THE RAMBLER — 1960-61

North Thurston High School

Lacey, Washington

Ramroc

The theme this book is to portray
Is all about the peppy way
The students cheer at a Friday game
And the noisy way they yell their "name."
But school spirit doesn't just exist
At sporting events. So on our list
We tried to give an equal share
To all the things for which you care.

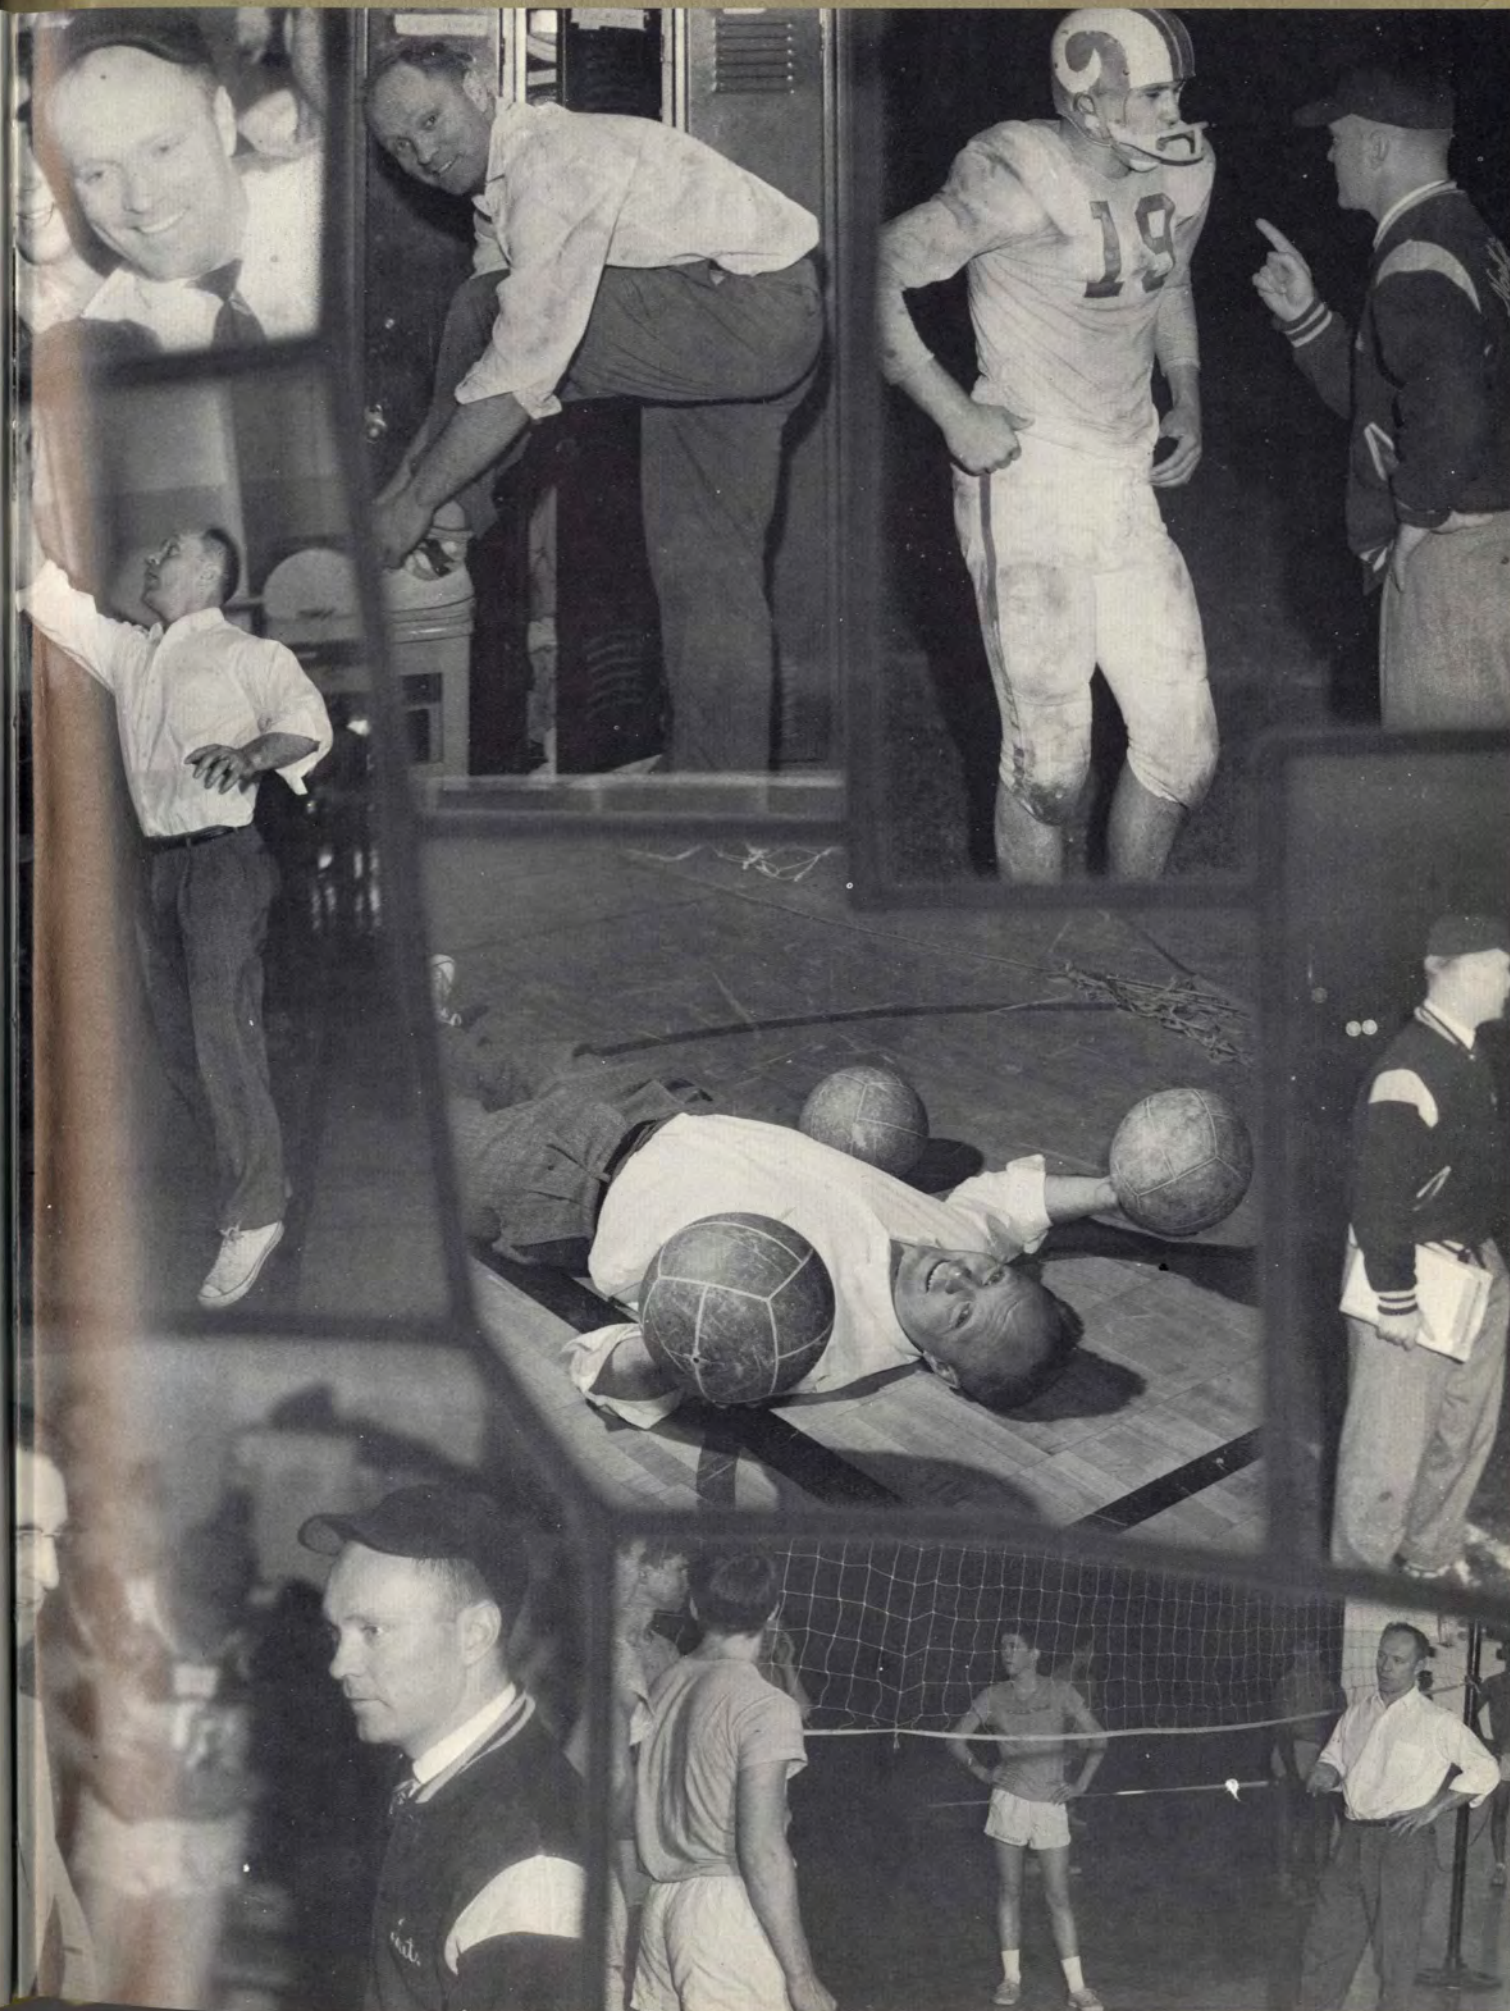

We covered clubs, music, and classes,
Academics, honors, and pretty lasses.
Besides these things inside you'll see
Our N.T.H.S. faculty.
The '61 Rambler is meant for you,
So you may cherish the things you do.
We hope that you enjoy our style —
If so, our work will be worthwhile.

