He Plants Trees to Benefit Another Generation

Caecilius Statius (220-168 B.C.)

The annual is dedicated this year to the memory of an individual who has lived a life dedicated to the goals that were important to him.

Be it is his family, his school, or his church, Harry McCall was there working with determination to do his job to the fullest and best of his ability.

As a family man he showed the ability and drive to overcome life's setbacks and disappointments, and to raise three children.

His job as maintenance supervisor at North Thurston High School was often distasteful, and even more so, obscure to most people. It was a difficult task because it didn't just demand sweeping floors, but also involved patience, tolerance, and sheer dedication. It included everything from supervising potential drop out students, to repairing locks and boilers. More often than not, it involved the tedious and unwanted jobs of cleaning up after the sick and students who had neglectfully gone home.

In activities such as moving and remodeling the Lacey Baptist Chapel, he was there not only with advice but also with his hammer. Harry McCall's support for his church didn't end there, for above all, he was a faithful patron.

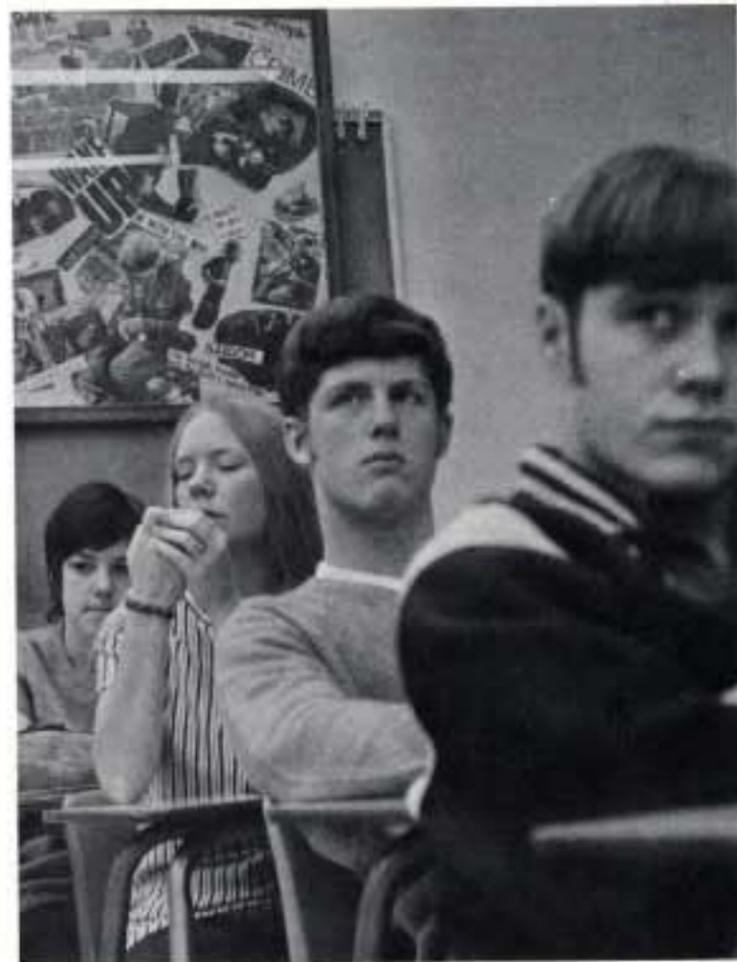

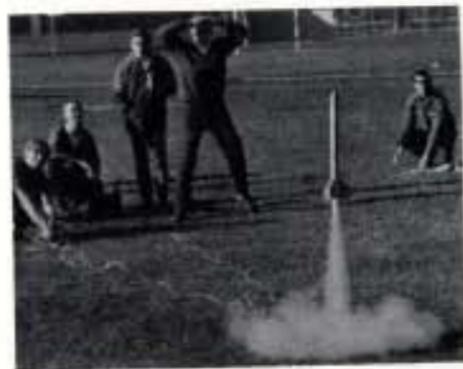

His years of service to the school can best be measured not by the time involved or by the demands of the job, but instead by his dedication to it and the respect accorded him by the staff and faculty of North Thurston. He will be well remembered by those who at one time or another had the opportunity to come in contact with him. When a person got to know him, they soon realized that he was unique in that he received life's rewards through his unending ability to give of himself.

It is because of his dedication and his willingness to live life to its best that we dedicate the 1971 Rambler to Mr. Harry McCall.

Union Gives Strength

Awop

The Rambler's main function is to create through pictures and print, a story that will relate to the student what events constituted that particular year at North Thurston High School.

