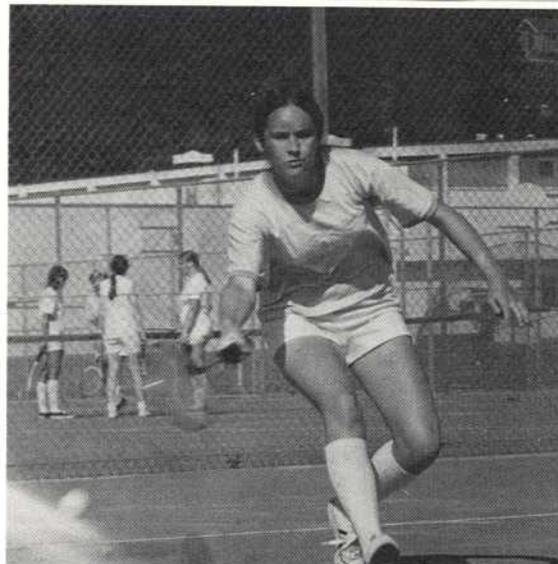

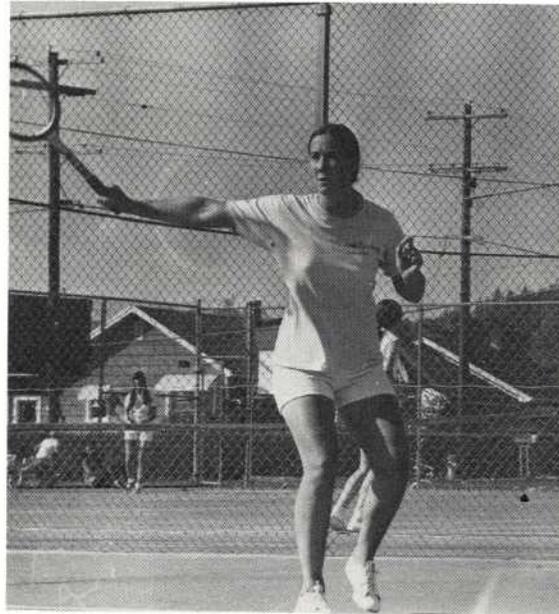

Diving is a very exacting sport which requires precise form and deep concentration. Jane Owens represented THS in the diving events, adding many points to the team's scores.

Five seniors will be sorely missed by the team next year. The team will mourn the loss of Patty Crawford, Steph Engdahl, and Chris Sheldon, their medley relay team. Gwen Horton swam as a part of the free-style relay team, and Kathy Marshall has been invaluable to the team as a manager for three years.

The final honors for the team came when they captured first place in the district meet, and placed 13th out of 38 teams in the state swim meet.

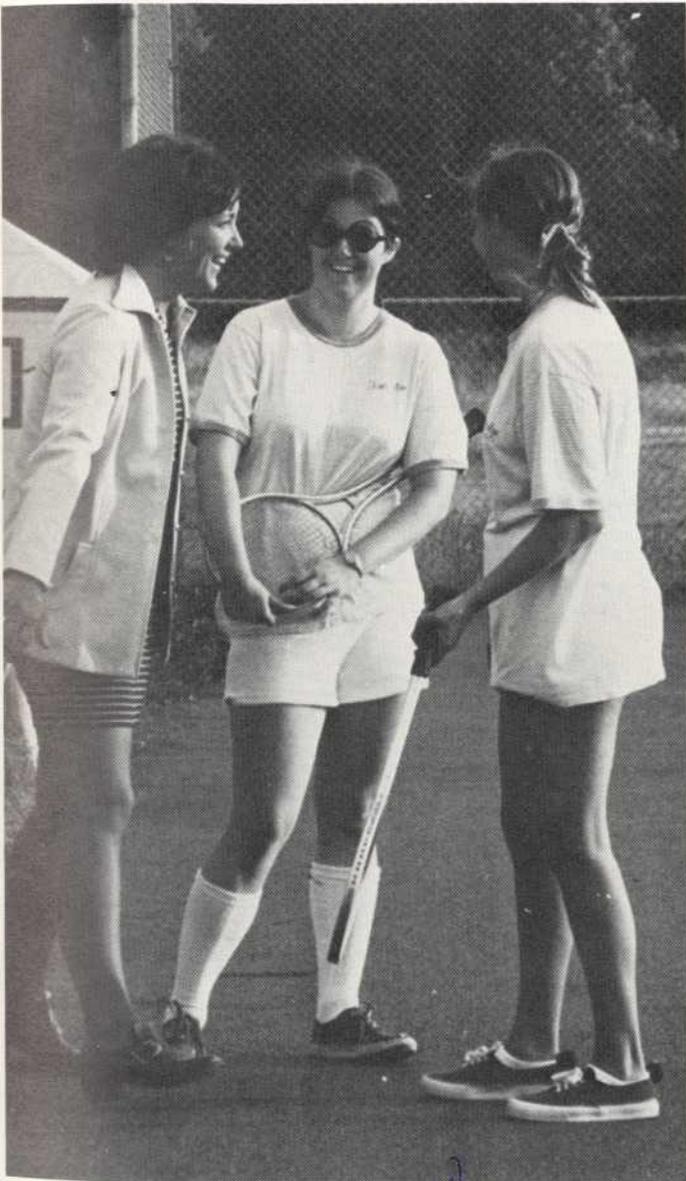

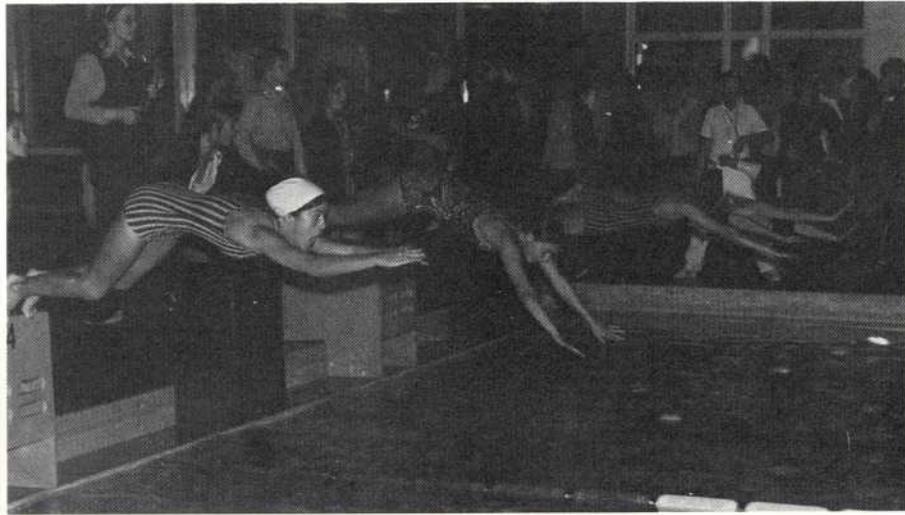

Gwen Horton knows, "Happiness is trimming 14 seconds off your time."

*Mrs. Bergh,
 Thanks for trying to help me play tennis. Thanks for all your help in sewing and everything I'll come in next year too*

Determination makes a good tennis player, and Candi Longan knows it.

Fall for the Girls' Tennis team meant hours of practice and drilling. Bad weather made it necessary to postpone many games, resulting in a schedule of up to three or four matches a week.

The dedication of the team members and the Coach, Becky Downey, was evident in many fine individual and team matches.

First doubles players, Gwen Krueger and Diana Roberts, had a fantastic season of nine wins and no losses, and were the only players on the Blazer team to be undefeated.

Tennis is played on an individual scale, but at Timberline it becomes a team sport, with everyone working together to produce a win. The team finished their league season with a 5-0 win over North Thurston, which made all the practices, the frustrations, and the pains seem very worth-while.

*and see we're though
I'm not taking home etc.
Have a fun summer.
Love
Becky Downey*

They Were League Champions

The Frosh team claimed a winning season, finishing undefeated in Black Hills League competition. Coach Fulton said of his players, "This year's team was a joy to work with. They were willing to learn and did! Their dedication to the team and the coaches was greatly appreciated. The attitudes of these young men made coaching a great pleasure and the most rewarding part of my life."

The Freshman team completed their season with a 19-0 victory over the arch-rival North Thurston. This marked the first football championship for Timberline, and established the 3-year record for freshman football as 17 wins and 1 loss.

When the Fall Sports Season began, the Varsity Football team was a rather odd assortment of talents and skills contributed by many individuals.

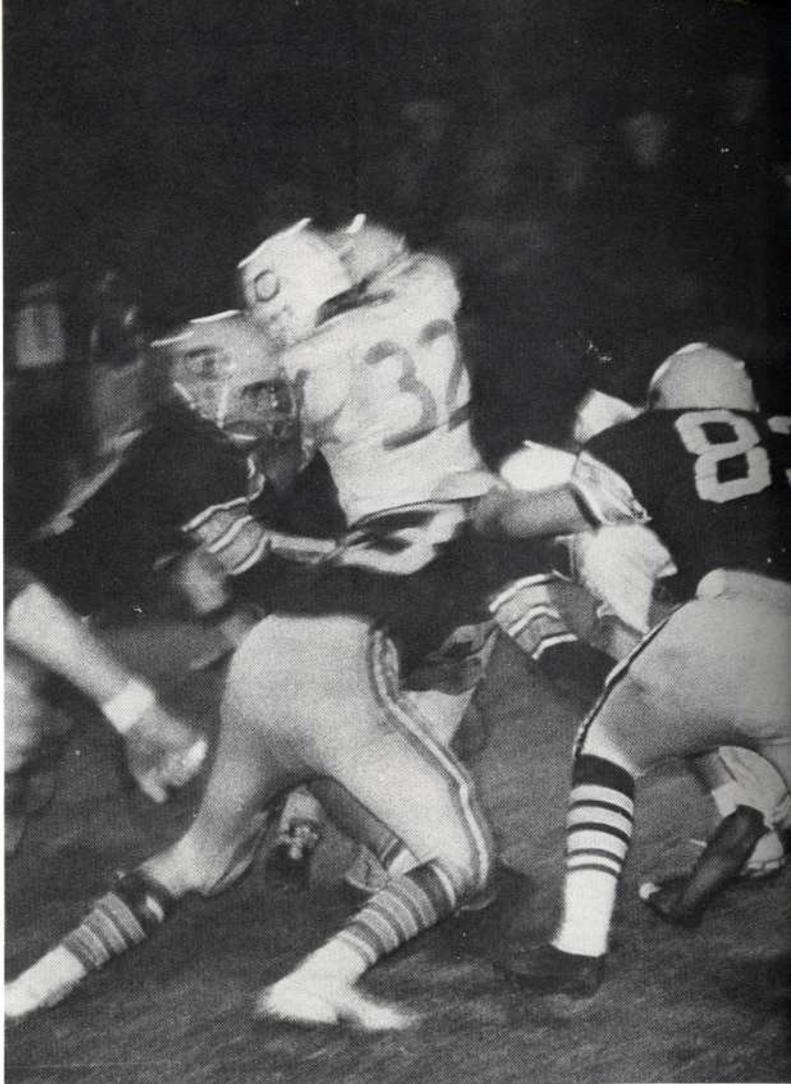

As it progressed, however, that group became a very tightly-knit team, where unity and dedication became the key words, just as the J.V. team was also based upon dedication and team pride.

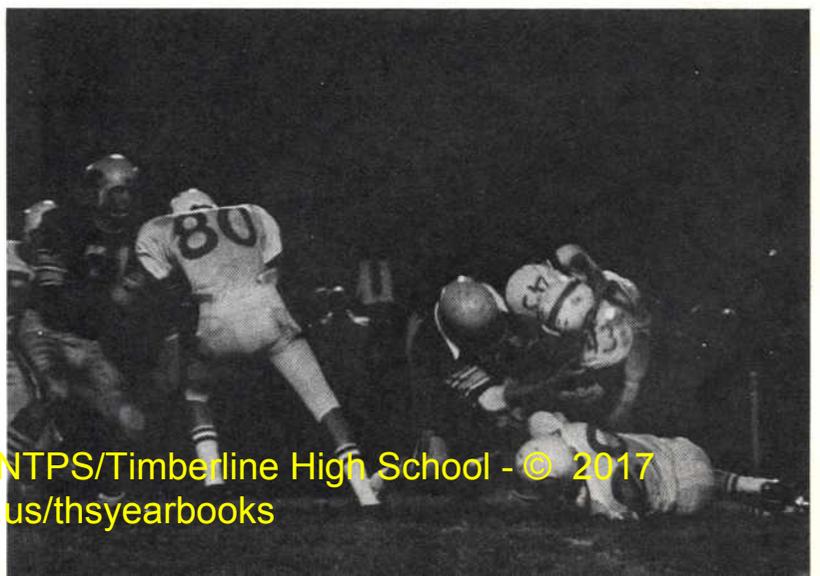

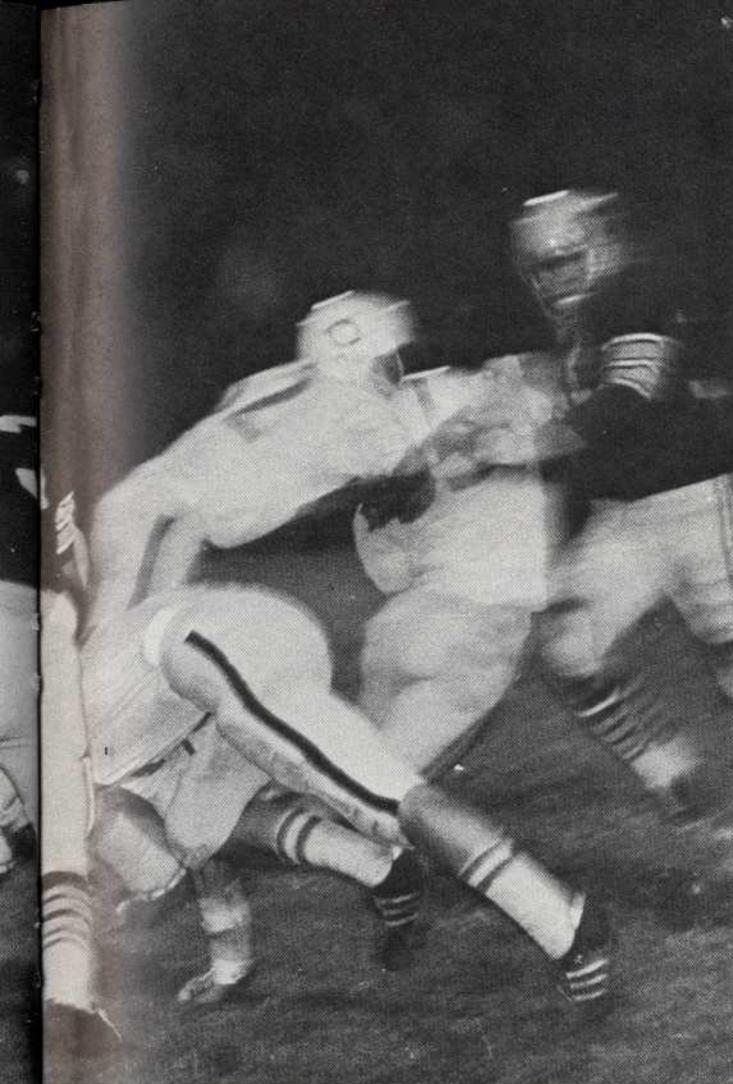

Gene Painter served as the leader for the team, displaying outstanding ability and a spirit that could never be dampened.

The Blazers wound up their season with a bang, playing an excellent game against the North Thurston Rams. During this final contest, the team was buoyed up by an exuberant crowd, for a final score of 32-21, the closest game of the season.

In addition to the Blazer team, football at THS meant half-time performances by a talented Dance Team. The Pep Band was always in the stands or on the field, providing music and adding rhythm to the school spirit, or displaying their need for uniforms.

Football season was a long one, beginning with the first falling leaves, and ending as nights were touched with the frosty breath of winter. Football meant sore muscles and incredibly tired bodies, but the rewards from this season were great, not only for the teams, but also for the student body, drawn closer together and more active in spirit.

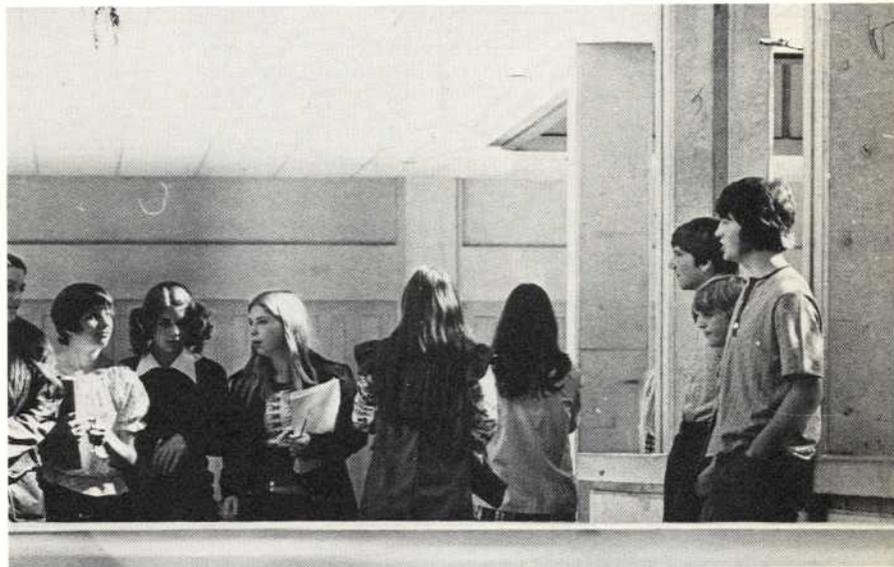

T.H.S. 1973

Three years ago, on September 8, 1970, Timberline High School opened its doors to 840 students of Freshman, Sophomore, and Junior class standings, 39 faculty members, and a number of carpenters, electricians, and plumbers.

September 5, 1972, 981 Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors came into Timberline, along with 56 faculty members. The construction workers had long since disappeared, and outside, the building looked much the same as when it won a national award for architectural excellence.

Inside, however, many changes had been made since the school's first day. Operating on a new system of education, various arrangements had to be tested, so as to use the building to its fullest potential. Permanent traffic patterns were established in 1972, designed to limit noise and distractions around class areas. New class areas were found, and partitions appeared at every turn. Definite departments were formed, and students adjusted themselves and their activities to function best within the building.

*Maybe we are less than our dream
would make us...
But that less is more than some kings would dream of.*

"If a man does not keep pace with his companions, perhaps it is because he hears a different drummer. Let him step to the music which he hears, however measured or far away."

If ever those words of Thoreau were evident, they are on our campus. With the free time our systems allow us, we have the choice of using it as study time or as leisure time. Within those two realms the students have found countless different past-times.

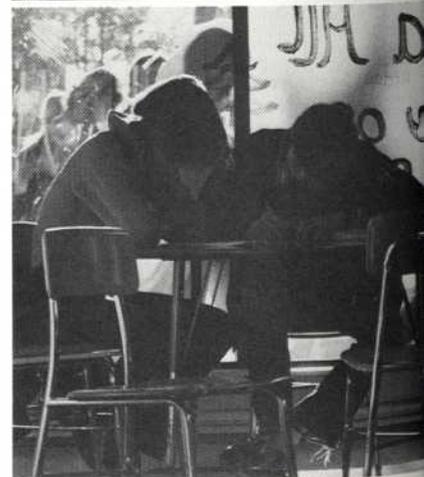

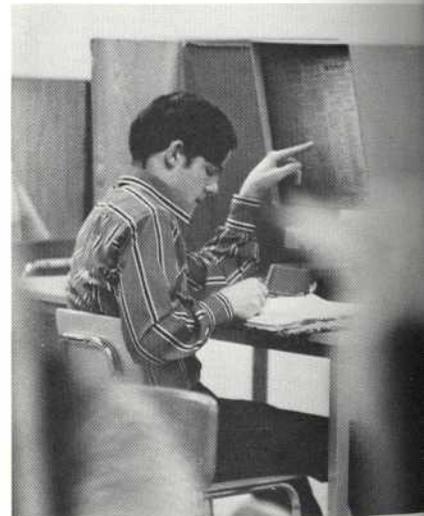

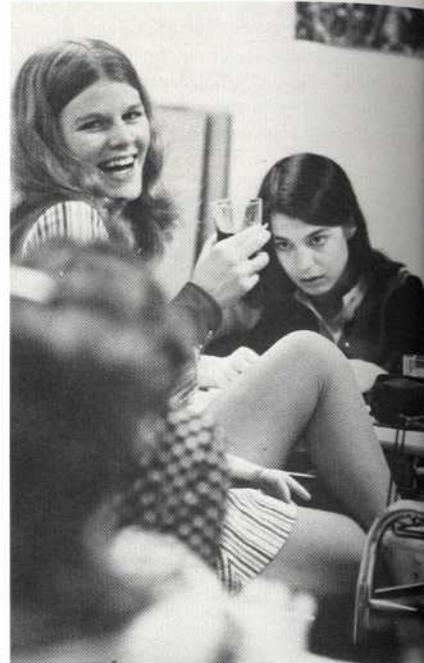

For a student wishing to study, there is a table or study carol within reach anywhere in the academic building. Although noise levels are often distracting or not conducive to study, the average T.H.S. student can ignore the distraction. As a last resort for the discriminatory scholar, the library is always available. Miss Pat Delateur, Mrs. Mary Lou Rakowitz, and Mrs. Rita Davis have seen to the maintenance of a quiet atmosphere in their domain.