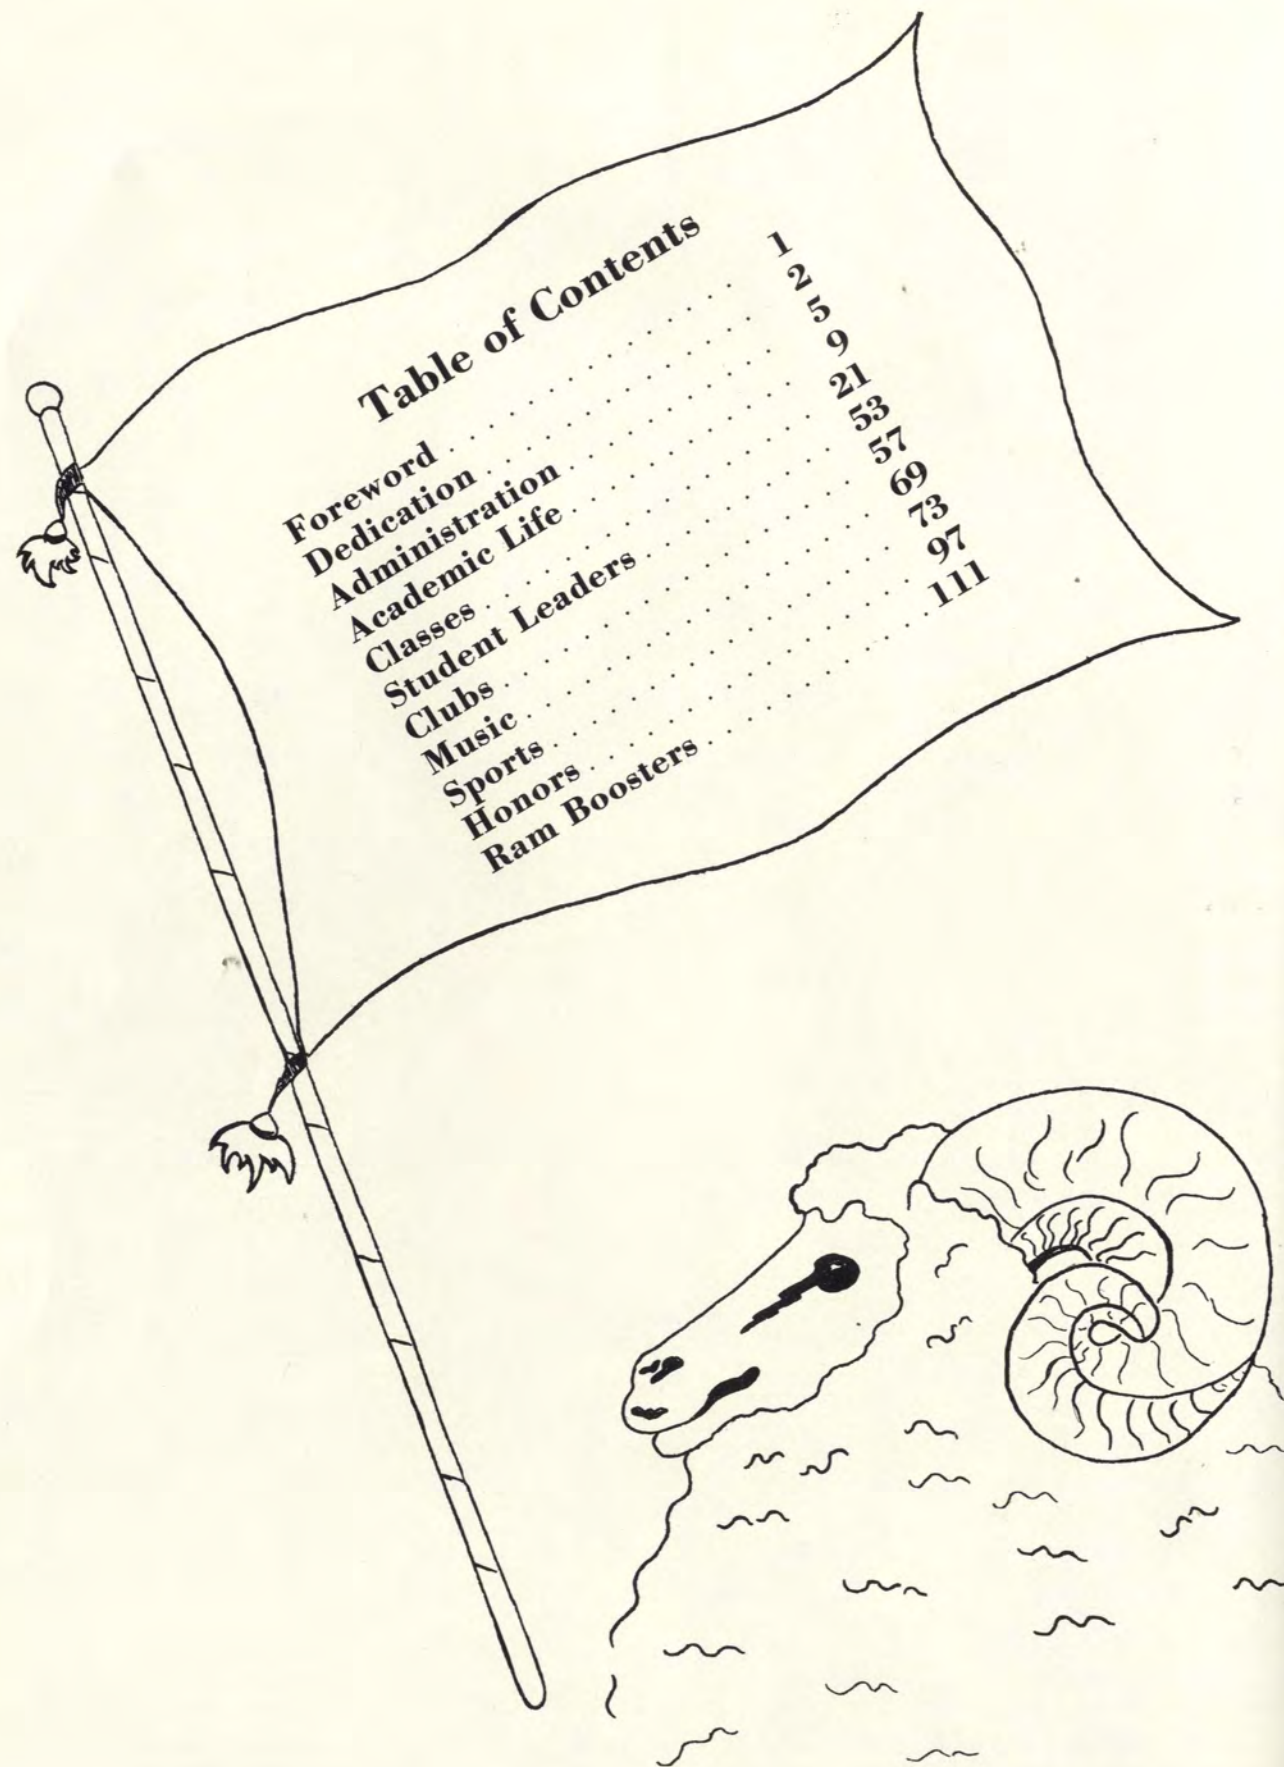

To One Who Is Close to the Heart . . .