It is an enormous task, for the essence of each individual's existence there can't be captured in words or pictures. The staff can only pick up the highlights and main activities of the school year, and hope that from there the individual fills in the blank spaces with memories of everyday life. For it's the everyday life that is relevant to each and every one of us.

A.S.B. Officers

If there had been a contest for the hardest-working group at Thurston, it would have been a tie between the custodians and the A.S.B. officers. The Associated Student Body was made up of all the clubs and all the sports teams and all the students and was governed, fairly democratically, by the Executive A.S.B. officers, and occasionally by the Student Council. Every detail concerning the school, from the dress code to the totem pole competition with Tumwater, went through the Executive Council. Besides this they were expected to come up with goals and plans acceptable to that intellectual phenomena, the student body. In spite of it all, the Executive Council initiated plans including a judiciary branch and a day to commemorate Thurston's Marathon for America.

"Let us never negotiate out of fear, but let us never fear to negotiate."

Vice President, Mark Eggen; Parliamentarian, Dennis Powell.

The yearbook is capable of serving a far greater purpose than just recording the annual events of the school year. It is a reminder to the individual as to the value and relevancy of the daily educational system that a student is taught in.

Once a person remembers the system, the annual then becomes a reminder not to lose sight that each person must do his part in helping the school.

The memories provided by it should keep one aware of the advantages and deficiencies of the school, and keep people involved in striving to improve that which is good and correct and that which needs improvement.

An all-time favorite, the Father-Daughter Banquet.

Girl's League President, Deb Dodge.

A fantastic year was had by Girl's League. The representatives tried to get everyone involved and almost attained their goal. At the same time Girl's League was devoted as several clubs combined. Besides countless activities including the Big-Little Sister Party, the Father-Daughter Banquet, the Tolo, and the Mother-Daughter Tea, Girl's League was involved in many behind the scene operations such as sponsoring a girl at Buckley.

In the Final Game, The Reamer's Jim Mc Couston and The Royal Pud's Mark Horn reach for the ball.

This years Boy's League was seemingly not as active as in the past, but lack of interest was perhaps not the major cause. With the beginning of intramural basketball in December and the turning out by twelve teams, interest was shown and Boy's League revived.

...The Universal Language Of of Mankind

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

North Thurston's Music Department is rumored throughout the state to be the best going. Thurston has not been disappointed, for the department has frequently represented the school not only at school activities but also across the state and come back with honors. The department not only sent the Orchestra to a special event in Moscow, Idaho, but also formed an ambitious new Stage Band.

Ovid (43 B.C.-18 A.D.)

Starting the year with a more experienced advisor ( the first time in five years that one returned) and a well-known play "The Odd Couple" bolstered the hopes of Thurston's Thespians. The group's activities included two all school plays and a Thespian only production.

Thespian Advisor and Director, Mr. Compton.

Where are The Snows...

Francois Villon

This year, as in the past, neither the hiking or the ski club seemed to be affected by the apathy which hit Thurston. One of the only factors causing cancelation or delay of activities was not lack of interest, but weather. In January the snowshoe hike was canceled due to snow, and ski club had a hard time making it to the mountains. Despite handicaps, it was a good year for these two organizations.

U.F.S. (Unidentified Flying Skier) successfully completes a run.

Never Leave That Till To-morrow Which You Can Do Today Benjamin Franklin

Rambler '70-'71 is unique. It is unique because it was compiled by a unique group- the Annual Staff of 1970-71.

The staff was involved in many activities besides simply deciding what the book was to be about. Every activity was attended by a photographer, every layout and pasteup was done by hand, and at every home football and basketball game concessions were sold.

The decisions on what photos to use, what copy to write, and even what the cover should be were difficult because the staff realized that these pages were to represent the entire school year.

Annual Staff; Roxyne Armstrong, Linda Grant, Lisa Kirk, Jim McGibbon, Marga Bettine, Hi Halsey, Dave Eby, Robert Schlegel, Steve McCallum; down in front, Tim Lindsey, Curt Highsmith.

Every year the Newspaper Staff runs into a bit of opposition from the students. Their major complaint is that the Rampage never comes out on time and when it does come out the news has turned into ancient history.

This year the Rampage staff decided to remedy the situation. First of all, the staff worked harder with stories being due at the beginning of each week, and layouts due on Wednesdays.

Then with a little more effort on the part of the Graphics Department the completed Rampage was seen in the hands of the students at the end of each week.