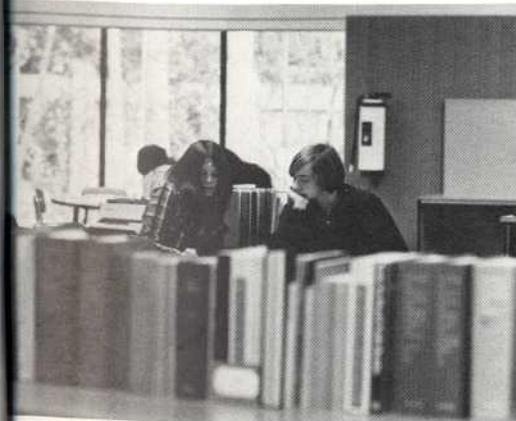

It is not really accurate to say that Timberline is a second home. The school is so full of stimuli it has a much greater potential for learning than the average home.

Many of the school's facilities have been opened to students seeking recreation. The gym and pool areas were often open to students who had free time to get a little exercise. The cafeteria and upper lounge were popular areas for socializing. During mods 7-11, the masses could be found in the cafeteria enjoying their lunches, and taking advantage of the new ala-carte program.

As resources have become available, our school facilities have expanded. Students have given both free and class time to the improvement of the atmosphere and the school. Hopefully, the student body will be aware of their efforts and the new improvements, and enjoy them to their fullest.

But one factor must constantly be taken into consideration. As we mature we seek out our own paths. As long as one does not interfere with the rightful path of another, he should be allowed, and encouraged, to seek his own direction, and helped to reach his highest possible goals - "however measured or far away."

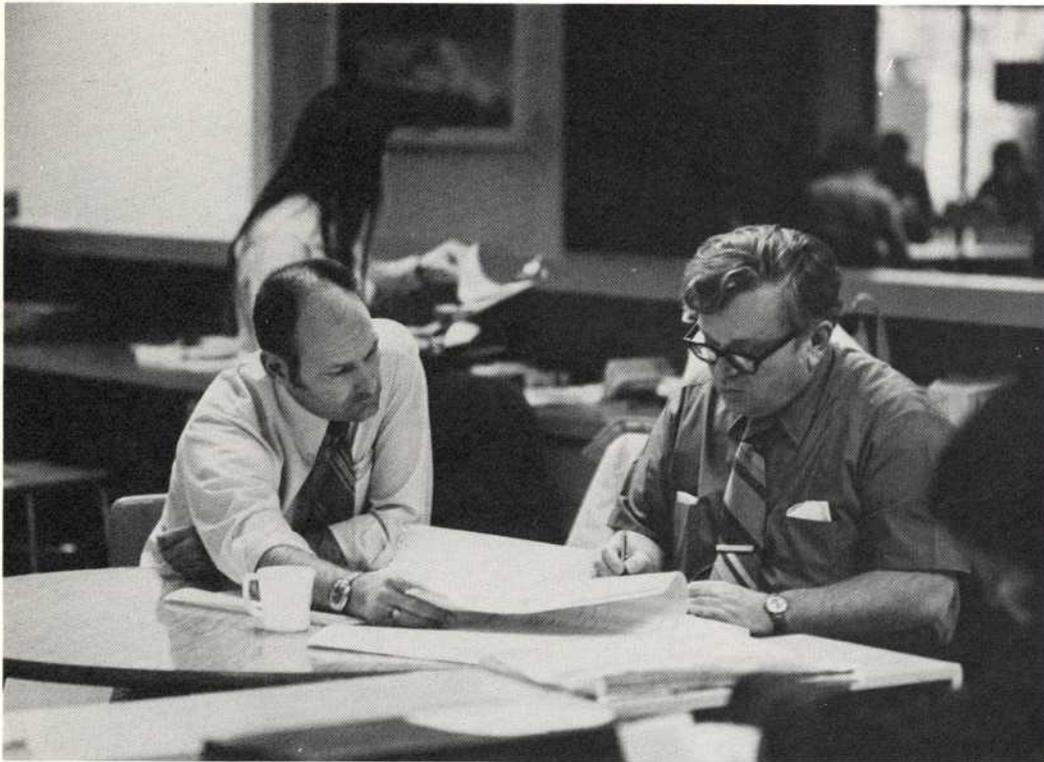

To say people can always work together is naive ...

In a community such as ours, the interactions of people and their roles is often an inevitable path to conflict. Ironically enough, communication is also the only means to overcome the conflicts that arise. As long as we use the roles assigned to us in positive ways, that is as censors to define ourselves and others more clearly, rather than walls to hide ourselves from one another, communication will continue and improve.

On the following thirty pages, each department and its subject matter, students, and faculty members involved have been explored. The section is not exclusively of the faculty members, because Timberline is not exclusively faculty. The upcoming pages are intended to cover the educational processes and the unique ways Timberline houses them.

to say that people can never work together is suicidal.

Our Office:

An isolated spot of mass confusion in the midst of all this chaos

At the heart of every well-run, highly efficient institution is a unit of people keeping the wheels moving. At Timberline the office staff has this dubious honor. They are equipped with three type writers, and each year they face miles of red tape and enough paper work to keep the nation's pulp mills operating forever. And in the midst of all this confusion, they must always have time to serve the inhabitants of Timberline, and especially the students.

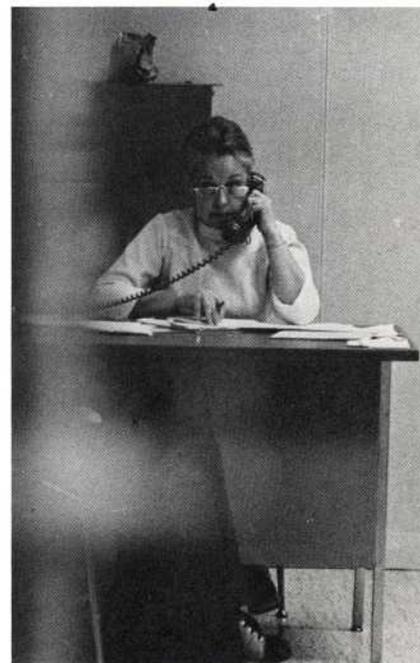

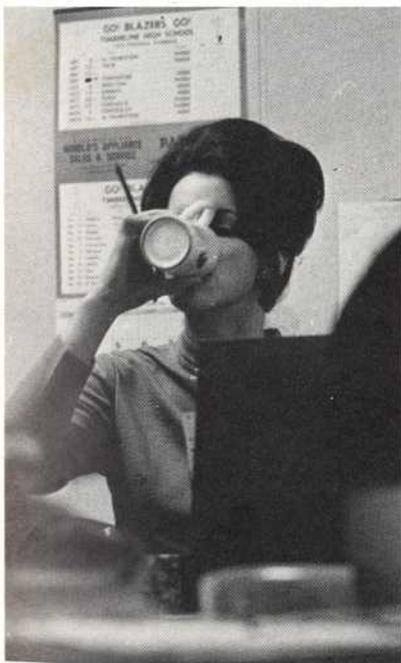

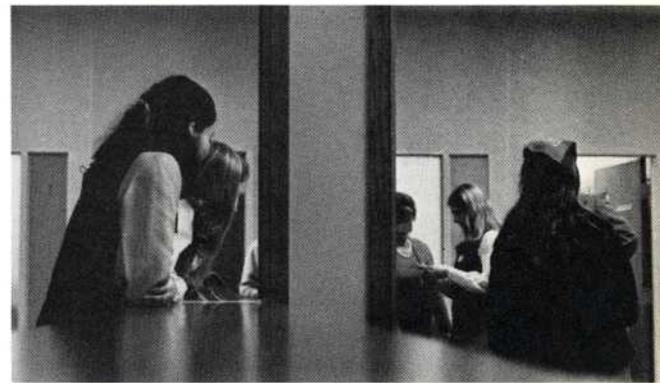

The office staff is comprised of Mr. Arthur Getchman and Mr. Woody Bozak (administration), Mrs. Evelyn Rogers, Mr. Ken Fiser, and Mr. Norm Bykerk (counselors), Miss Greta Wigren, Mrs. Vallie Peterson, and Mrs. Beverly Barnard (secretarial staff).

Also serving the students is Mrs. Dorothy Hillier, school nurse, and advisor to Medical Professions Club.

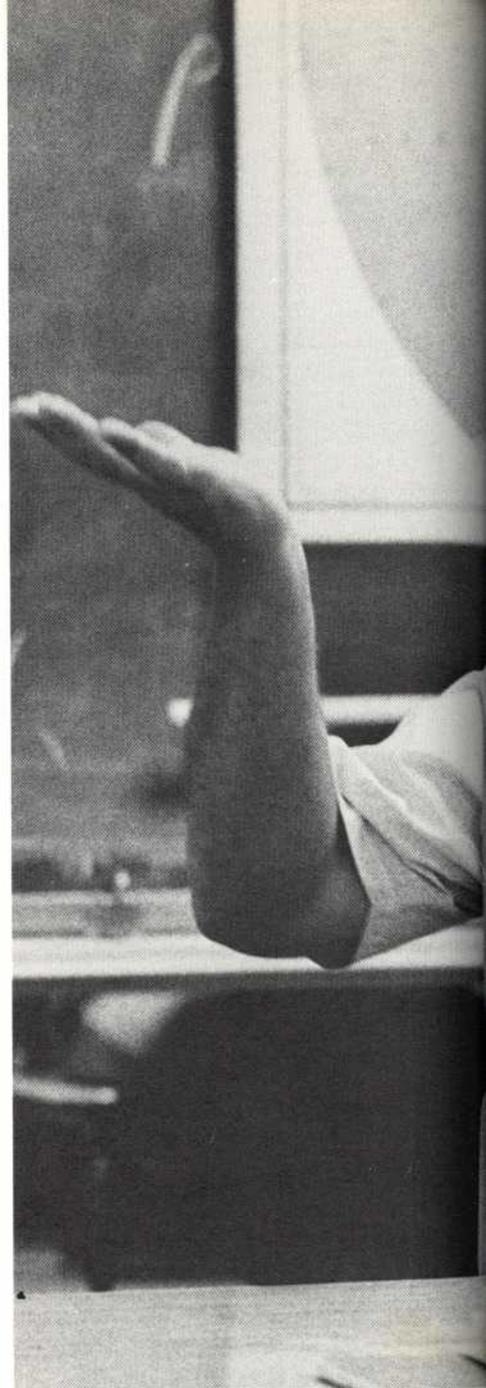

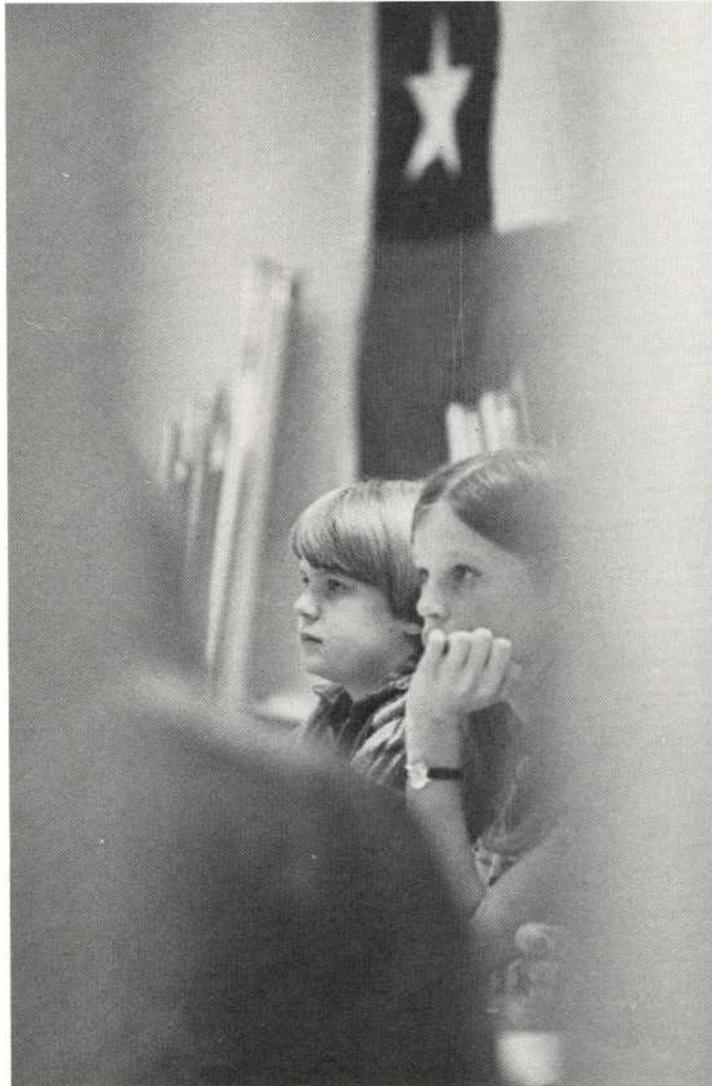

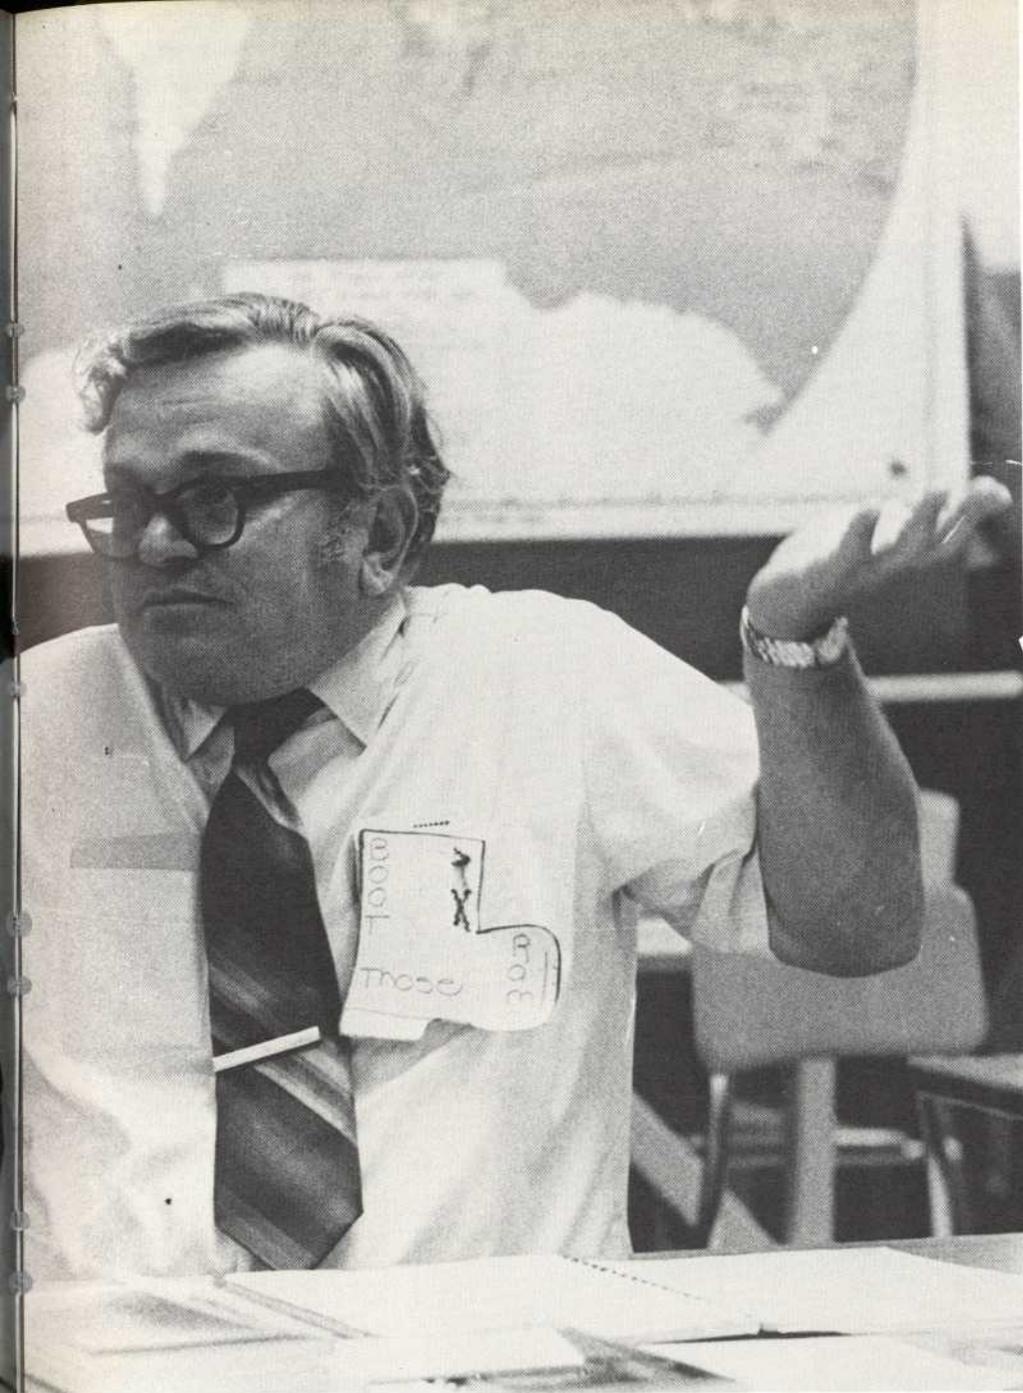

One last announcement:
Will the following people please report to Mr. Bozak some time during the day . . .