Jim Fouts, teacher, adviser, coach, friend.

We, the 1961 Rambler staff, dedicate this yearbook to you who are close to the heart of all our school spirit. You have been teaching at North Thurston High School since its first year. Through your many additional activities you have become close to the students and helped mold the character of our school. We would like to applaud your work as class adviser during the students' beginning year at high school. Through your efforts we have become league champions in the three major sports. It is not only because of these things, but because you are thoughtful, and a friend to the students that we are proud to dedicate the 1961 Rambler to you, Mr. Fouts.

ADMINISTRATION

SEATED: Frank A. Bower, principal; Charles E. Callahan, superintendent; Robert C. Her-ness, administrative assistant. STANDING: Joe E. Hale, vice-principal.

Since the opening of North Thurston High School, North Thurston has grown from a small second-class district to a first-class district. This year marked the beginning of a new interscholastic league, the Seamount League, of which our school is an important member. Our high school, with an enrollment this year of more than eight hundred thirty students, is no small chore to operate and maintain. Our administrative officers are responsible for the smooth operation, in all aspects, of our school.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS: Nels Anderson, Harold McCaslin, Ralph Brown, Lloyd Morgan, Robert Blume.

The Board of Directors of the North Thurston School District is composed of five members, each elected from a director district, but chosen by all the legally qualified voters in the school district. Each member is elected for a term of four years. The main function of the board is legislative. The board adopts policies for the operation of schools and employs a competent superintendent to execute and administer these policies. Regular meetings are held on the second Wednesday of each month.