In spite of this increased production and the increased efforts of the staff, the newspaper still wasn't appreciated by the students.

All Things That Are, Are With More Spirit

Pep Club began the year by instigating a point system for members who worked on various activities. The major project undertaken was the arranging for pep week and Homecoming Dance. Pep Club, inspite of its excellent organization, failed to reach a major portion of a somewhat indifferent student body.

With the confusion of tryouts beginning the year, members of the Drill Team managed to pull themselves together for a year of exhibitions and competitions. They brought home some awards from around the area and also marched at several Ram games.

Gone With The Wind

Everyone is aware that it is not always easy to arouse school spirit for what seems to be innumerable social functions. With a minority of the student body totally devoted to Homecoming however, Thurston managed to bring across enough enthusiasm and spirit for Pep Week and our victory over Timberline.

People Are Strange

The Doors

On the evening of May 8, chairmen Leslie Kennedy and Marga Bettine reached the climax of their frantic preparations--May Dance and Coronation. Attendance was improved over last year--perhaps due to the well-publicized controversy over the theme, "People Are Strange."

Be Favorable To Bold Beginnings

Virgil (70 B.C.-19 A.D.)

Craig Reinhart received much response during his speech.

Primary elections, held two days after the speeches, narrowed the field in most of the offices except for Historian and Recorder. These two offices, due to well-publicized school apathy, each had only one candidate. General elections, held a week later, resulted in the following:

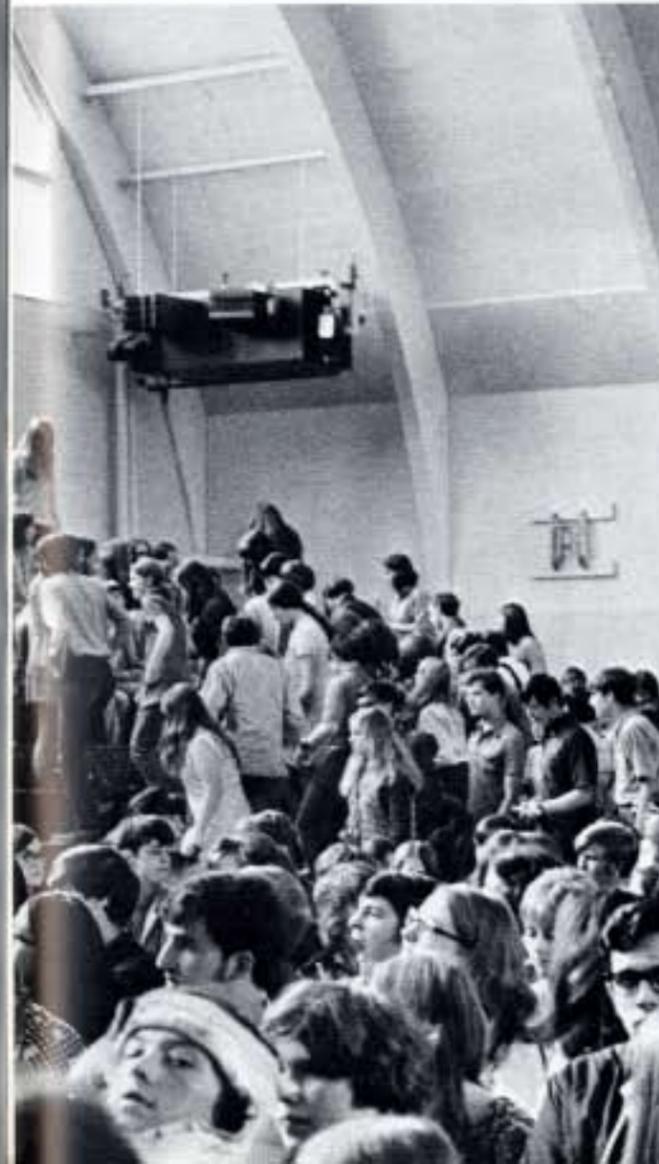

- President - Craig Reinhart
- Vice-President - Steve Mace
- Secretary - Teresa Senior
- Corr. Secretary - Mark Harmon
- Recorder - John Dziedzic
- Historian - Shelley Kirk

Mark Eggen mc'd for the primary election candidates.

Move-up day proved to be as successful as the eventful year leading up to it. With the ousting of the Class of '71, each class crowded into their new sections on the gym bleachers. One focal point of this last assembly was the introduction of the '71-'72 ASB Executive Council.

Mrs. McCall receives the dedication on behalf of her husband.