Social Scientists-

*they may not better
prepare you for life,
but they do prepare
you for a better life.*

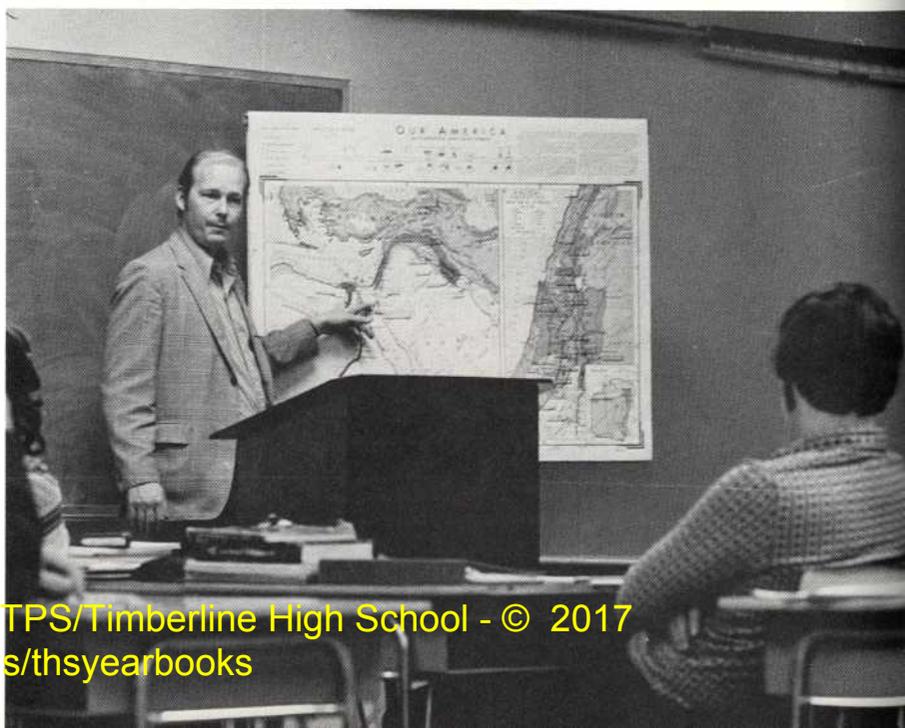

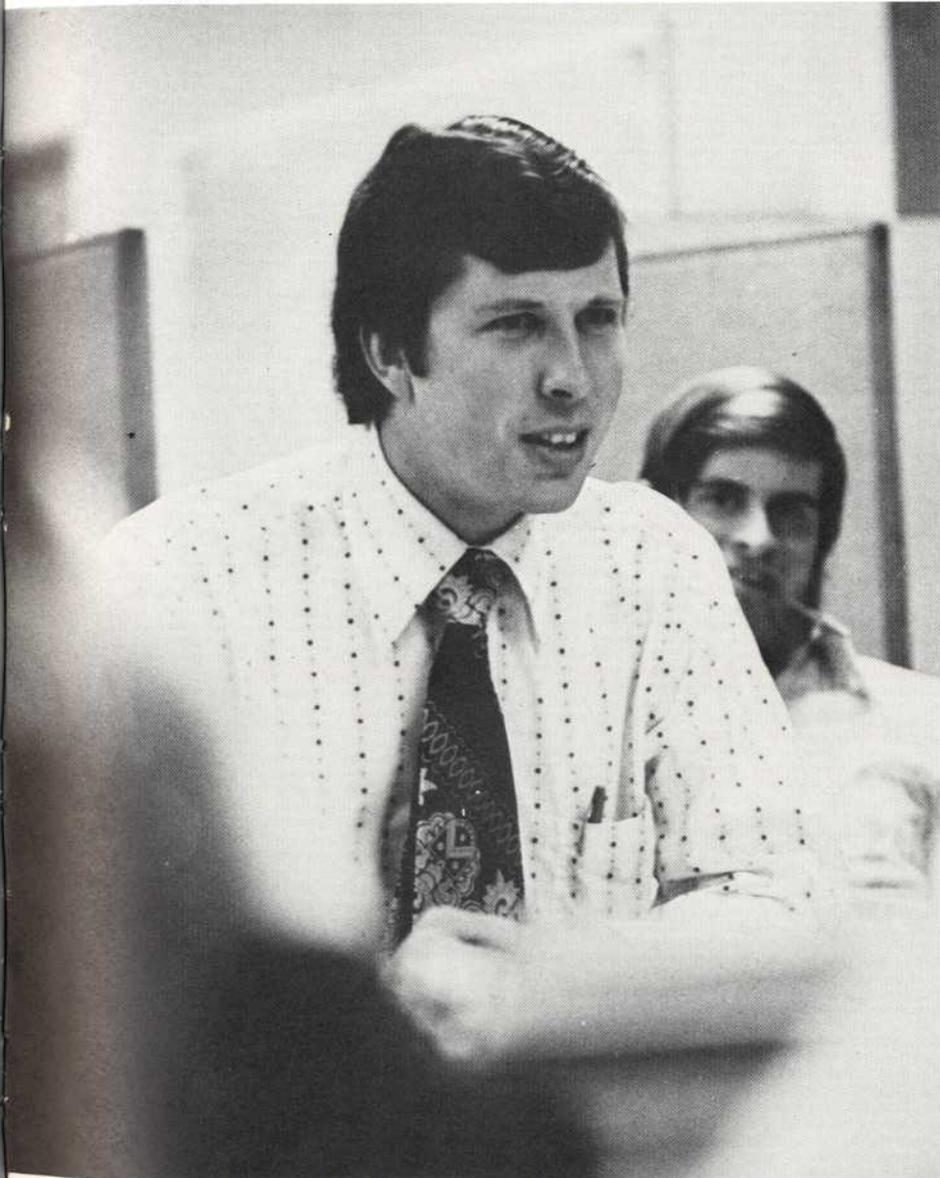

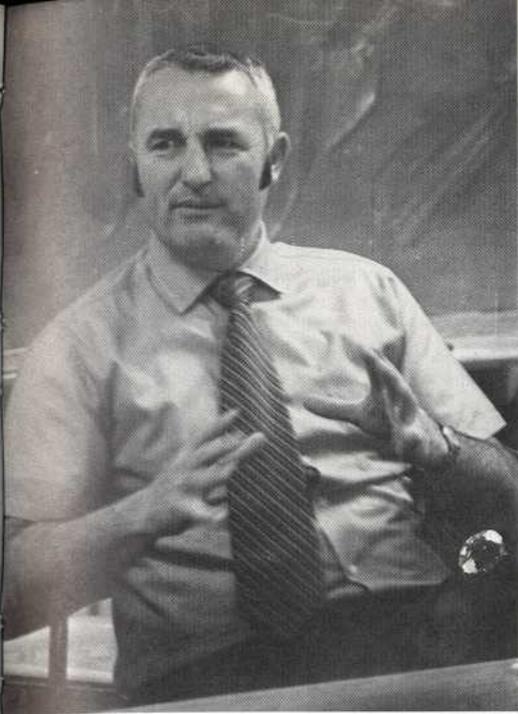

The Study of Man

This department is one of the most varied in curriculum anywhere at THS. New programs were begun in 1972, designed to stimulate interest in Social Sciences, and provide information relevant to today's life-styles and problems. One outstanding program introduced was taught in conjunction with the Humanities Department. History teachers, Miss Becky Downy, Mr. Archie McCallum, and Mr. Ralph Heino each teamed with a Humanities teacher, to offer a course in the history and literature of the American Indian.

Mr. Dave Claar, Mr. Pete Lundberg, and Mr. Ralph Heino taught the seniors in four sections of Social Civics—Careers, Sociology, Government, and Consumer Protection. Mr. Chad Kerrihard began a study of mankind's future, and Mr. Bob Malkmus taught African History, Latin American History, and American Dream. All the members of this department worked together under the competent leadership of Charlie Randolph, department head, to offer a total of 14 different classes.

*I am not afraid of tomorrow -
For I have seen Yesterday, and I love today.*

Also included in the History Department, and taking charge of Freshman Orientation classes are Mr. Norm Webstad, and Mr. Robert Brown, pictured at left.

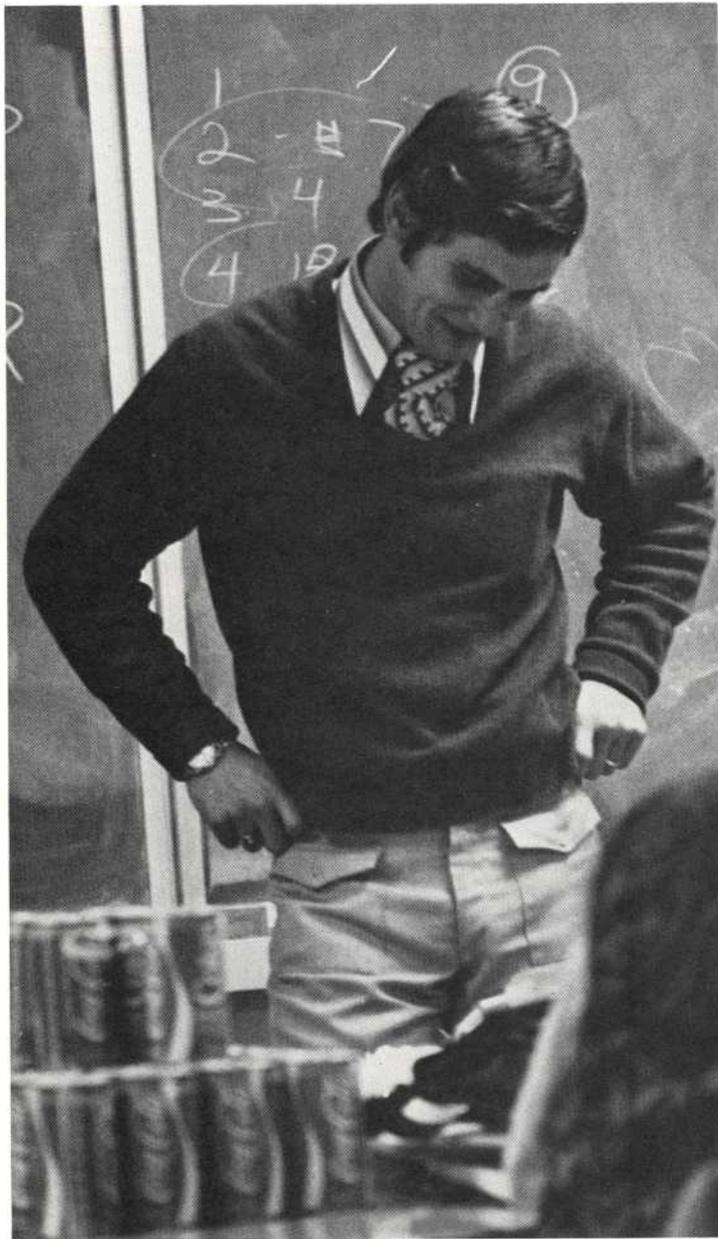

Vocational Arts: Skills for Living

The primary objective of secondary education is to prepare students for life, not necessarily to direct them towards a college education. High schools are developing programs which educate students in their individual areas of aptitude and career interests, in whatever fields they lie. Many times, vocations require little or no higher education. The classes available in the high school must then be sufficient to prepare the student to reach for his career goals.

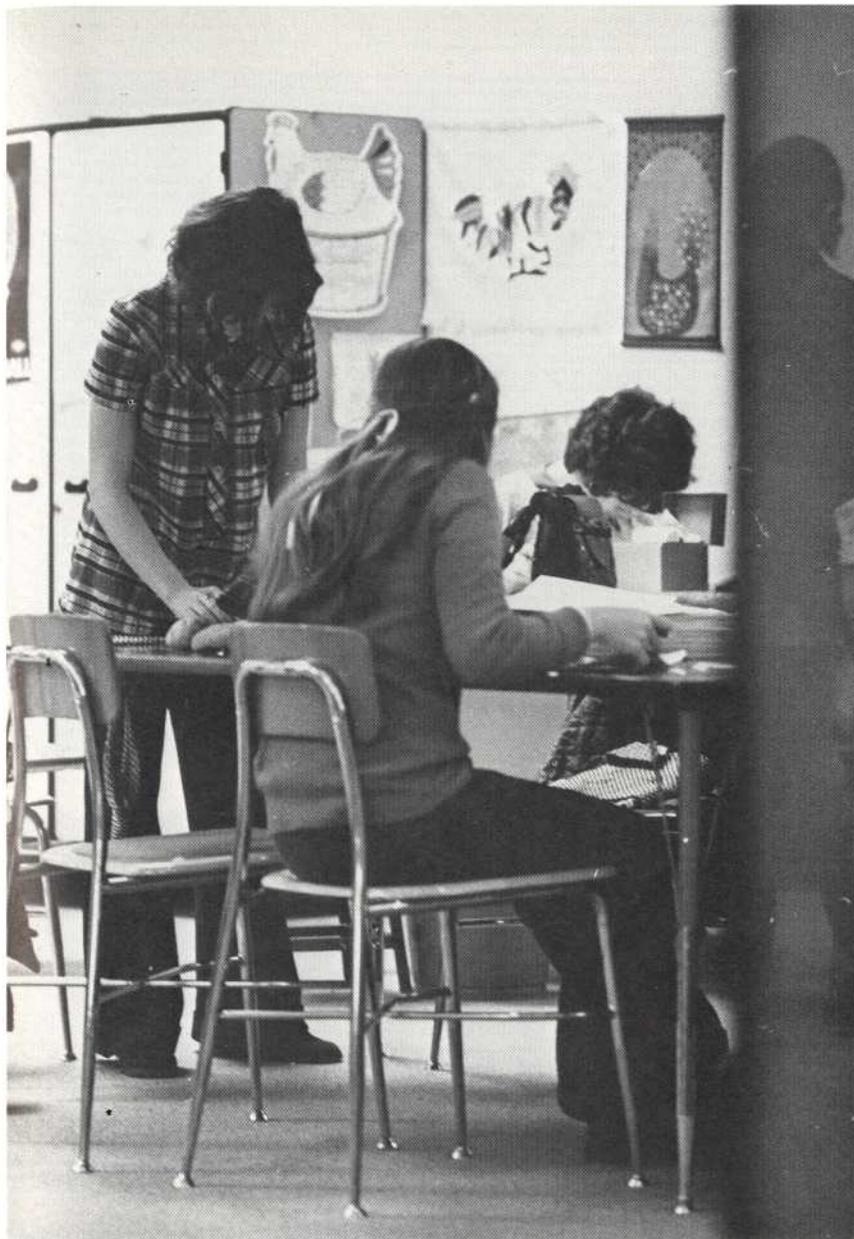

In Timberline's three years of operation, the Vocational Arts Department has taken steps to fulfill the needs of all students, male or female, in their selected careers and life-styles. For to prepare for our tomorrows, we must start today.

*Human Liberation is when a young woman can adjust her intake valves,
And a young man
can tell you the price of grapefruit -
Now is that so militant?*

*In the home
On the road
At the office
On the job*

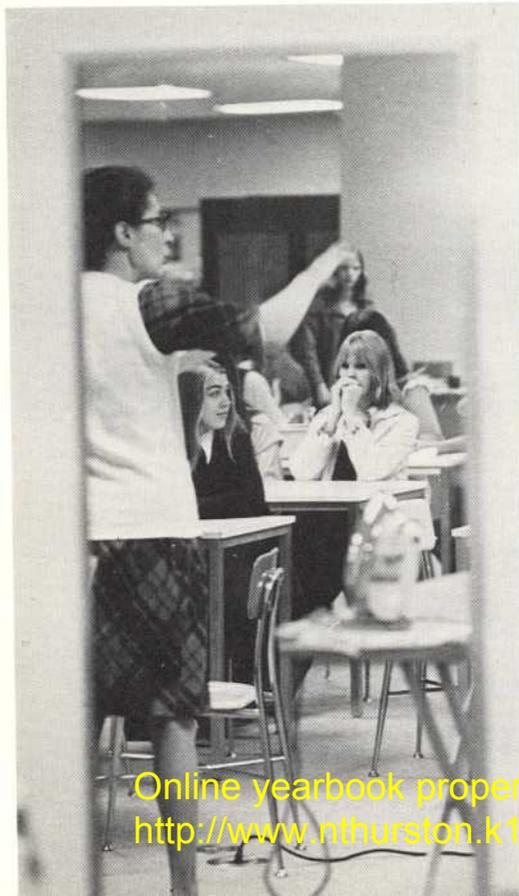

Vocational Arts classes are spread throughout three departments. Home Economics courses such as Home and Family Relations, and Bachelor Survival, are taught by Mrs. Gloria Kuula, (department head), Mrs. Karen Bergh, and Mrs. Jimmie Coombs.

Shop classes are taught by Mr. John Kuula (department head), Mr. Tom Salmon, Mr. Bob Kinkella, and Mr. Duane Schryver, and feature a wide variety of courses.

The Business Department includes typing, bookkeeping, shorthand, and business machines in their curriculum, and classes are taught by Miss Barbara Raymond (department head), Mrs. Debra Emry, Mr. Al Burmester, and Mr. Bob Wickersham. Mr. Wickersham instructs students in the Distributive Education program, giving them practical experience in the business world.

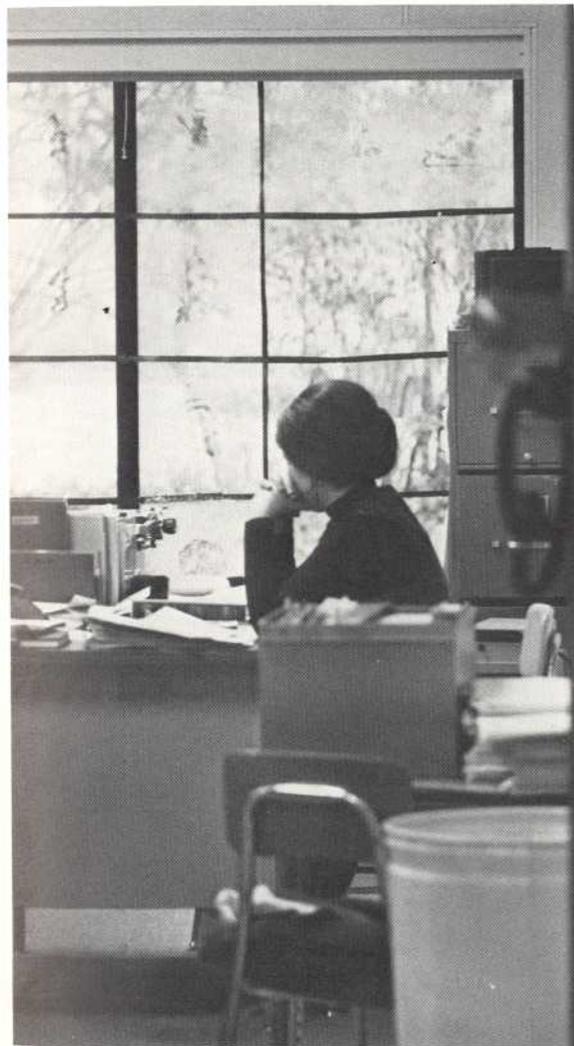

Although the world may become more and more automated, it is still wise to put an amount of faith in mankind's desire to have a meaningful vocation. Men may be subject to the rule of the machine, but he must not submit to it. With the training and exposure our vocational arts department affords us it is possible to develop a successful career that is also personally rewarding, and a life-style to fit that vocation.

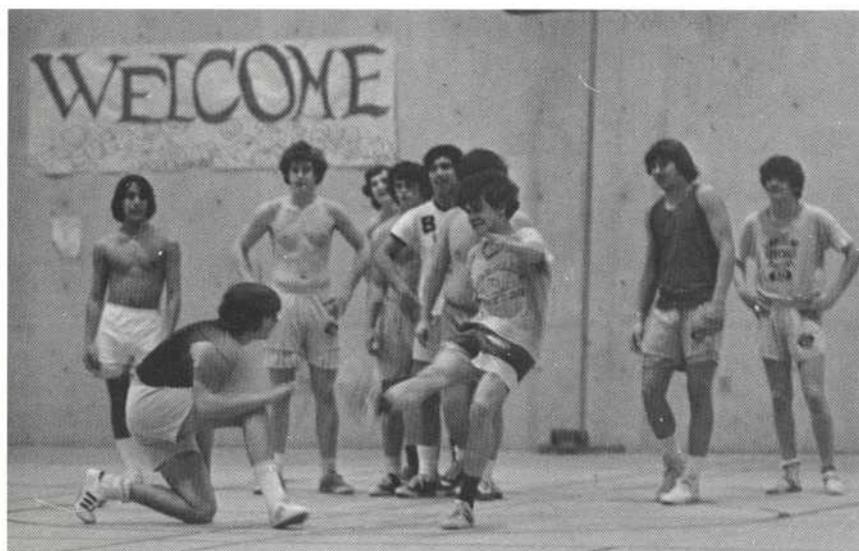

Work is love made visible.
If you cannot work with love
but only with distaste,
it is better that you should leave your work and sit at the gate of the temple and take alms
of those who work with joy.

P.E.