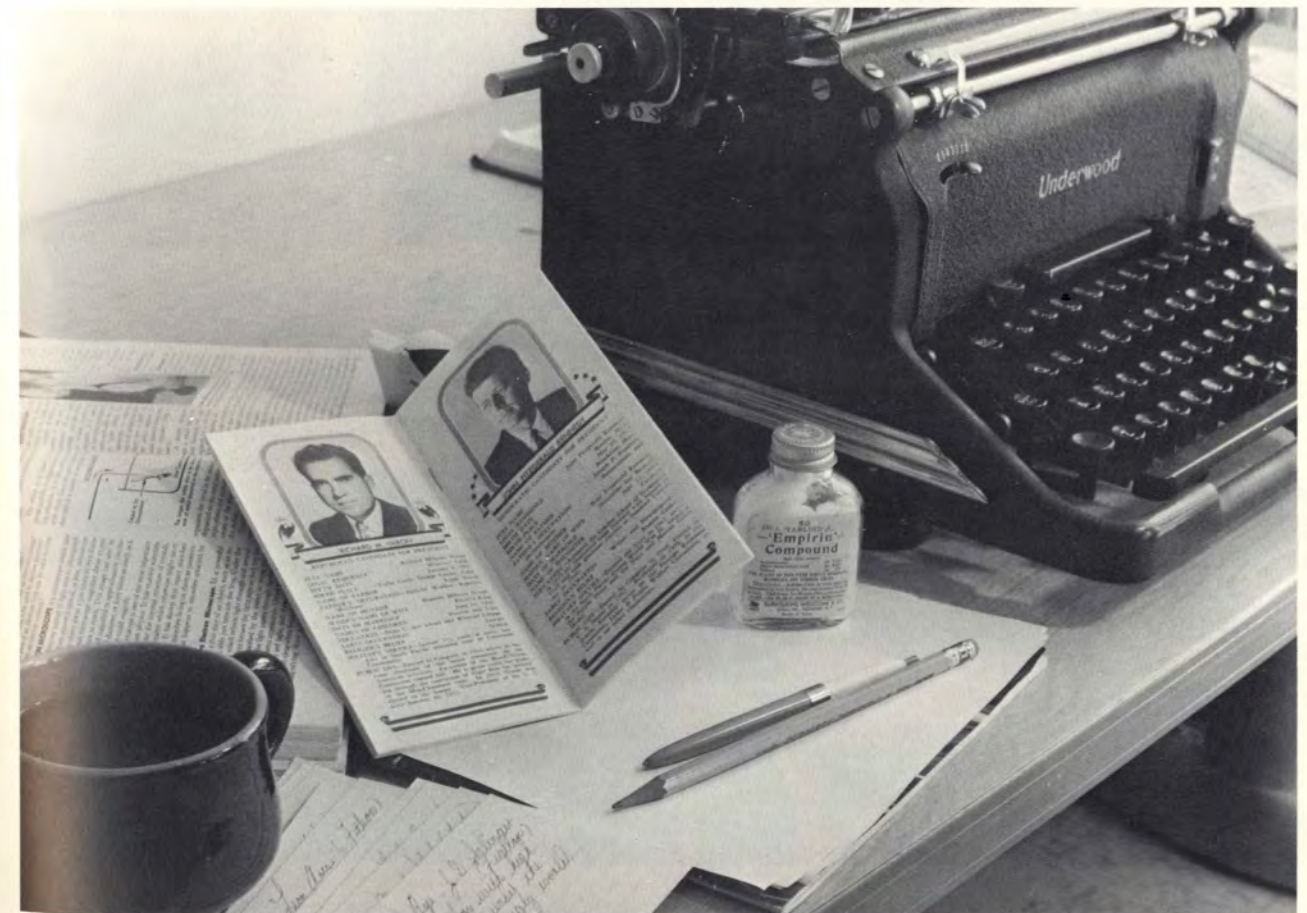

PARENT-TEACHERS ASSOCIATION OFFICERS: Donna Gustafson, secretary; Dan Nasman, first vice-president (program chairman); Willa Mylroie, president; Maxine Rowswell, second vice-president (publicity chairman); and Maxine Judd, treasurer.

The Legislature, guidance in post-high school education, mental health and juvenile protection were among the themes of monthly meetings of this year's P.T.A. Officers of the Parent-Teachers Association led the organization in many worthwhile activities. The P.T.A. worked with a student council committee on the sports banquets. The Association helped to organize the seniors' graduation party, and contributed a prize of thirty dollars to be used as the reward of a game at the party. Again this year, a four-hundred-dollar scholarship was awarded by the group to a graduating senior. Mr. and Mrs. James Walton chaperoned at school dances as representatives of the club. In the spring, two members attended a state convention in Spokane. These and many other activities contributed to a successful and gratifying year.

Recognition for Our Honor Students

"Pigskin-Panic" was this year's Honor Society dance. Proceeds from the dance helped to provide money for a college scholarship of one hundred dollars for a deserving senior from the Society. This club, under the direction of Mrs. Newton, plans to take on this project every year.

The Honor Society is a club for sophomores, juniors, and seniors with at least a B average.

As the first activity of the year, Orientation Day was given for the benefit of the frosh. The members served refreshments and acted as guides.

George presides at meetings.

The Society decided to purchase a plaque, which is now on display in the trophy case. It lists the top ten seniors from each year. They are chosen on a scholastic basis.

Final activities of the year included helping the library find overdue books, and ushering for Baccalaureate and Commencement.

Nicki reads the new constitution.

"Eyes to the sky!" might well have been the motto of the Science Club this year. The members decided to build an observatory as their annual project. The plan was that the observatory should house a telescope, purchased with school funds, which should be available to all students.

The main functions of this club are to provide help with science problems, and to set up the annual science fair. The members spend much time and work getting ready for this event. Each year the Science Club awards two trophies. They are presented to the two top students in science.

The regular meetings consist of a speech by one of the members, a science film, or a science lecture. The group has taken many field trips. These included going to Mt. Rainier and to the ocean. The members learn about science and at the same time find much enjoyment in Science Club.

Ingredients of the science fair: thought, hard work, and the final reward. Dick Piesch, Wayne Bryan, and Denny Andrews work on their projects. George Brown with the final product.

THE Rambler staff's seemingly endless schedule began last spring when the editors were chosen and the members met to decide on the theme and dedicatee. Throughout the summer the staff members tried to collect ideas for pictures, layouts and copy. When school opened in the fall, the first item on the agenda was the annual-staff dance. Soliciting ads, sponsoring a concessions stand at home football and basketball games, and holding a winter dance were among the ways in which the staff procured money to produce the Rambler. Making and following a budget, planning picture schedules, choosing a publisher, and meeting deadlines contributed to an exciting and fast-moving year.