The World Is Too Much With Us

William Wordsworth

Mr. Sinclair explained the basics of sailing.

Welding was included in the list of courses.

A three-day survival hike was also offered.

Mini courses offered students and teachers a chance to get away from what may be termed "the school rut" organized by Mr. Arbuckle, it was introduced into the curriculum this year. It allowed for one week in which teachers could instruct courses not carried in the usual schedule, and students were allowed to arrange their own classes. The courses were extremely varied and included everything from sailing to dog training to slide rules and back again. It was felt that, if successful, the program would be repeated in the following year.

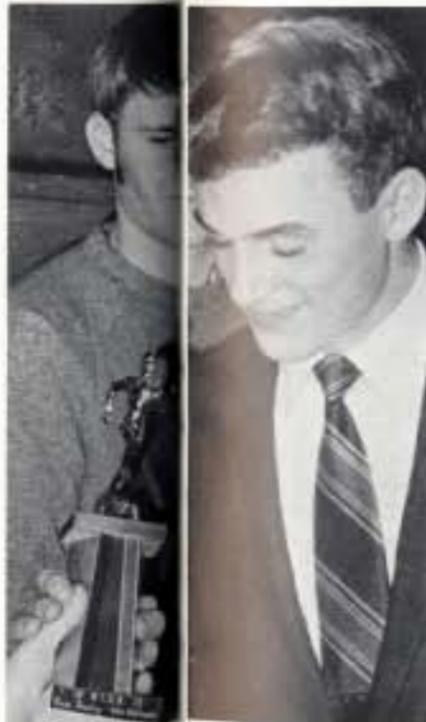

A course in billiards proved very popular.

Coach Anderson scrutinizes his runners.

Inspirational winner, Mike McGimpsey

To Teach Is To Learn Twice Joseph Joubert

So many times one hears the importance of communication for education. There are many who have been successful, and to these faculty members and administrators, we say thank-you. Thank-you for the time, patience and understanding you have put into this school, this student body. And for those who have not been truly successful, next year brings another chance.

Take heart, you have not failed. Some are reached, more important, some are touched.

To Teach Is To Learn Twice Joseph Joubert

So many times one hears the importance of communication for education. There are many who have been successful, and to these faculty members and administrators, we say thank-you. Thank-you for the time, patience and understanding you have put into this school, this student body. And for those who have not been truly successful, next year brings another chance.

Take heart, you have not failed. Some are reached, more important, some are touched.

Freshmen Class

With the school year '70-'71 being the first year of the incorporation of the freshman class at Thurston, problems not anticipated arose and those problems expected didn't arrive. But despite the major transition from junior high to high school, the adaptation was made quite well by the ninth graders and segregation of the classes lessened as the year went by.

Sophomore Class

Beginning their year in a new school, the Sophomores did much to impress the other classes. They began by cancelling their class dance, but by the end of the year they managed to sufficiently master the wily ways of high school life and bring their treasury upto around 250 dollars.

Plagued by undaunted ridicule from the all-knowing upperclassmen, the sophomores fought to make a showing in athletics, class spirit, and general enthusiasm. The lack of effective orientation for the new students was obvious, however, and caused a good deal of confusion within the class.

Carl Hauser received Presidential Scholar Award.

Junior class Advisor, Mr. Sprague

The class of '72 took things in stride this past year. Their conduct on the whole, improved from the previous year. They even surpassed the concerned. Their fund raising projects consisted largely of car washes and bake sales, however they look forward to their Senior year being better off financially than the class of '71. Senior class occasionally, as far as spirit was

This year's Senior Class had the dubious honor of having the largest enrollment of any class at N. T., including the classes for several years to come. Split in their 9th grade year with the completion of a new junior high and threatened with the same prospect their senior year, the class of '71 looked forward to the final, inevitable split with graduation.