(That stands for "Pain in the Extremities")

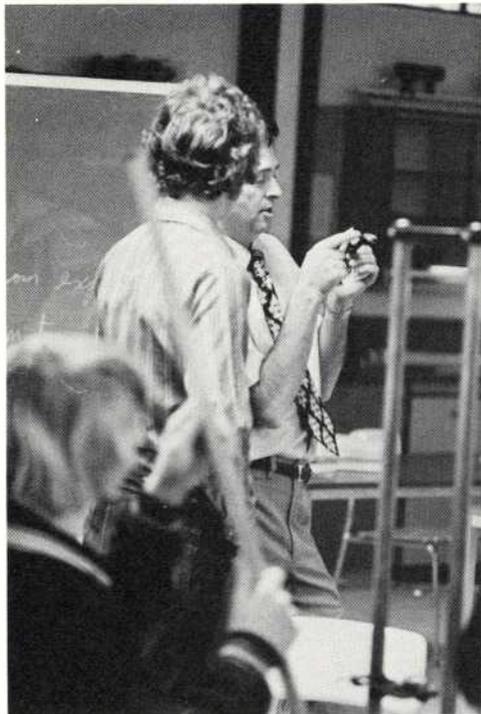

The Physical Education Department teaches students self discipline and athletic skills. This department helps students find new ways in which to spend their leisure time, and build their physical coordination. Students who have taken classes in P.E. are better able to appreciate the trials of professional athletes, and can gain more enjoyment from sports events.

Teachers in the P.E. Department - Mrs. Nelda Patton, Mr. Norm Webstad, Mr. Gary Nelson, and Miss Felice Moskowitz - take special interest in all of the students enrolled in the program. Classes are offered in everything from volleyball to self-defense, to insure that each student can find an area that will be of interest, and can participate in a Physical Education course that will have practical value for the individual.

Life...without discovery is like discovery without change is like for life, discovery, change are as one.

Mankind is constantly facing new challenges and pursuing new goals. In order to survive as valuable institutions, schools must change to fit the needs of contemporary students, preparing them to meet the challenges.

Science can serve as a means for understanding and overcoming the problems that face humanity. In an effort to include more students in science courses, Timberline's Science Department broadened its curriculum. The department offers the traditional classes - Biology, Chemistry, Physics, Electronics, and Freshman Science - as well as two new programs, Biochemistry and Zoology.

All science courses mean intensified study, and seemingly endless work loads. Classes meet for group lectures and lab sessions. Special emphasis is placed on individualized learning, with teachers available to offer help whenever it is needed. All the frustrations and work involved in science become worthwhile when the light of understanding finally dawns.

Students at Timberline have the opportunity to learn scientific processes, and can work in a variety of fields, whether to satisfy personal curiosities, or to prepare themselves for careers in science.

Man is an inquisitive creature, and THS's Science Department helps students to define, analyze, and understand problems of life.

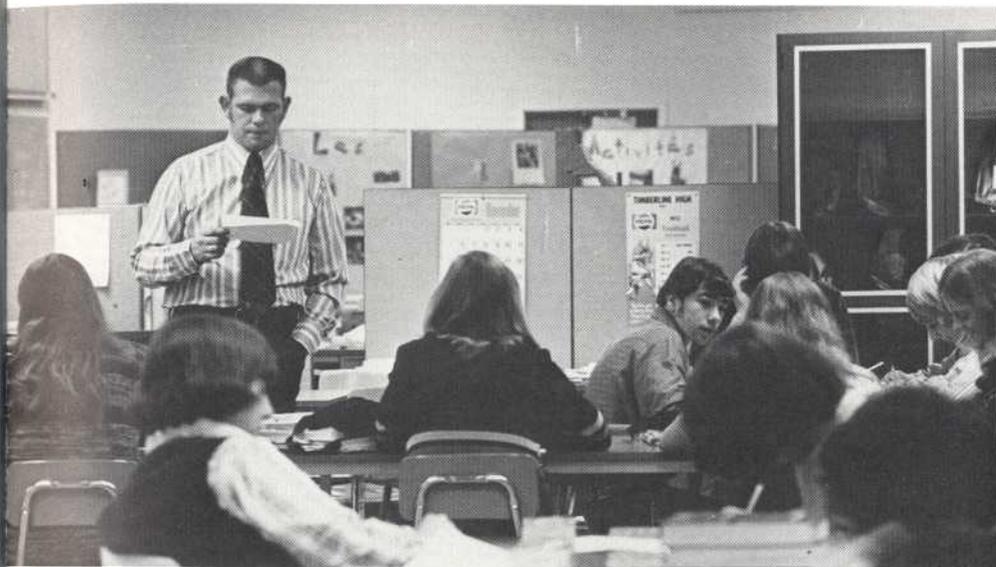

Electronics and Physics classes are offered by Mr. Don Cochran. These courses are designed especially for those students interested in careers in science. Mr. Cochran lends to his classes a knowledge gained through experience, having once worked in a professional position in science.

All teachers in the Science Department are knowledgeable in their fields, and have the desire to help students discover for themselves the principles of science.

Competent teachers are essential for the success of science programs. Without them, even the most modern lab facilities fail to inspire learning.

Timberline is fortunate to have four dedicated teachers in the Science Department. Mr. Jerry Bennett, head of the department, teaches Freshman Science, Chemistry, and Biochemistry. Mr. Bennett is deeply concerned with the quality of education, and tries to improve it continually, within his department and throughout THS.

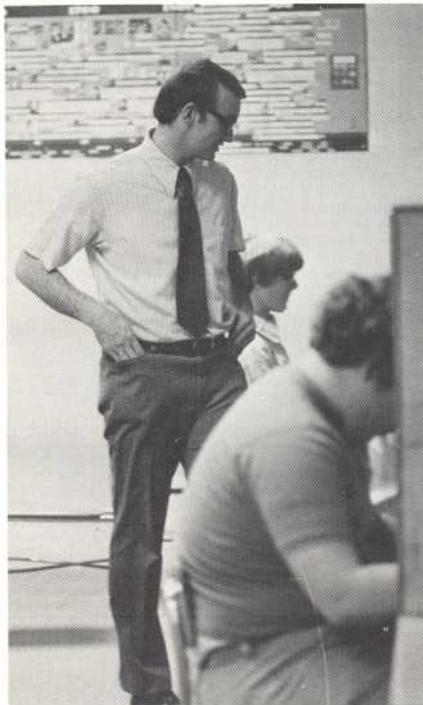

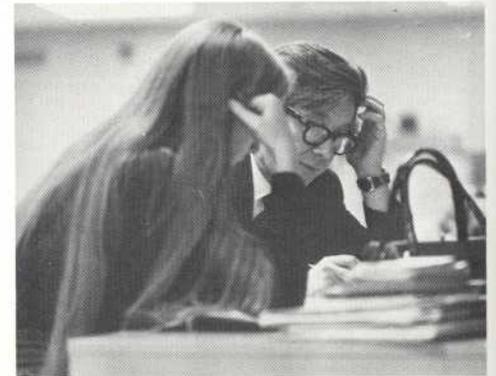

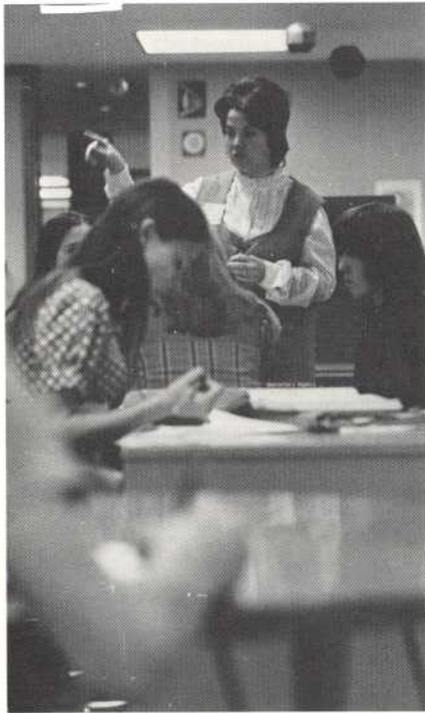

Mr. Ron Rosevear teaches several sections of Biology and has one class in Zoology. The Zoology course, taught on an individualized basis, is a new challenge for Mr. Rosevear, who also serves as Timberline's head football coach.

Mrs. Catherine Hardy works closely with her students in Biology. Mrs. Hardy uses special films and invites guest speakers to break the routine of daily biology classes and keep up student interest.

The Math Department

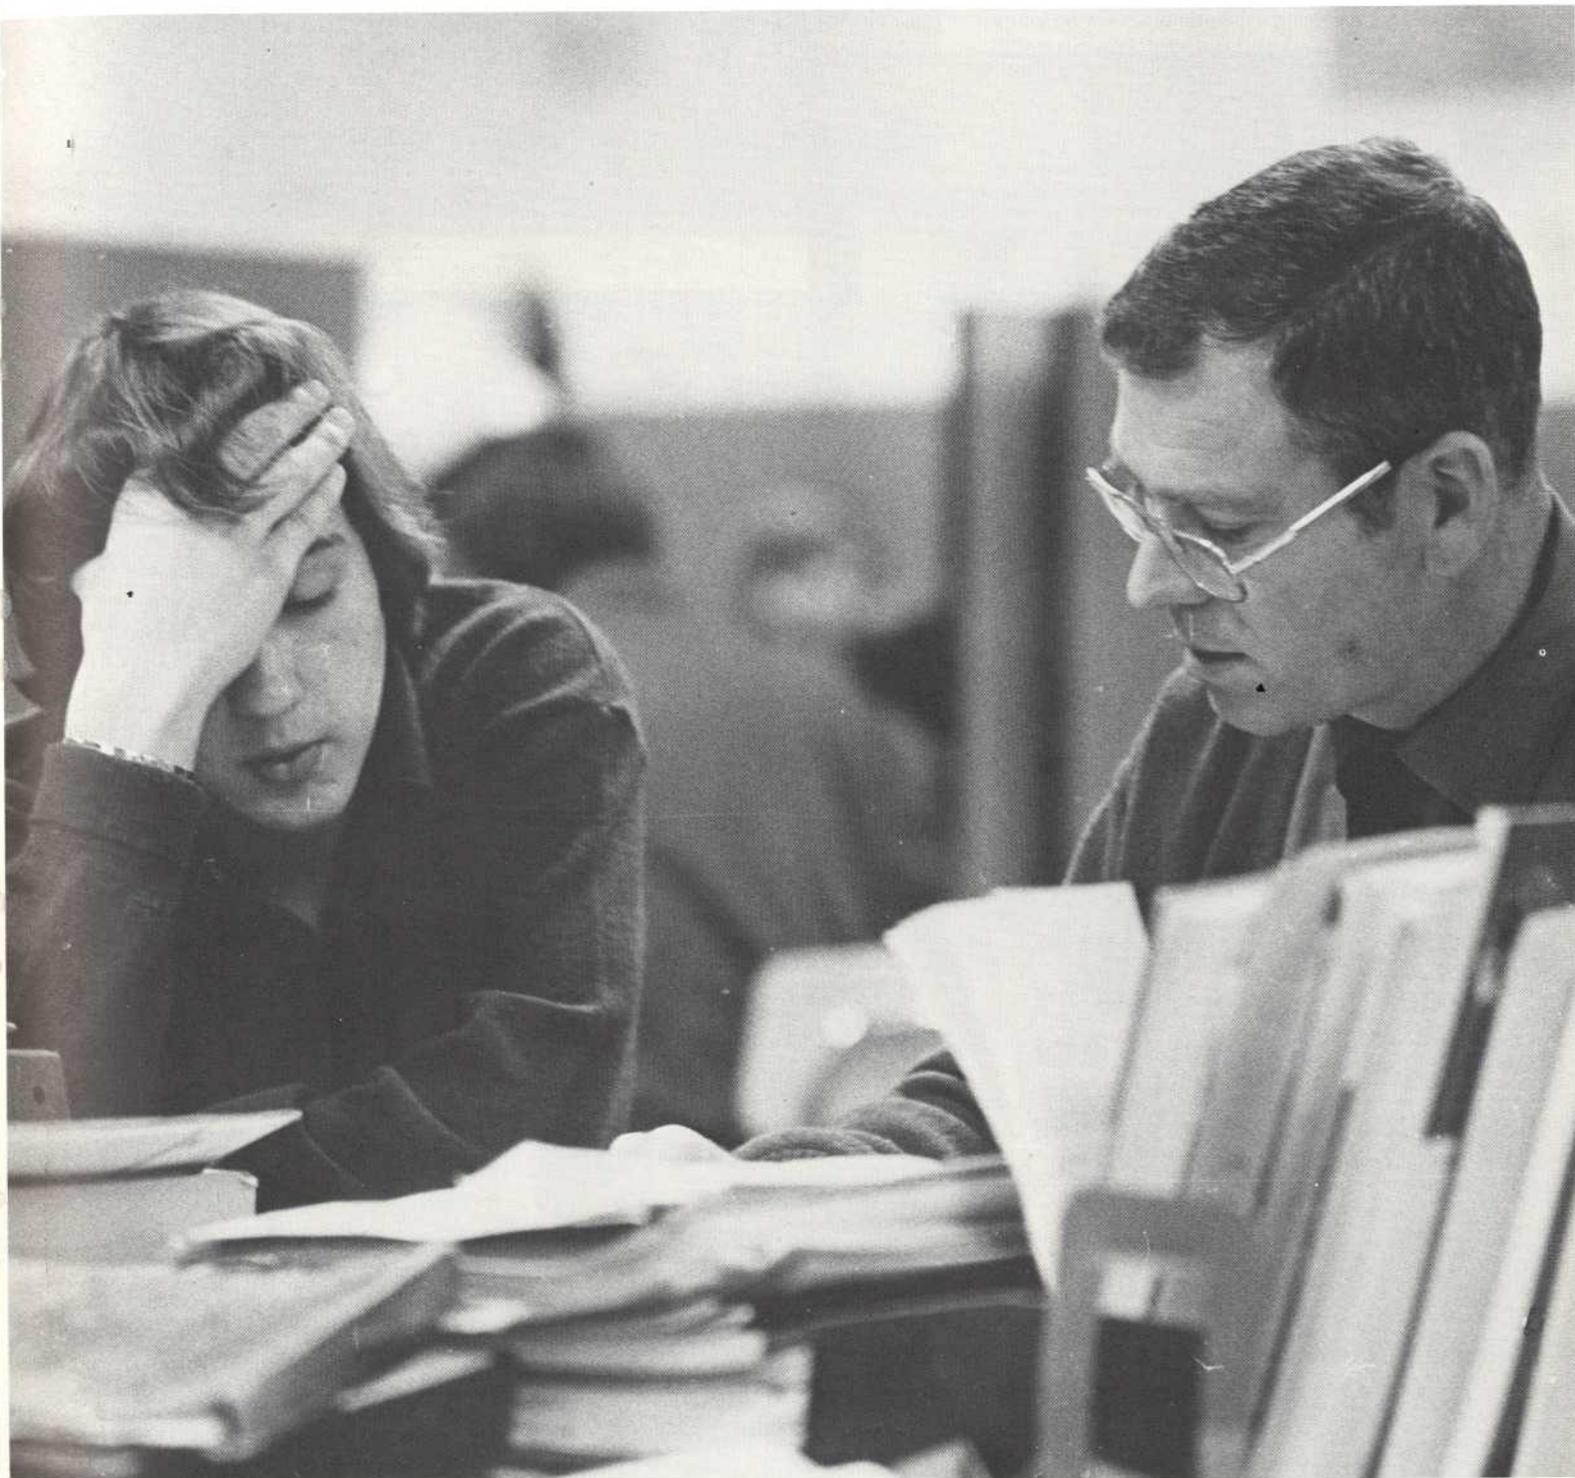

Timberline's Math Department emphasizes flexibility in their program. The five teachers in this department, Mr. Tom Hackstadt (department head), Mr. Pete Fulton, Mr. Ray Kycek, Mr. Royce Stauffer, and Mrs. Pat Elwanger assist students in the completely individualized program.

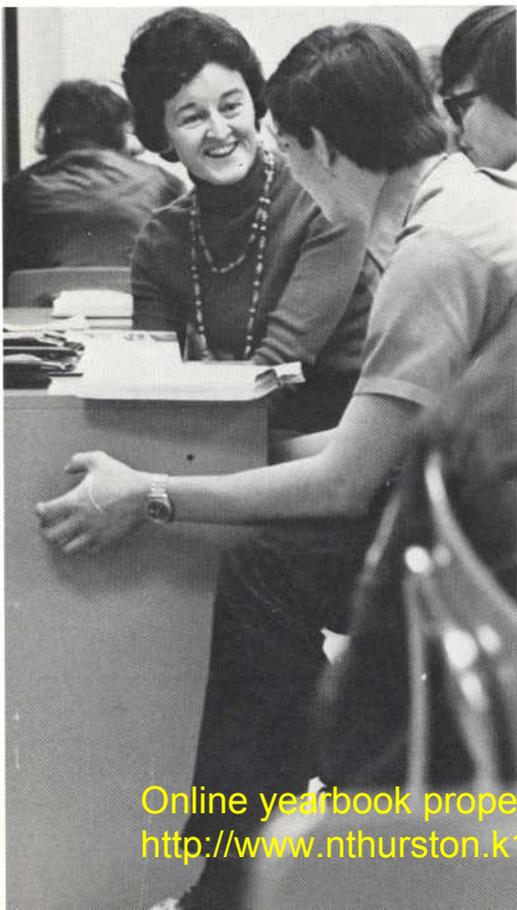

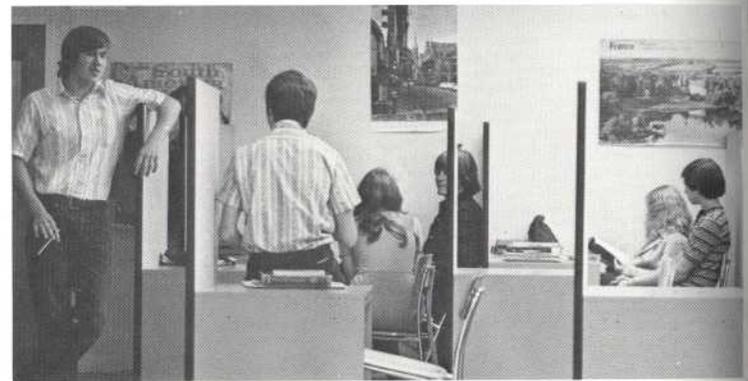

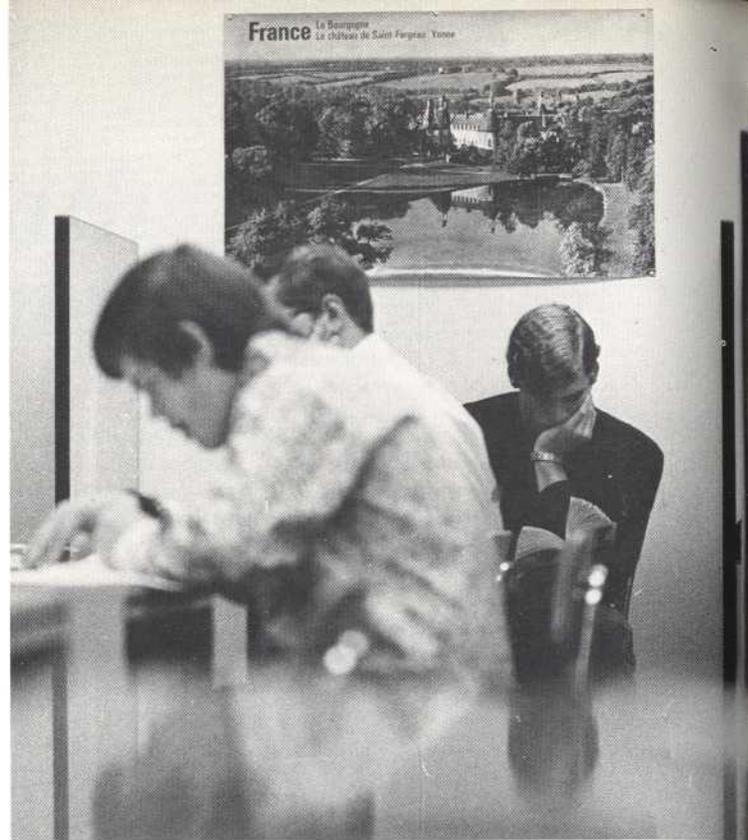

Each student works according to personal ability and interest, allowing for as much mathematical education as is desired by the individual. Students meet periodically with the math teachers. Counselling mods allow teachers to be informed on the progress of each student, and provide students time for personal guidance.

The Math Department gives the responsibility for learning to the student, with teachers guiding their progress, and building their enthusiasm for learning. When a student finishes a math unit, he knows the material from work experience. A credit is earned with the completion of eight units, and each credit is the result of weeks or months of study by the student.

Individualized teaching is designed to help students accept responsibility for their education. The Math Department teaches students to think for themselves, which is useful in any field, inside or outside of mathematics.

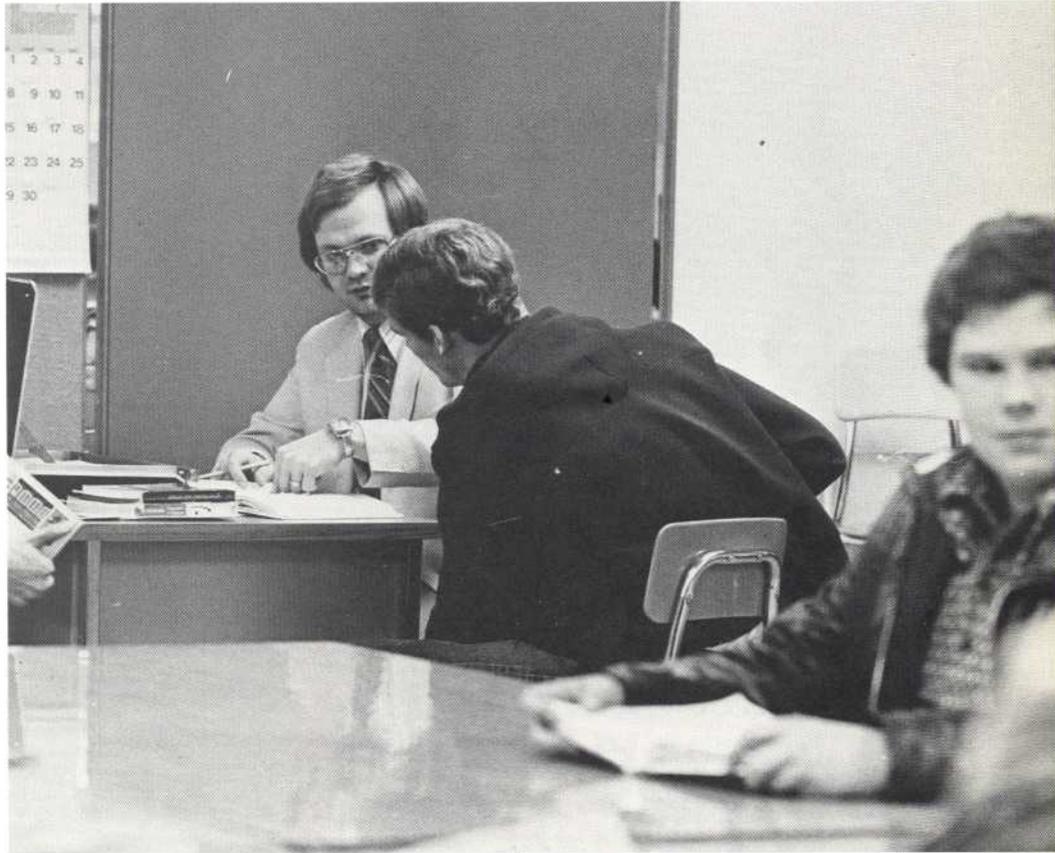

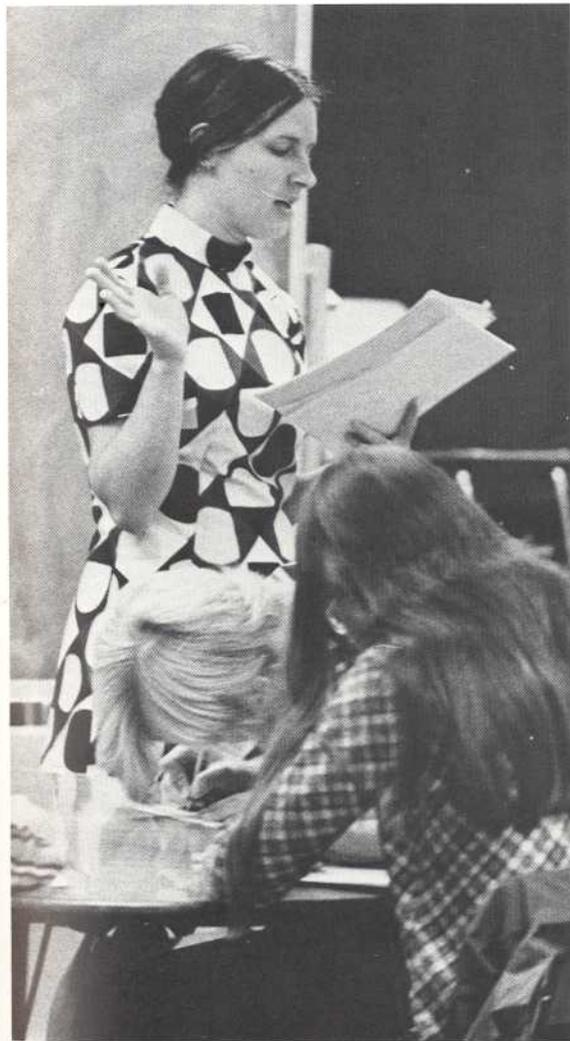

Foreign Languages

Online yearbook property of NTPS/Timberline High School - © 2017
<http://www.nthurston.k12.wa.us/thyearbooks>

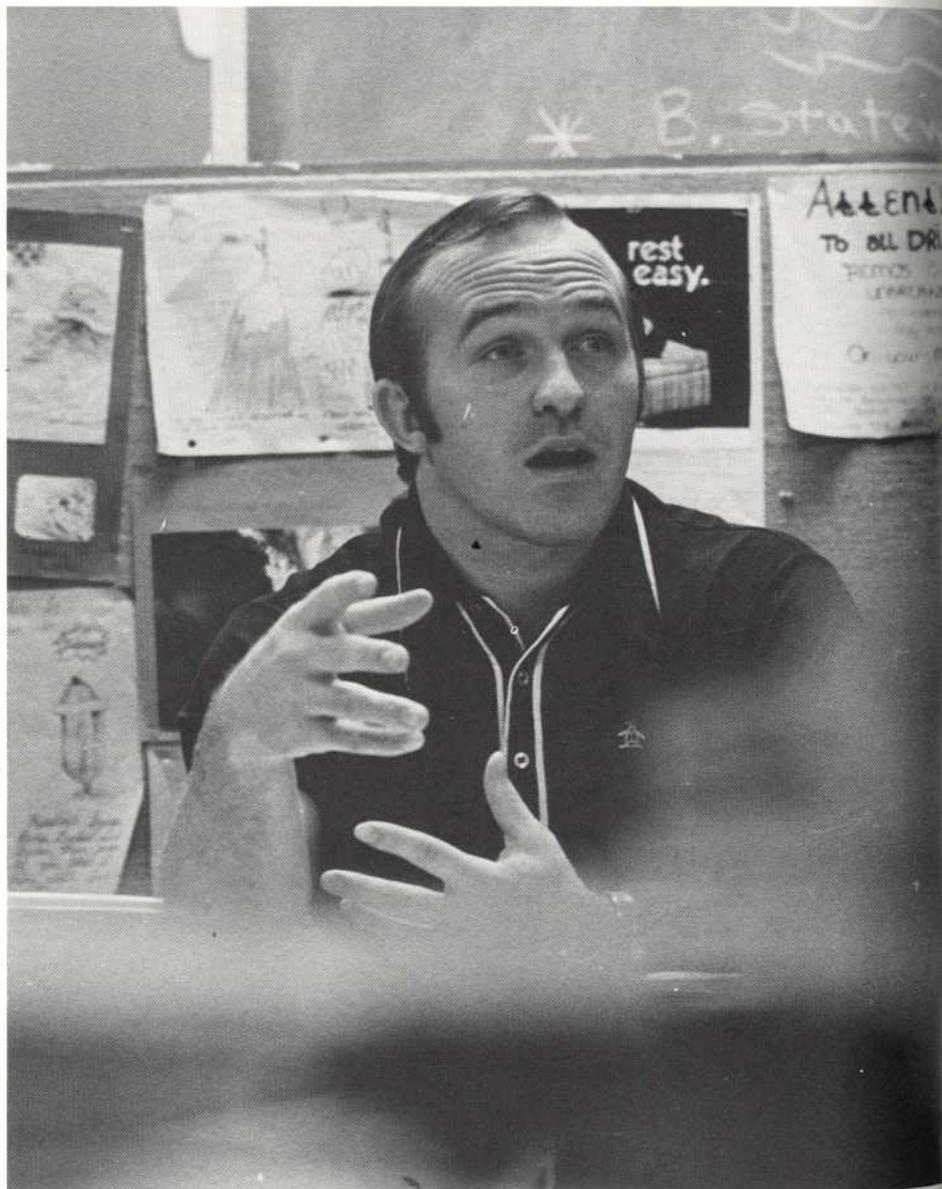

Qu'est-ce qui s'est passé les langues étrangères cette année? Vous vous rappelez les dialogues à apprendre, les poèmes, les pièces dramatiques, les compositions, les exercices de grammaire . . . tout le travail de tous les jours. Mais n'oubliez pas les spécialités: les fromages qu'on a goûtés avec Mademoiselle Blessing, les peintures françaises qu'on a vues avec Mademoiselle Cornils, les souvenirs de Paris et de Strasbourg qu'on a partagés avec Mademoiselle Leonard, les pinatas de Noël, et l'étude de gens de pays différents.

The ability to communicate is a basic human quality, and is essential for the survival of each individual. Much of the success of any human endeavor depends upon relationships and communication between people. Communication can take many forms, from body language to the written expression of thoughts.

Timberline's Humanities Department helps students to develop their skill in all forms of communication.

*My friend,
I have built a bridge
for you to cross over
to me...
but not a vehicle
to carry you.*

Humanities-

The Communications Department

Many new programs were introduced in this department, stressing the importance of the individual in education, and focusing on communication between people.

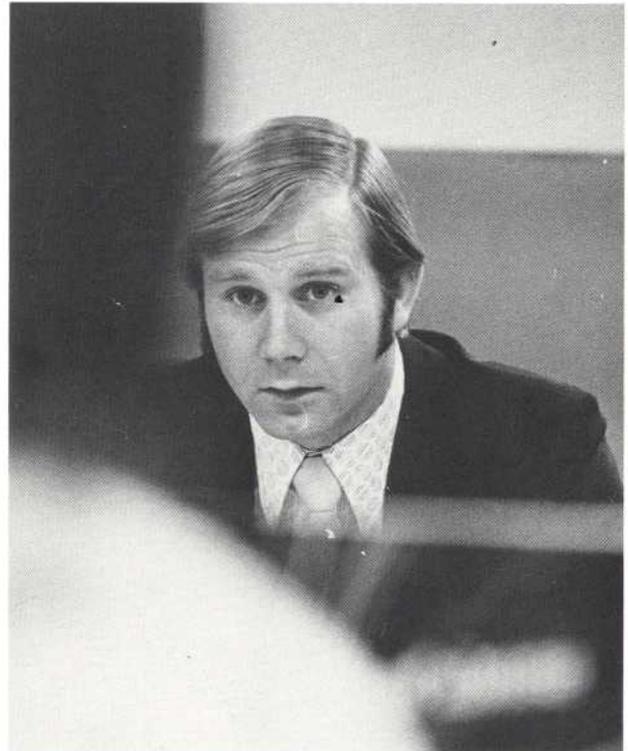

Members of the Language Arts Department are involved in many aspects of Timberline. Mrs. Sharon Thomas, head of the department, is the Quill and Scroll Advisor. Mrs. Patt Hawthorne is advisor to the Girls' League advisor, Mrs. Sheila Arbuckle is the Drama Club advisor, Ms. Felice Moskowitz is the Dance Team advisor, Mr. Don Parsons is the Boys' Club advisor, Mr. John Birbeck is the head wrestling coach, and Mr. Gary Iverson, Debate Advisor.

Teachers in the Humanities Department are helping students to understand themselves. Learning about personal identity is important throughout life, and does not stop when the student leaves the classroom.

This department offers many courses designed to stimulate thought on the question, "Who am I?".

Timberline's Music Department instructs students to develop their talents and learn an appreciation for music in all its forms.

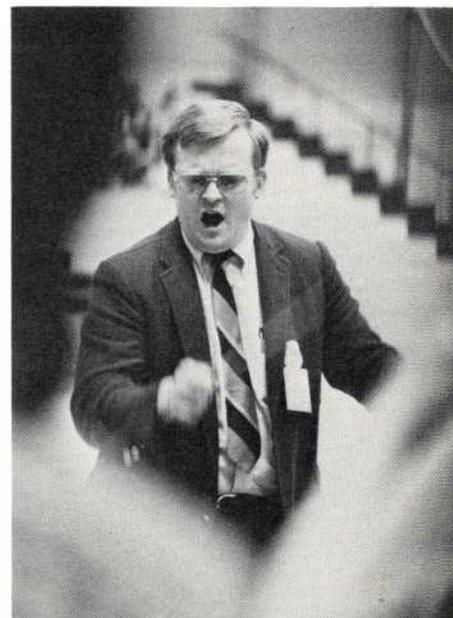

Mr. Dick Nye teaches students in Concert Band, Stage Band, and Pep Band. Concert Band gives students the opportunity to become poised during performances, as does Stage Band, which offers a wide variety of types of music. The Pep Band is not only valuable to those students involved in this type of education, but it is a tremendous asset to Timberline's school spirit.

Mr. Charles Lundberg teaches music students in the Orchestra and in Concert and Cadet Choirs. He also offers a course essential to those interested in music careers, Music Theory.

Music occupies a large part in our culture, and can be enjoyed to its fullest when personal experience enhances appreciation. This is the goal of the Timberline Music Department - to give each student the chance to gain first-hand knowledge of music, and to grow in their appreciation of this medium.

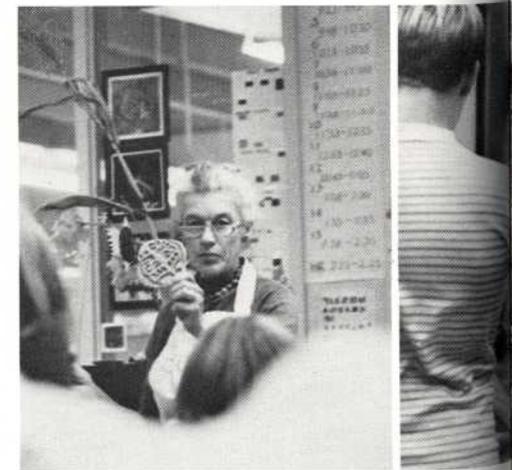

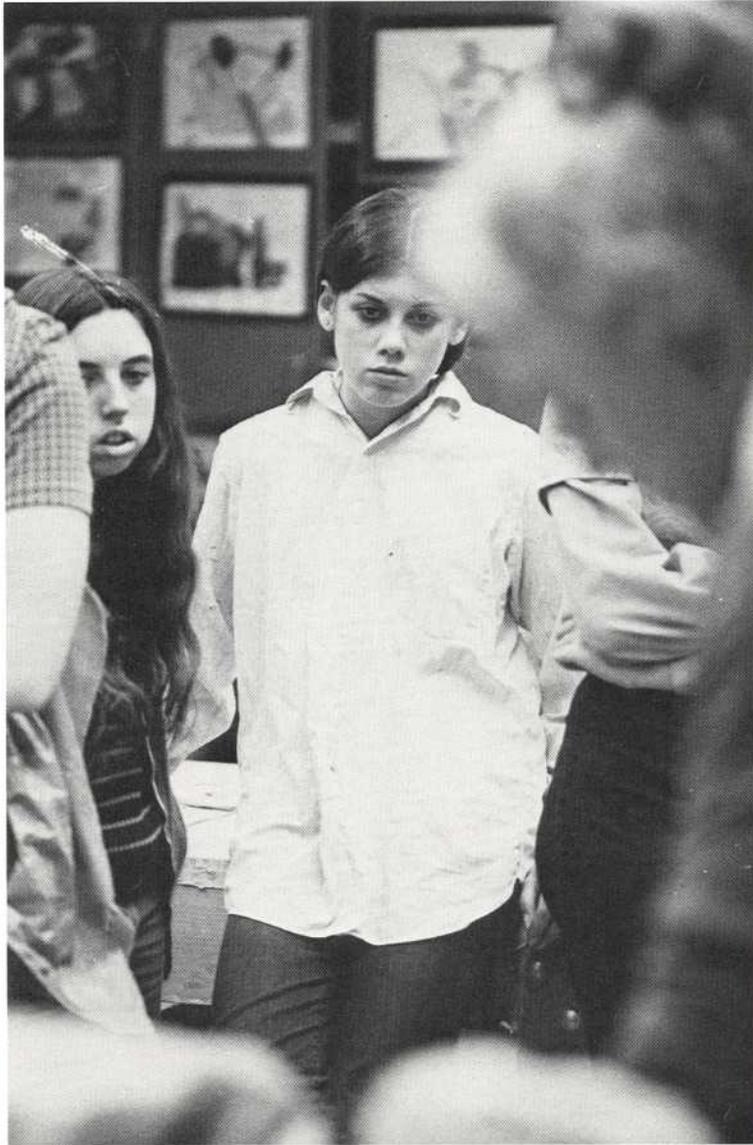

The Musicians

Learning to use talent and imagination creatively is a large part of any person's development. At Timberline, Mrs. Isabelle Clausen is responsible for developing talents, and helping students express themselves in their art.

THS's Art Department offers two basic types of courses—creative art classes, and technical classes. Creative classes such as Pottery, Sculpturing, and Drawing teach students to work with originality, following their inspirations and the basic rules of fine art. Technical classes such as Lettering and Printmaking are designed to develop in each student specific skills and the patience that is essential to excel in these areas.

People cannot appreciate things beyond their experience. Attempting to broaden the scope of their experiences, discover hidden talents, or simply relax in a creative atmosphere, more and more students are making art a big part of the total curriculum at THS.

Neither rain, nor sleet, nor dead of night ...

*... can stay Timberline
from its Winter Activities*

'Twas the week before Christmas
And all through the school,
Spirit ran rampant
From the shop to the pool.

Spirit week, December 18-22, was the real beginning of winter for THS. A full week was spent decorating the school, collecting food and toys for needy families, and promoting class spirit and unity.

Hibernation was not a part of winter for the students of Timberline. Sports and activities naturally moved indoors to avoid the rain and the snow, but the pace of school life never slowed.

Special speakers were brought into the school to highlight and broaden the educational processes. Lud Kramer, Secretary of State, spoke to government classes, and a member of the U.S. Olympic team visited THS, thanks to Mr. Ken Fiser, who made all of the necessary arrangements.

Students were entertained by special assemblies, and winter became the season for dramatics.

Drama students, under the direction of Mrs. Sheila Arbuckle, presented many fine performances of "The Trial of the Catonsville Nine", "A Christmas Carol", and small one-act skits. A special children's theater was also held for our neighbors across the way, Lakes Elementary School.

Winter was also a time of introspection, and striving to solve the problems of the school community. The whole student body became involved in some way with the improvement of the entire "Timberline situation".

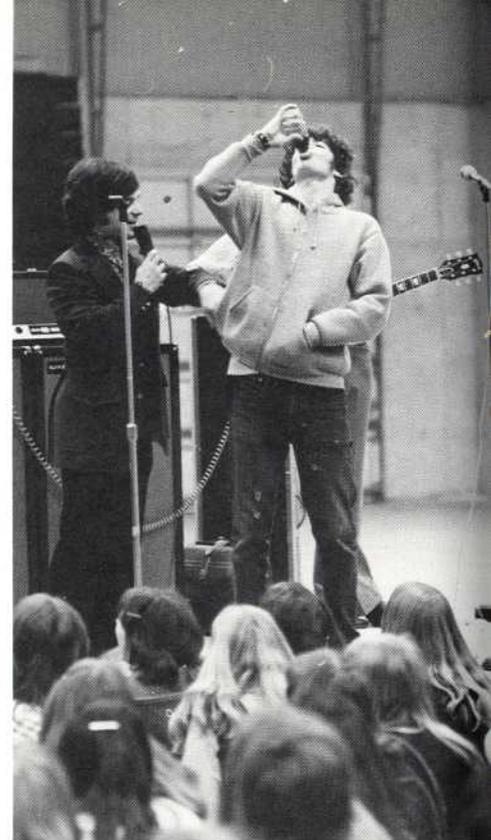

Winter, 1973: Light-hearted Entertainment . .