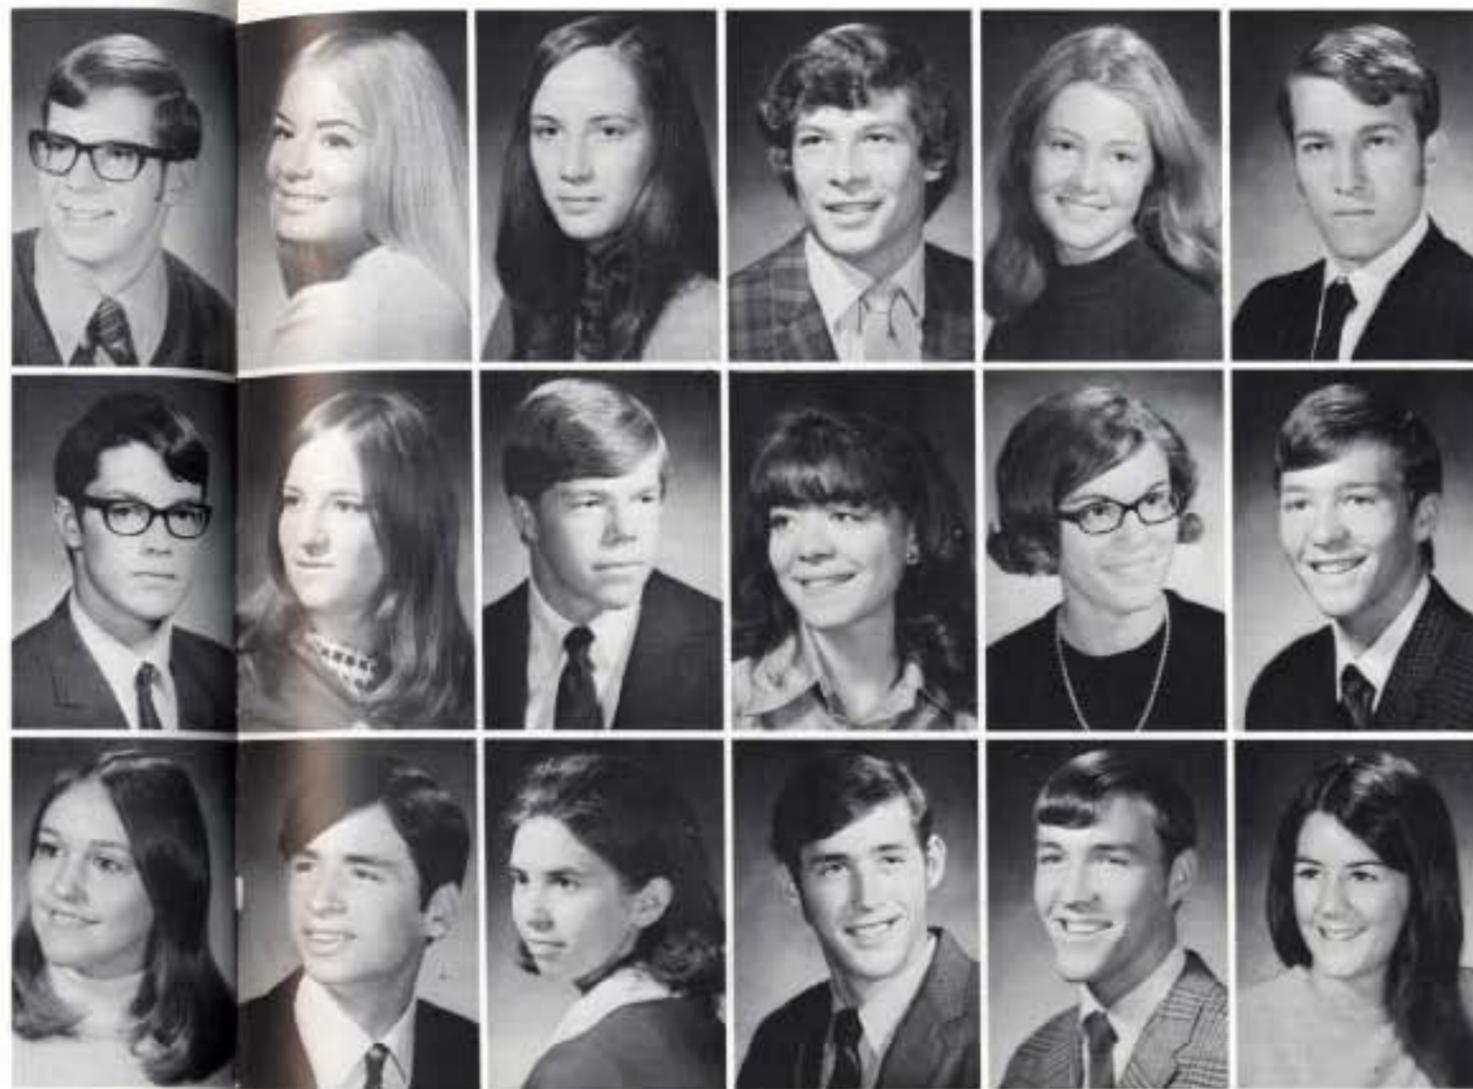

That the attitudes of the class of '71 have altered radically in the past 3 years is obvious. That these attitudes will continue to change and become the basis of new hope for the earth is not yet so clear.