During the month of February, the senior class brought the "KING Music Machine" - disc jockey Dan Hemingway and Chinook Band - to Timberline.

The five members of "Chinook" entertained the students and the faculty of THS with contemporary hits and rock and roll music from the 1950's.

Audience participation ranged from hand-clapping in the bleachers, to drinking contests and faculty dance competitions on stage.

The presentation of the KING Music Machine was a great success, and proved to be a good way for the students to fight off winter boredom and maintain their enthusiasm for school.

... And Serious Discussion

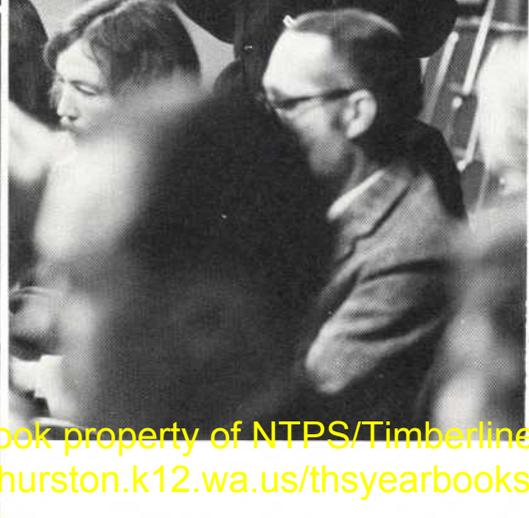

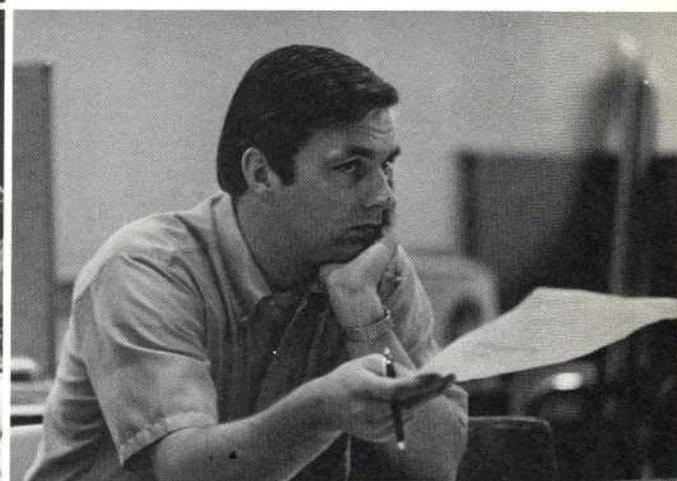

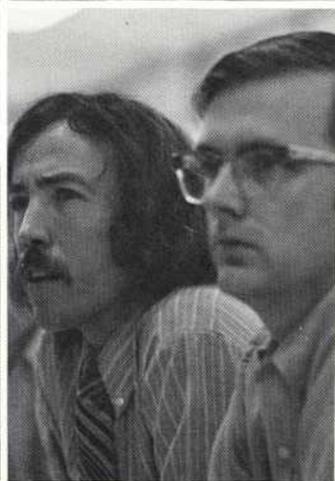

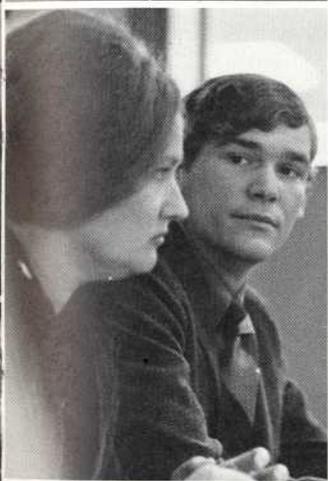

Timberline students became involved in policy-making during the winter of '73. A large committee of interested students investigated and then supported the concept of open campus for THS.

The Open Campus Committee took surveys of public opinion, examined the pros and cons, and then fought to convince the school board of the need for, and the merit of, open campus.

This was not a subject to be taken lightly. Serious meetings were held, both for Timberline alone, and in conjunction with North Thurston High School.

The committee felt Timberline's campus should be open to allow students to come and go during lunch mods. They pointed to the number of students already skipping out mods 7-11, and claimed the present regulations to be beyond enforcement. The basis for their request came from a feeling that the lunch program was of inferior quality and lacked variety in food.

This committee worked very hard to prove the students of Timberline capable of handling the freedom and responsibilities of open campus, yet the school board could not agree.

After hearing all sides of the open campus issue, district leaders refused to allow an open campus at THS, but gave the go-ahead on a new lunch program. Out of this controversy came the ala-carte lunch program, and the realization that others do not always see Timberline students as we might like to believe.

We've Got Spirit,

With the opening of basketball season, Timberline High School students and staff proved once again that we've got spirit! The entire school seemed to burst with an abundance of pep and pride.

Coach Archie McCallum introduced his players as a unified group, saying, "There is no 'I' in the word 'team'," and they wasted no time in proving that.

Varsity Cheerleaders Denise Fouts, Dorian Day, Colleen Kraus, Judy Merrill, Kathy Nelson, and Linda Mitchell spent countless hours and enormous energy producing signs, slogans, and pep assemblies.

Timberline High School never ceases to amaze the coaches and administrators of neighboring schools. No other local high school can claim as many enthusiastic fans at home or on the road as THS. From the opening Black Hills League Jamboree at OHS to our last league game at Timberline, Blazer fans outnumbered, outyelled, and outlasted those of any other team. Their loyalty was rewarded many times with breath-taking comebacks and narrow victories in "cardiac canyon".

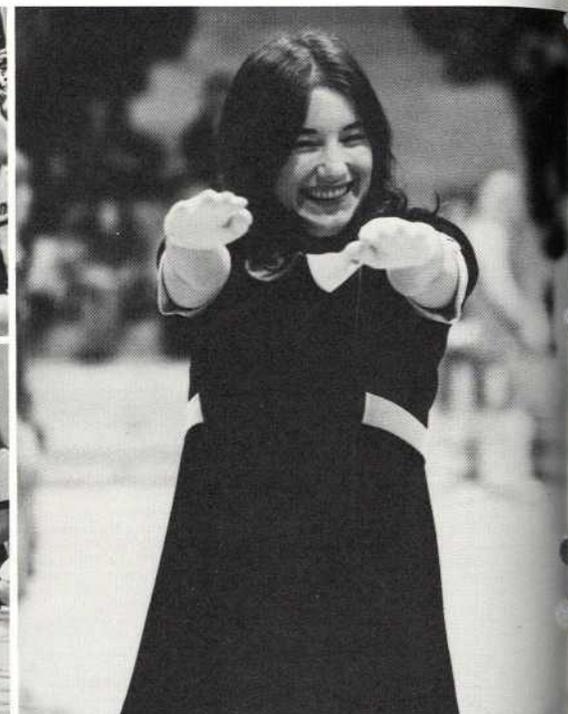

Dance Team, under the guidance of Felice Moskowitz, and with the help of a large pep band, performed with precision during assemblies and at home games.

Class competition, always an important part of school activities, was never fiercer than in 1973. Skits, songs, signs, and cheers determined time and again the most spirited class.

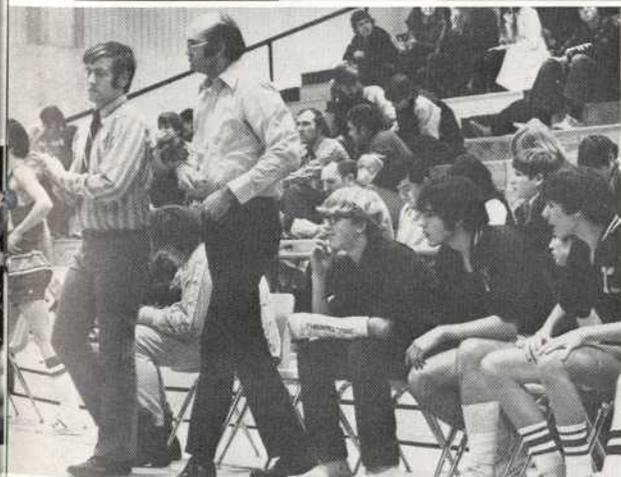

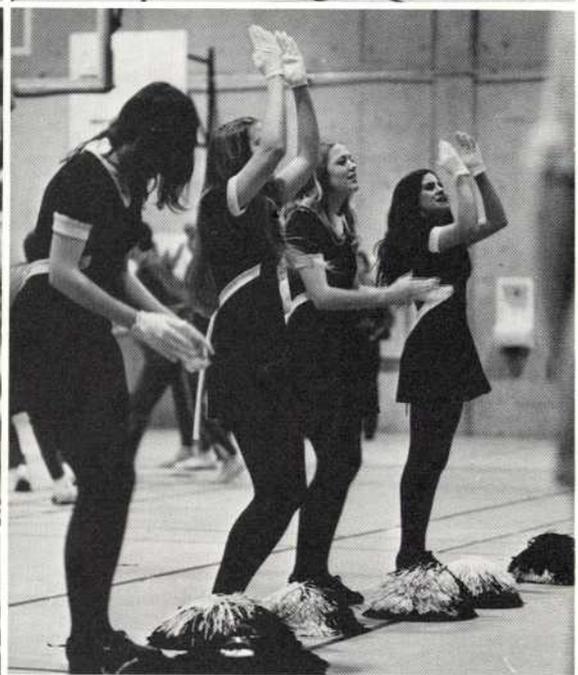

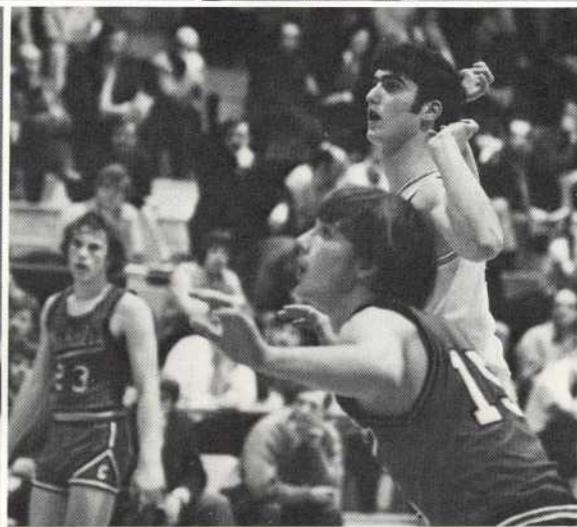

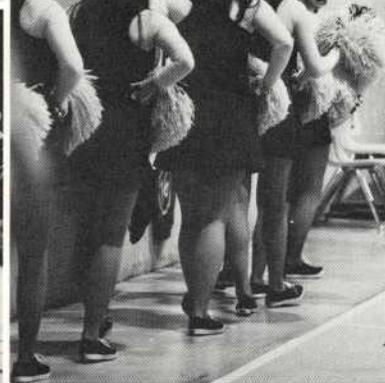

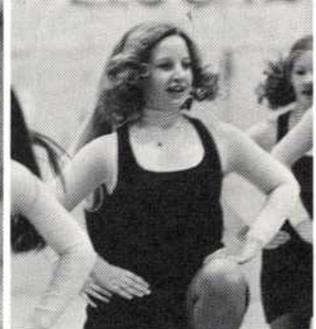

Large numbers of parents and community members joined the ranks of Blazer fans, and it became a very thrilling season for everyone at Timberline. We could, for the first time ever, always spot several alumni in the crowd as well. No longer would the Blazers be looked upon as "youngsters" or mere "country hicks" - we had come of age, and the Black Hills League soon knew it without a doubt.

All the excitement and tension of the basketball season culminated on the night of March 2, when the Blazers ended league play with an 86-61 victory, setting a new school scoring record. A jubilant team finally succeeded in raising Coach McCallum to their shoulders and carried him off the floor. The whole crowd surged upstairs as, one by one, cheerleaders, players, managers, statisticians, and coaches were congratulated with an unexpected swim. The victory celebration continued until the team was exhausted, and the pool nearly splashed out.

1973 was a good year for Blazer basketball, but it was an even better year for Blazer spirit!

Mrs Bergh
 I don't know
 if I can thank you enough for the many happy hours I've spent in Home Ec. area.
 Your sparkling personality would always brighten up my day. I've learned a lot here and I appreciate it greatly. Thanks again. God bless you always.

From Rags To Riches

In its three years of existence, Timberline High School has come a long way. We have gained community support, have grown in school spirit, and are reaching for financial security. Even the local press, once so antagonistic towards Timberline, has shown hints of approval.

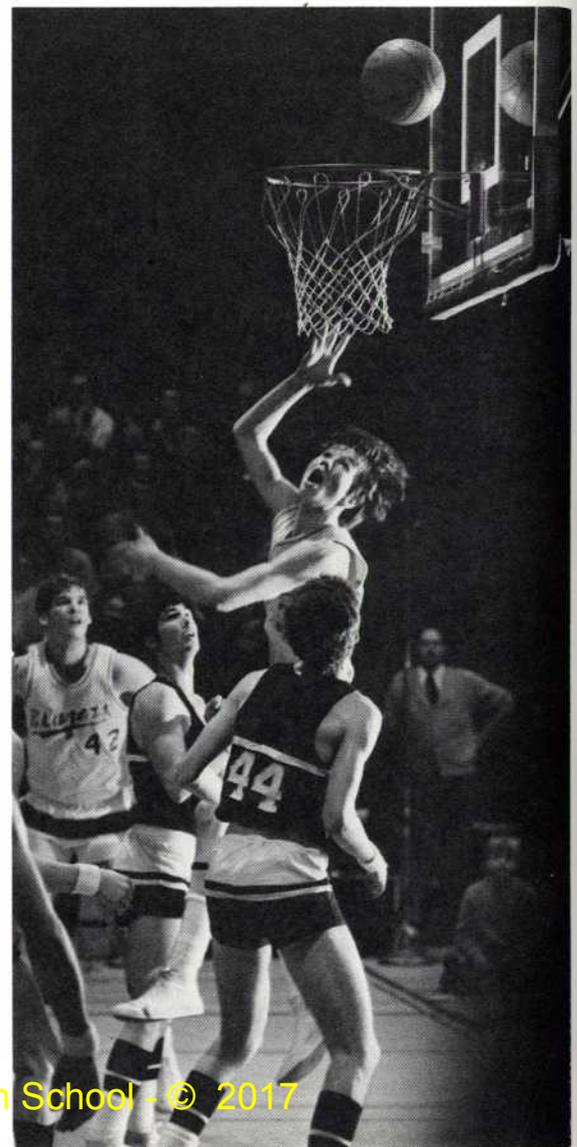

Blazer basketball has gone with us from rags to riches. In 1971, the season record showed 1 win and 19 losses. That, needless to say, may tend to discourage a player and hurt the morale of a student body. But not at Timberline! The Blazers never gave up, and 1972 showed a great improvement, with a record of 14 wins and 6 losses. Neither did Blazer fans ever cease to support the team, and a capacity-plus crowd received their reward watching Timberline capture second place in the 1972 Region III AA Basketball Tournament.

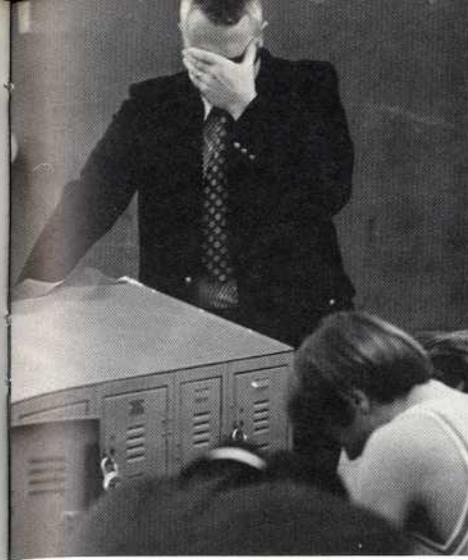

The Blazer "Green Weenies" included 5 seniors. Ken Taylor made 50% of his shots in '73. Jim Carroll contributed 1 offensive and 3 defensive rebounds. Jeff Noren and Glenn Yates made 40% and 33.3% of their shots, and Bret Sundean got a total of 13 rebounds.

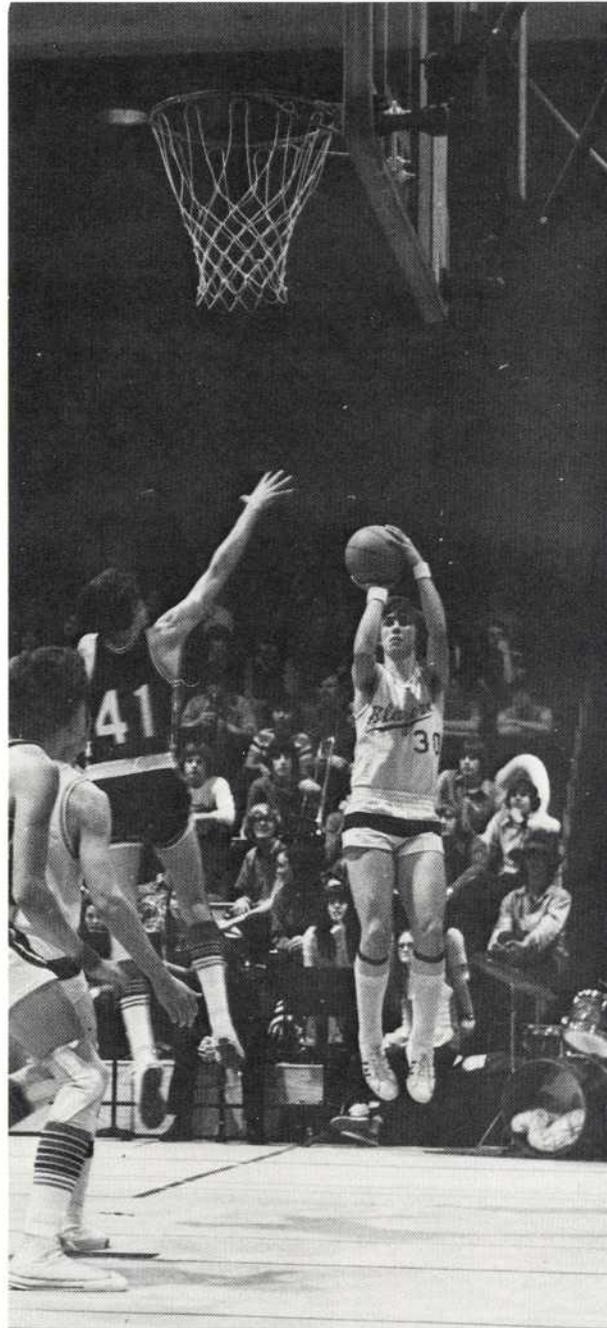

In any sport, there is always the threat of injury. During the fifth game of the season, Greg Champlin severely sprained his ankle while fighting for a rebound. The pain and tension he felt was reflected in the faces and the hush of the crowd. As Greg limped off the floor, the fans almost lost faith, but the Blazers had no intention of losing. They defeated Aberdeen that night 70-68 in the second overtime period.

Greg recovered quickly, and after missing two games, his 1973 season record was: shooting average, 46.8% from the floor; offensive rebounds, 91; and defensive rebounds, 115. This compares with Greg's 1971 season of: shooting average, 45.8% from the floor; offensive rebounds, 75; and defensive rebounds, 118, to show the improvement that is characteristic of the nine senior players.

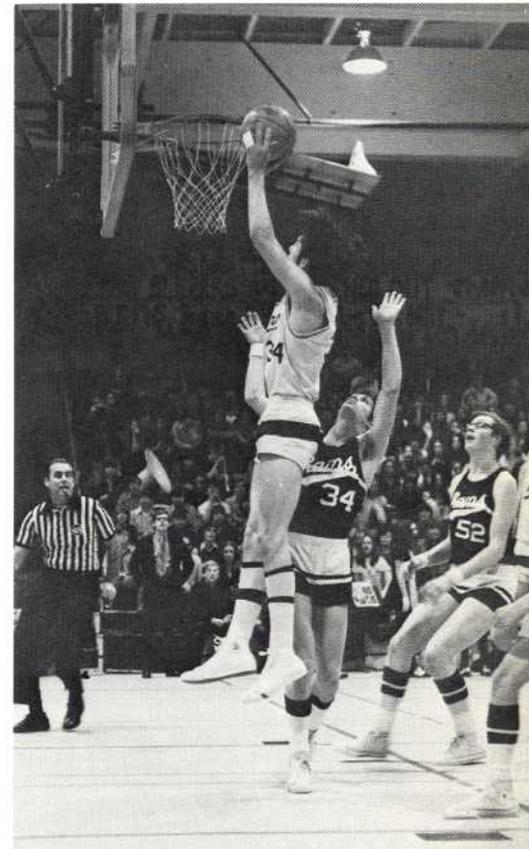

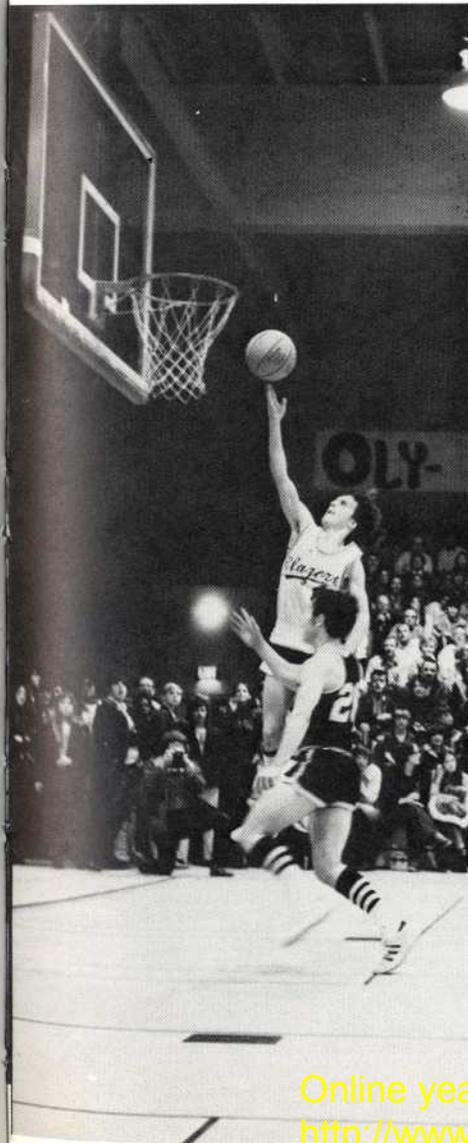

"Easy Albert," Al Anderson, proved to be a great asset to the Blazer squad, with his fantastic long-range corner shots, and his constant poise. Al has greatly improved since his sophomore year on the junior varsity team, and his 1973 season record stands at: shooting average, 43.9% from the floor, and 60.2% from the free throw line; offensive rebounds, 35; and defensive rebounds, 61.

Bruce Baker won honorable mention for the Black Hills League in '71 with a shooting average of 28.6% from the free throw line. This year he made an average of 79.3% of his foul shots. Dan Pratt as a sophomore gave the Blazers a total of 64 rebounds, compared to 144 this year. He also improved 11% his shooting average.

John Clement, known as the stump in "four trees and a stump" finished the season shooting 59.6% of his foul shots.

Jay Pratt made 50.6% of his shots from the floor, and Jeff Loes made 40% of his foul shots.

Blazers set many milestones in 1973, both team and individual, such as Greg Champlin's league record of 1027 points in 3 years.

Coach Archie McCallum has to be one of the most talented and dedicated coaches anywhere in the league. It was under his guidance, and with the help of fans, the Cheer staff, and the entire team, that the Blazers became 1973 Black Hills League Champions. With a record of 17 wins and 3 losses, WE ARE NUMBER ONE!!!

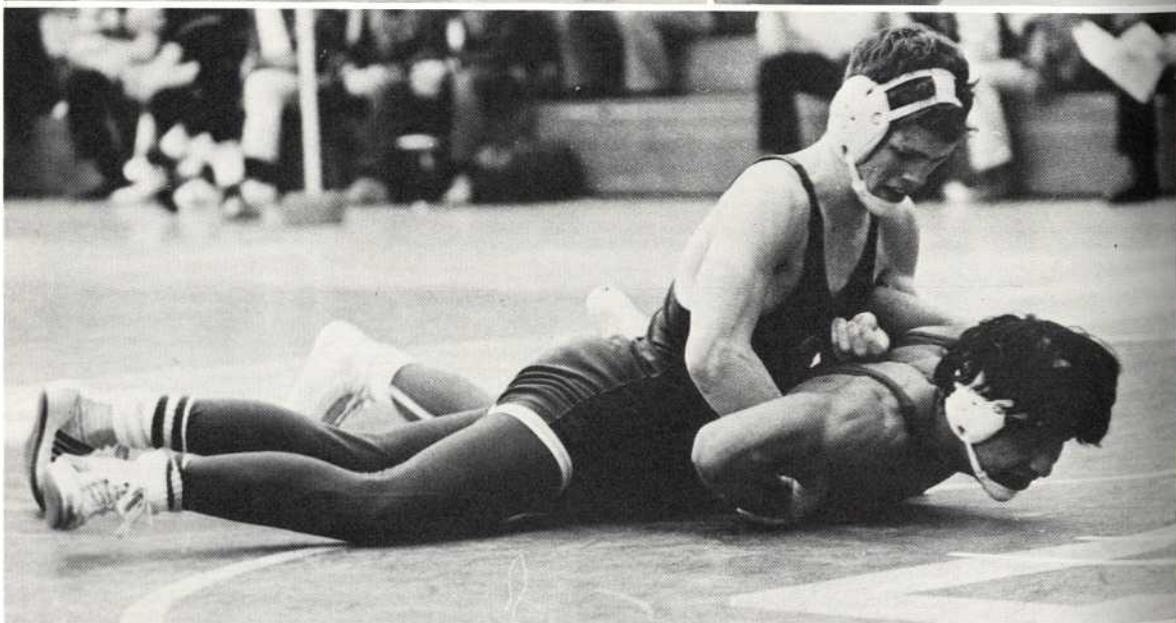

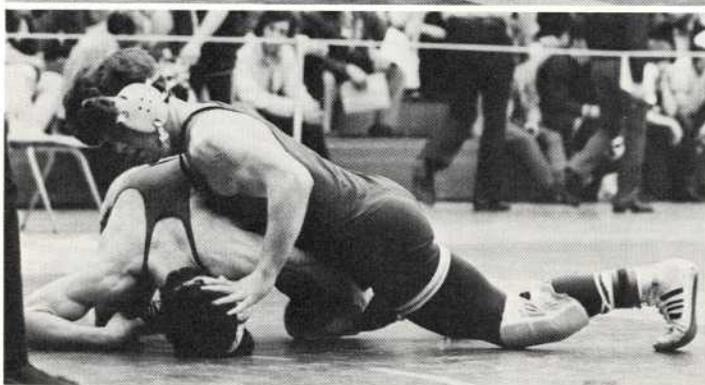

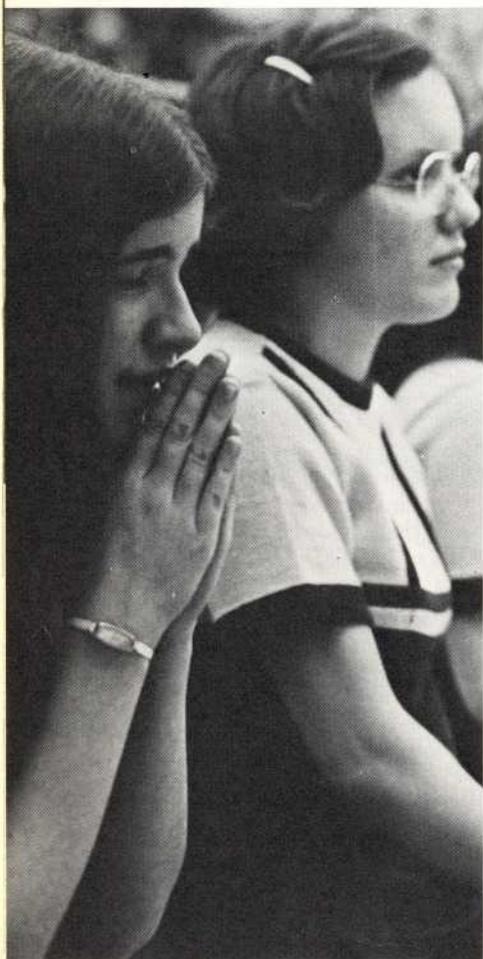

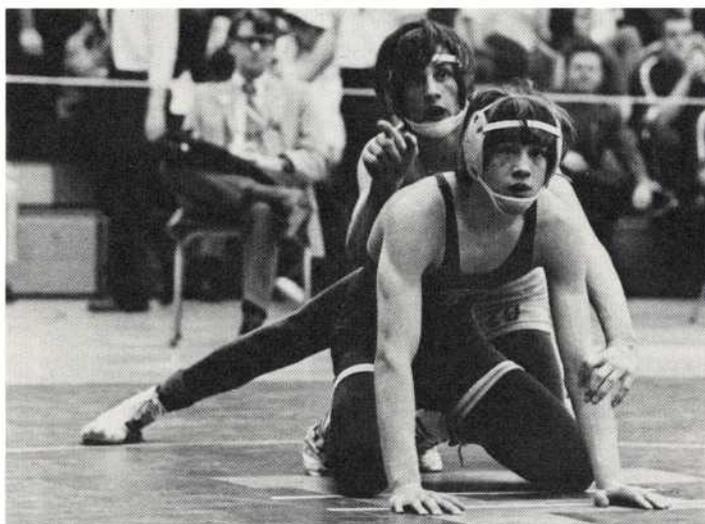

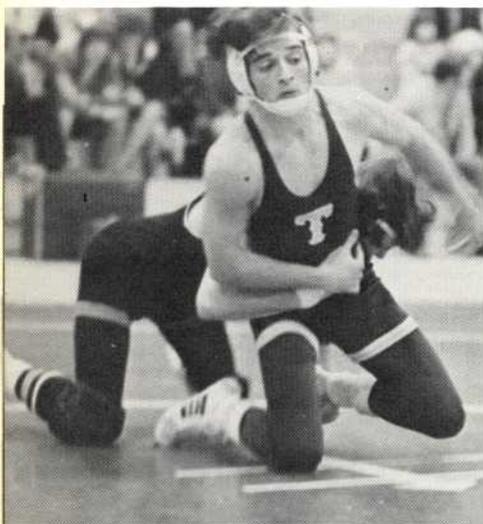

Blazer Wrestlers Go To State!

Qualifying for the state wrestling match is an honor for any wrestler, and these individuals are a source of pride for their school.

Eight wrestlers, Bryan Bates, Brad Benn, Bob DeWitt, Harold Hyatt, Dave Dunnigan, Monte Hanks, Greg Holmes, and Brian Dunnigan, represented THS in the AA Wrestling Meet in 1973.

Coach Birbeck stated that, "this is the beginning of many good seasons at THS," and stressed the importance of every member on the team. With the help of the entire team, the Blazer wrestlers took first place at both Districts and Regionals.

Some outstanding wrestlers were: Bob DeWitt, who took first place in both District and Regional matches; Dave Dunnigan, who placed first in Districts; and Brian Dunnigan, first place winner in the Regional wrestling match. Pat Gammel finished the 1973 season an undefeated wrestler, with 14 wins to his name, and Brad Been lost only one of his 14 matches.

Mr. George Somnis coached a very successful Junior Varsity Wrestling team, leading them through 13 wins and two losses.

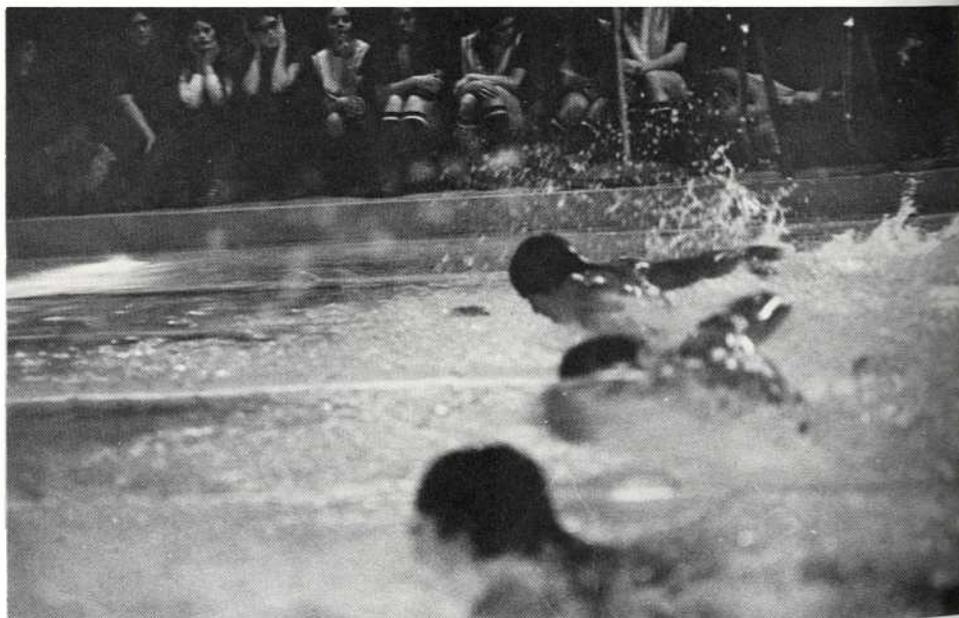

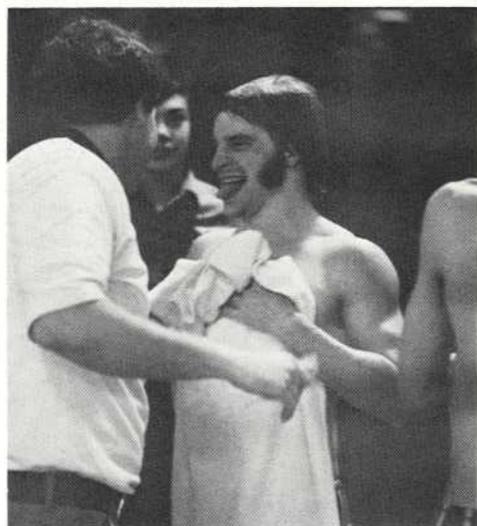

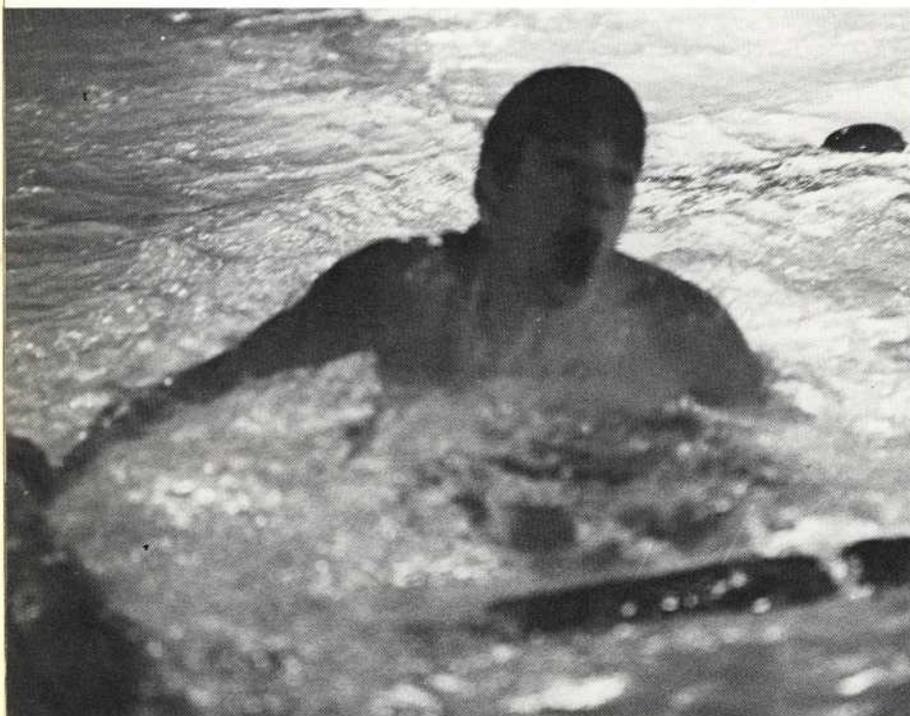

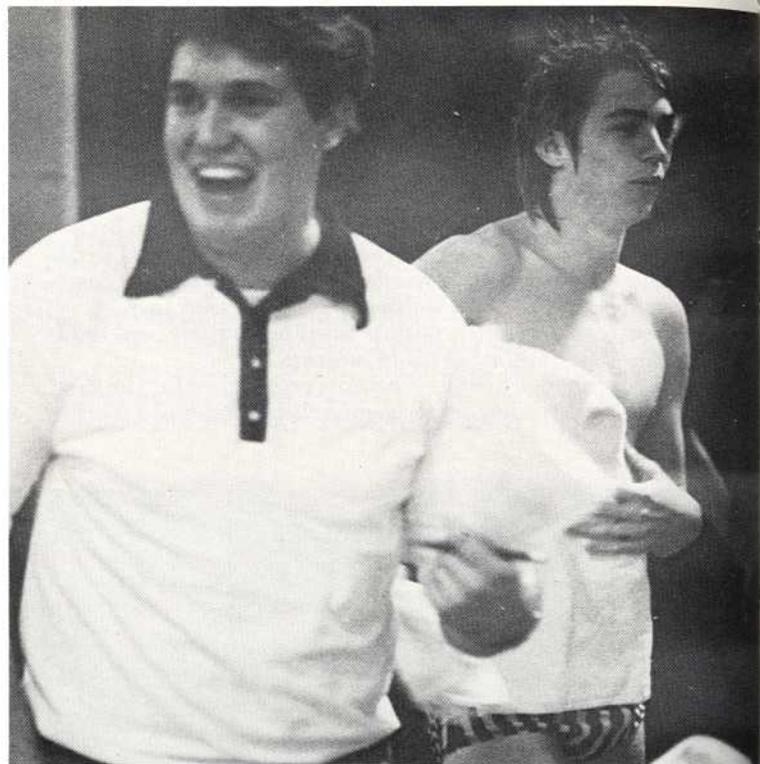

The Frosh Wrestling team, coached by Mr. Bob Malkmus, finished their season with a record of five wins and one loss.

"We know we're better when we go for all the marbles." This statement, first made by Jim Krell, and quickly adopted as a goal and a maxim for the 1973 wrestling team, shows the determination felt by all champions, including the Blazer wrestlers.

The Varsity team will start the 1974 season with 13 freshmen, 11 sophomores, and 8 juniors.

Blazer Swimmers - Wet & Wild!

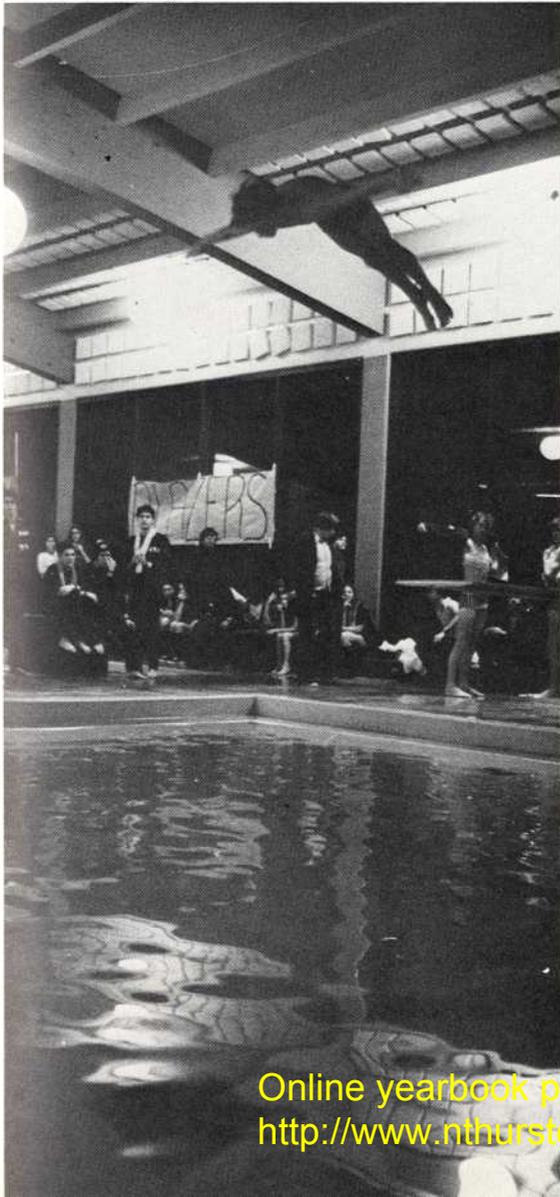

A multi-talented, hard-working group of swimmers made up the Timberline team in 1973. A new coach, Lakes Elementary School teacher Mr. John Meyers, gave of his time and talent to help the Blazers place first in AA Black Hills League competition.