THE HONORS

If Youth But Knew, And Old Age Only Could

Henri Estienne

Sister Eymard gave the Baccalaureate address on 'Must Thou Char the Wood.' The Invocation was given by Rev. Jake Armstrong.

HaveYou Heard?

The Moody Blues

Class Choice Speaker - Susan Clark.

Faculty Choice Speaker - Melissa Nelson.

Class Choice Speaker - Pat Spurgin.

Faculty Choice Speaker - Dennis Powell.

Lorna Little sang a vocal solo, 'On a Clear Day.'

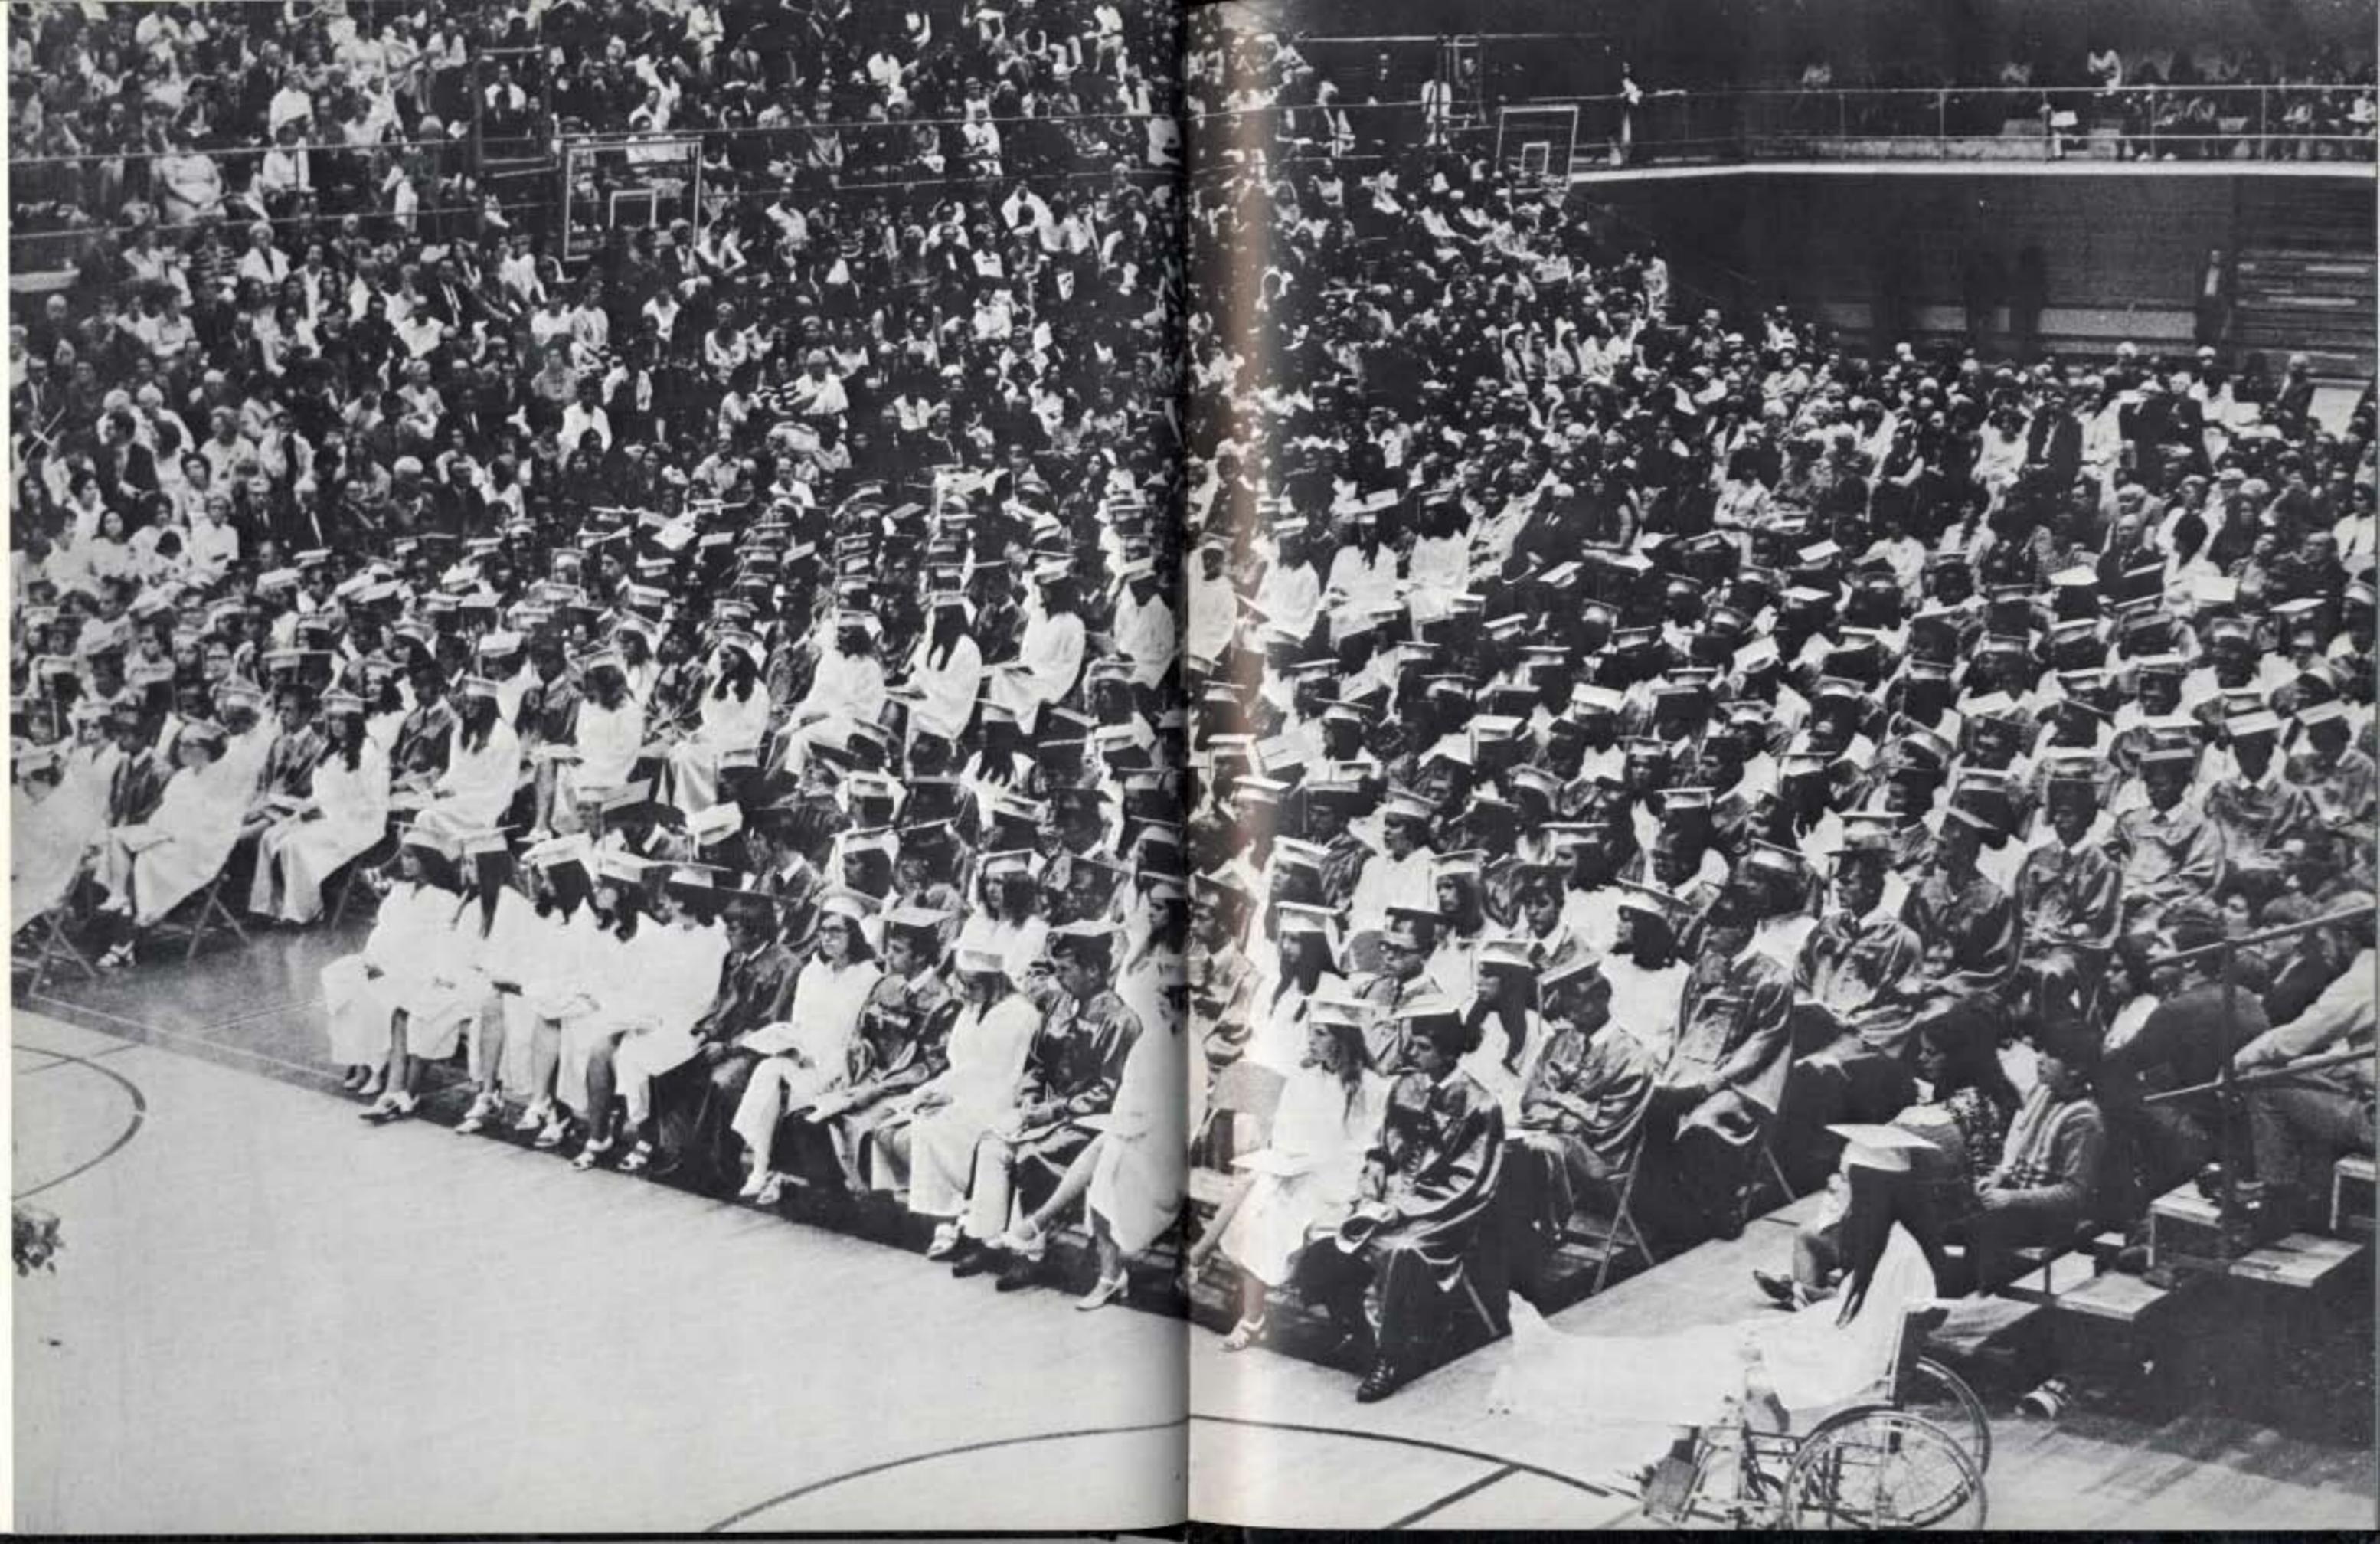

A clarinet solo was performed by Carl Hauser.

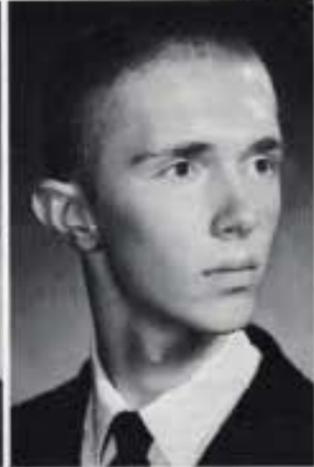

Commencement was held June 10 in the Capitol Pavilion. Although there were relatively little or no demonstrations of dissention (as has been the growing tendency in past graduations everywhere) the student speakers were fairly representative of class opinions.

Following the speeches and presentations of scholarships, awards, and diplomas, the graduates cleared out in record time for respective celebrations.