Senior captain and inspirational award winner Jeff Smith swam all free-style races, while Dale Densely took on the 50 and 100-yard free-style as well as the 100-yard butterfly race. Mark Unglaub, another senior, swam the 50-yard freestyle and the 100-yard back stroke.

Other outstanding swimmers on the Blazer squad included juniors Mark Engdahl, (50 and 100-yard free-style and 200-yard individual medley relay), and Rick Boyd, (100-yard breast stroke and 200-yard individual medley relay).

Paul Robischon, the Blazer diver and coach's award winner, took third place in district diving competition, which qualified him for the state diving meet.

Swimming is a very demanding sport, and one which does not receive its share of support from the student body. Even so, the Blazers came up winning and grinning, wet and wild!

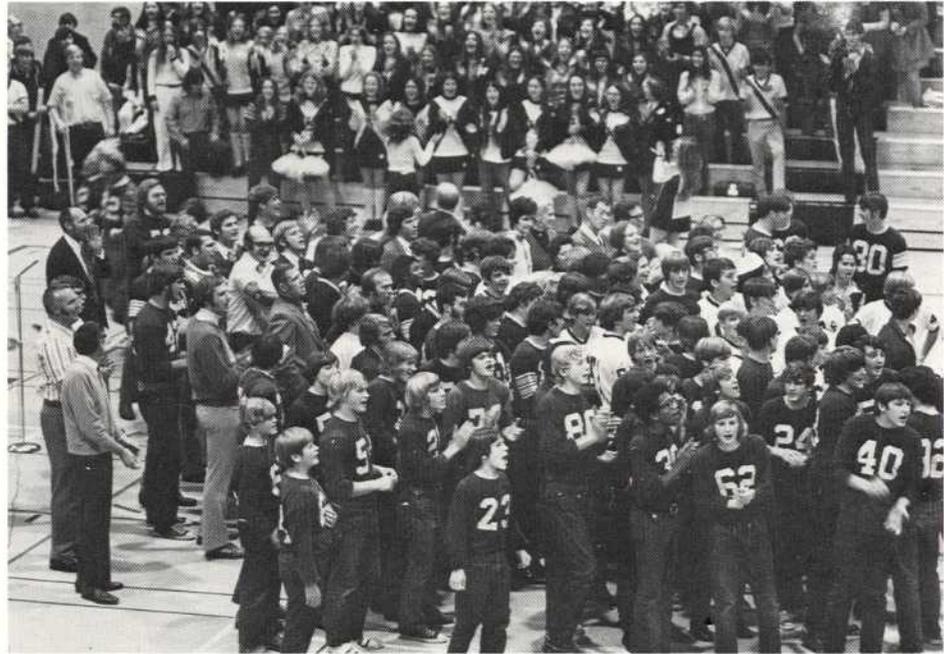

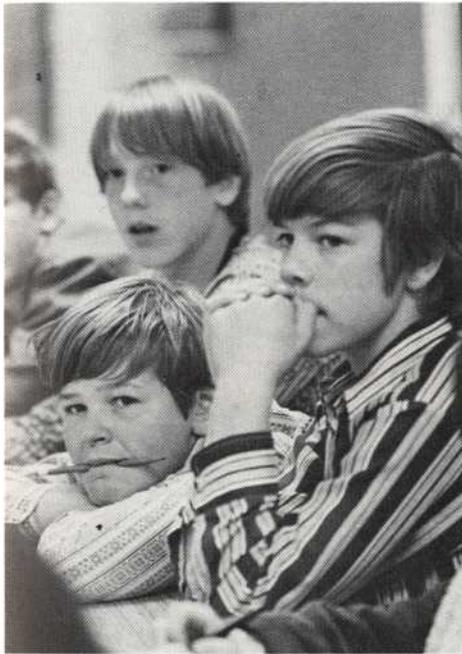

A swim team is a collection of individuals-the individual runs the race, faces the challenge, and breaks the record-yet without the help of the team, few individuals can survive.

Timberline's swimmers, united as a team, supported each other, in the water and out, to gain league prominence and a 7 win, 5 loss season record.

It's Freshmen That Make Timberline So Wonderful!

Freshmen come to Timberline from the safe, structured establishment of junior high, and are thrust into the flexible world of our open air circus. Through Timberline's wonderful process of both indoctrination and liberation, they begin to fit in.

*Sharing
we arrive

The Sophomore Class Comes of Age

The Sophomore class is living proof that strength lies in numbers. Filling their section of the bleachers, and spilling onto the floor, they added much to the excitement and noise of pep assemblies. Their success in class competitions was in part due to the energies of Bobby Edwards, class cheerleader. Always ready to volunteer for a stunt or to lead the class in their yells, he entertained not only his own side of the gym, but the whole student body. Although he may appear small, he contains an enormous ability to spark enthusiasm within his class.

Under the competent leadership of Maggie Sokolik, the class sold Blazer pens and continued their sucker sale from the previous year. Sponsoring a balloon bust and a fishing pond at the cheerleaders' carnival proved to be profitable projects for the class.

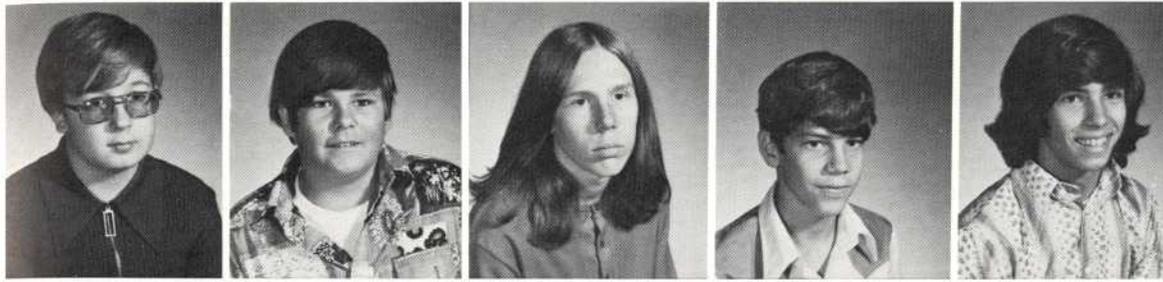

The sophomores were active in teams and activities around the school, making their presence known, both in class projects and individual achievements.

Although this is only their second year at Timberline, the sophomore class has already begun to make its mark on the school. They exhibit outstanding drive to excel. The class survived their swift initiation as freshmen, and now have stepped into positions as potential leaders. The sophomores are truly "coming of age."

“No Comment”

It is difficult to elaborate on the Junior class. The class consists of various individuals, with many diversified and often conflicting characteristics.

As individuals they are learning, and in turn, as a class, they are trying to come to terms with themselves and work as a group.

One of the people that put herself in the middle of the conflict was Cheryl Johnson. As class president, she became involved, inspired those not involved, and directed those committed to the class.

The junior class must find itself through leadership and action, and develop their potential as a senior class in 1974.

Although most accepted the transition from basketball season to spring gracefully, others were a bit stubborn.

March was a month in which the basketball season was coming to an end and the promise of the Spring season was beginning to unfold. But a few of the faculty members from North Thurston and Timberline couldn't give it up that easily as they introduced a new innovation in basketball - donkey basketball.

That fateful night, Thursday, March 1st, they mounted their trusty (?) steeds and rode off in a cloud of hilarity. Although the two faculties reached some final score, the donkeys took the contest in personal fouls.

Spring - A Season of Change

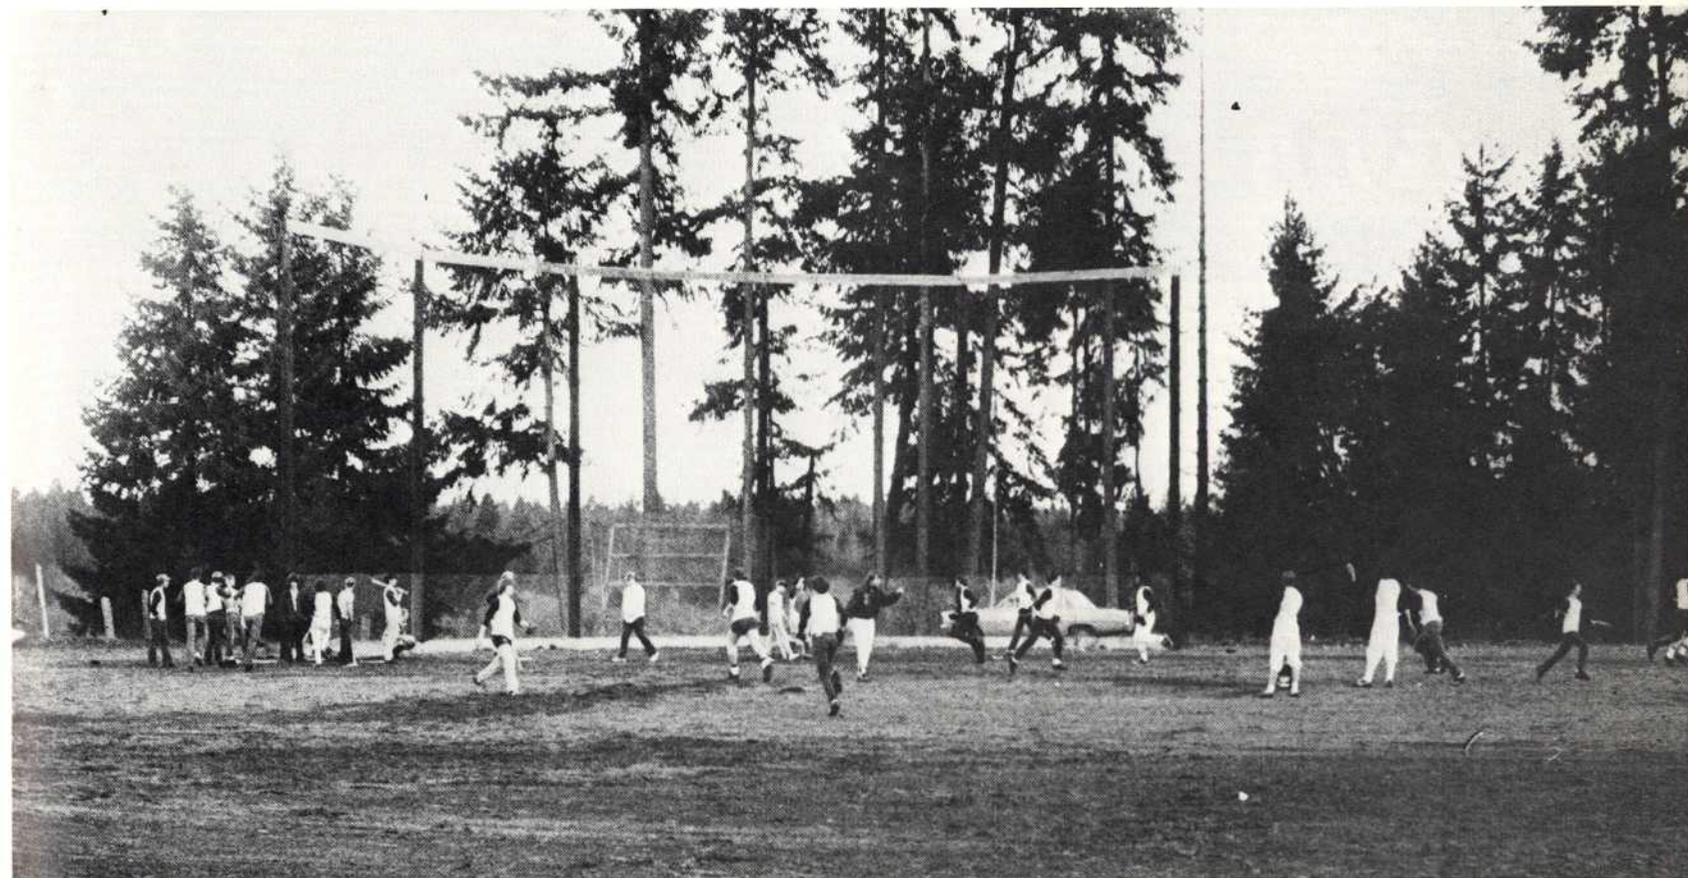

The spring brought little noticeable change in the weather, but at THS the rain did not greatly affect the student body. Spring sports - Track, Baseball, Golf, and Tennis - got under way even before basketball had officially ended for the Blazers.

On those rare days when sunlight filtered through the trees, students took advantage of free mods to study, talk, or simply relax outside.

Special guests came to Timberline during the spring to help educate or just to entertain the student body and the citizens of our community. One of the first spring guests was Urbie Green, a professional musician, who performed along with Timberline's band.

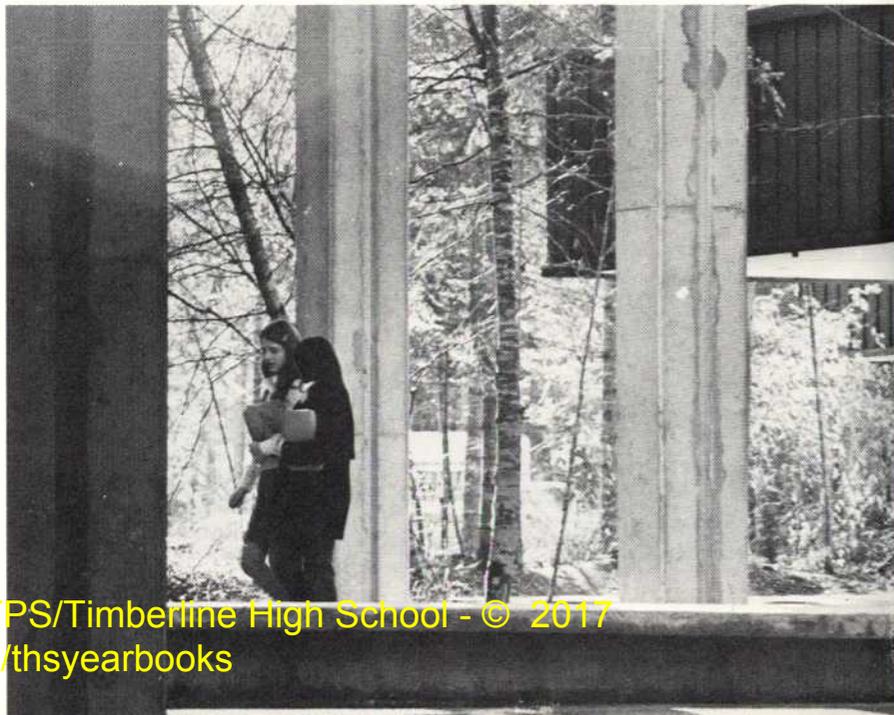

At times, students-especially seniors-found it difficult to concentrate in class, suffering from acute senioritis, or that age-old malady, spring fever.

After a long cold winter, the warmth and beauty of spring was appreciated by the students. You could walk to your next class without getting drenched - sometimes.

A moment together,
A thousand apart-
When will it end?
When did it start?

As a graduate ponders over his or her senior year in high school, the whole issue seems so insignificant, yet so imperative. Seniors want out so desperately, yet there is sadness and regret over the people they leave behind, and even more, all the things they never did.

Some graduates face the increased challenge of college work and another shot at learning. And there are those who face life. Pure and simple, they are on their own, learning from themselves and their own adventures. Exciting? Yes. Challenging? Yes. Terrifying? Yes! Whatever life-style or vocation you may choose, it is going to be a struggle. We all face the looming fight for the survival of our environment, but we must also all face our own search for happiness.

In the years ahead, the number of times you'll say, "when I was in high school," or "in my senior year," are countless. This reflection back over the experiences you have had is not useless reminiscing. The life you have lived at Timberline gives you a basis to progress and plan for your future.

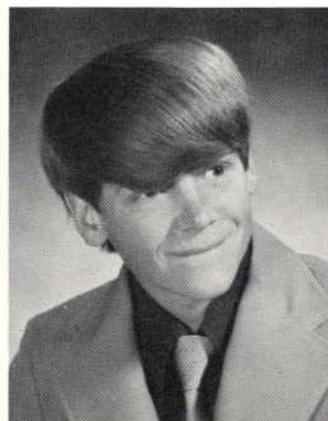

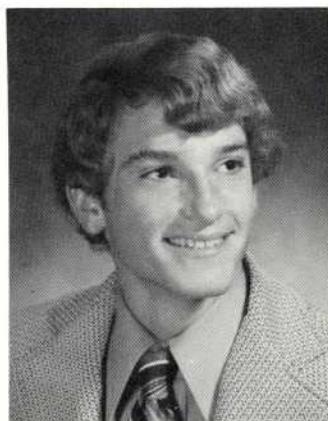

On the following pages are the names and faces of the THS class of 1973. Although it is necessary for each member to go his own way, we can remember the moments we have had together, and the times we have lived through at Timberline, for the rest of our lives.

Object of Rotary

The object of Rotary is to encourage and foster the ideal of service as a basis of worthy enterprise and, in particular, to encourage and foster:

- 1 The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service;
- 2 High ethical standards in business and professions; the recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations; and the dignifying by each Rotarian of his occupation as an opportunity to serve society;
- 3 The application of the ideal of service by every Rotarian to his personal, business and community life;
- 4 The advancement of international understanding, good will, and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the ideal of service.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS:

Throughout the 1973 Cairn, we have used poems and prose by people other than annual staff members. We had no intention of claiming these works as our own, so each time we took another's poem, we designated it as such with this symbol . The writers we have borrowed from are: Walter Rinder, Joseph Pintauro, and several unknown writers. We would also like to give special thanks to Jane Kaufman, Brian Currie, Scott Rockwell, and Deon Alexander, all of whom gave us their time and assistance, even though they were not officially annual staff members. Without the help of these people and the assistance of many faculty and student body members, the 1973 Cairn would have been an impossible task for the annual staff.

When You Remember Home, Remember Us!

Most of the memories of your school years are rooted in the school grounds and the time you were enrolled as a student. From the first terrifying moment to that last glorious day of graduation, your experiences grow and intertwine. However, for all "home town folk", the community of Lacey itself played an important role in the daily life.

During our school years, the 60's and early 70's, the Town of Lacey became the City of Lacey. As with so many of the suburban communities found along Interstate-5, it expanded greatly. One of the major developments of the 60's which became the center of commerce and activity of Lacey is the South Sound Center. Kids could spend an entire Saturday walking up and down the indoor mall, and casually shopping with their friends. With over sixty stores to serve Lacey located in one central spot, South Sound Center can rate well up with any of the world's finest shopping centers.

Mrs. B,
 As you may have gathered by now, I didn't know much about sewing to be in an advanced sewing class, but you have really helped me so much that I hope I can say I know more now. I know you ragged always calling you when you were at the other end of the room, but believe me it was greatly appreciated. Thanks so much for your willingness to help others and your smiling, laughing face.

Mrs. Bergh,
 Love, Mary Wiest

 I've enjoyed sewing for much longer than I've enjoyed anything else
 I've ever done. Love

MRS. BERGH,

You're such a gay + wonderful person to be around that it makes me think of you ~~as~~ more as a student rather than a teacher. Your sparkling personality makes 3 boring mods go by so fast, that it seems like 5 or 10 minutes. Stay as wild as you are + you'll always have friends. Hope to see you this

Mrs. Bergh,
a really sweet
person and teacher.
I have really enjoyed
having you for a teacher.
You really appreciate the time
I have spent with me.
Have a nice summer and
Have a nice summer too!
Love You
Karen

Mrs. Bergh the best teacher you are ever had. I think you've got the greatest personality too!
I sure had fun in your class this year. Have a nice
summer!
Love Janice