As each member joined the staff, he faced a great challenge. To plan, prepare and publish a yearbook was the job of the entire staff; to do his job as well as he could and to help others whenever needed was the responsibility of every member; to achieve perfection was the goal. As each member looks back on this year, he remembers work and worry along with excitement and triumph. Only the readers of this yearbook can judge whether or not the time and technique put into the book were worthwhile. As members, we enjoy the satisfaction of knowing that we worked to our capabilities, and hope that our work was not in vain.

The Rampage is composed twice a month by the journalism class which writes the stories and the Multilith class which prints it.

A new size for the paper was adopted this year. It is six inches by eight inches — about half the size as in previous years. The Rampage was chosen paper of the month for November by the Pacific Slope Student and Publisher for having attractive layouts, heads and ads, and well-written news.

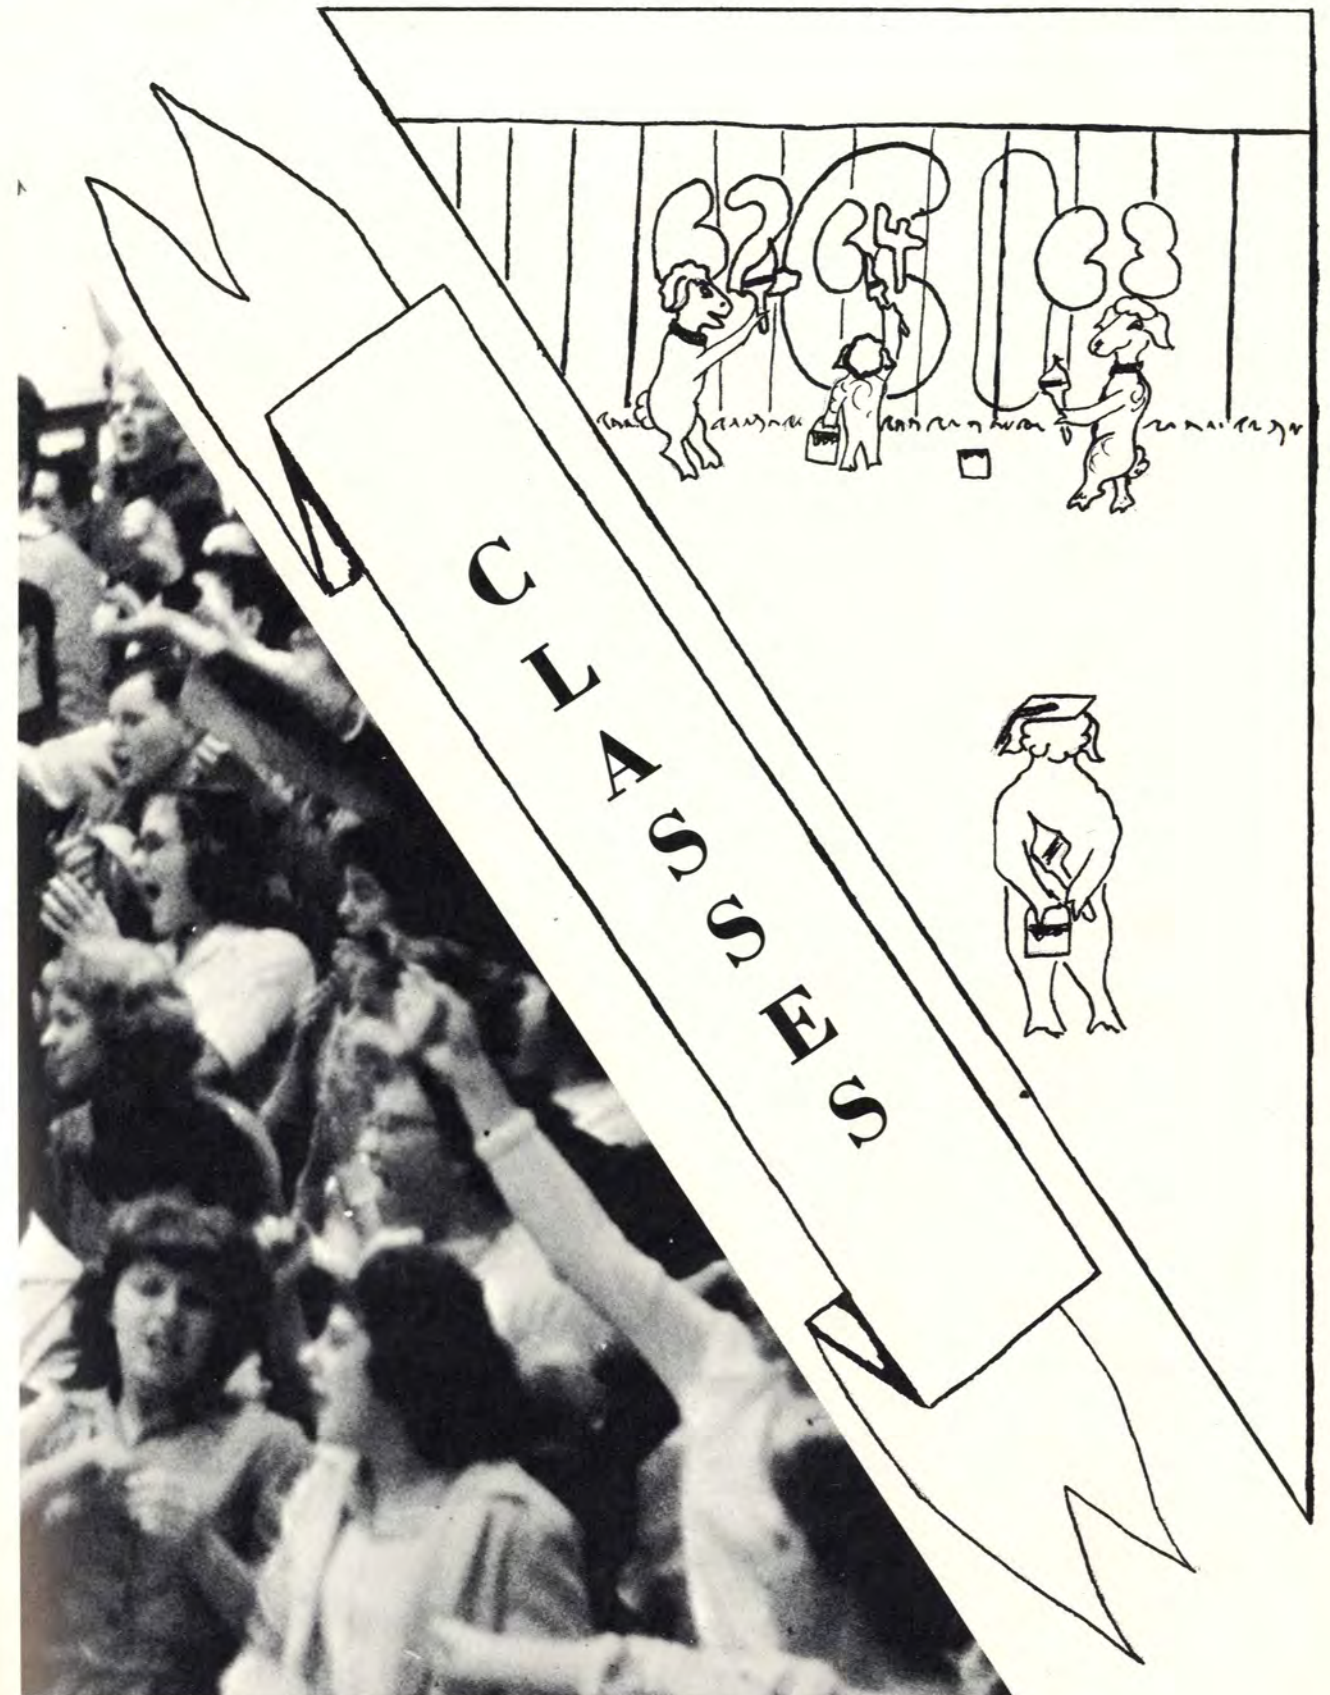

Nicki and Kathy collaborate with Mrs. Thomas to make up a page.

Two more years and this rousing class will be free.

The sophomores have learned a lot this year — specifically, that they should be careful while painting signs for activities: they spilled red paint on the kitchen floor while painting publicity posters for . . .

"Farewell to '60", which was sponsored by the sophomore class. Everyone from a bouncing baby to Father Time showed up. Although it was held December 30th, the New Year was celebrated with confetti, balloons and streamers.

See you in the halls of Thurston next year — juniors.

Anxiety turned to relief for the successful candidates, and suspense turned to certainty for the students when the Associated Student Body officers were announced last spring. The officers work with the student council to make and amend the laws that govern the student body. Juniors and seniors with a C average or better who have been active members of the ASB are eligible to run for ASB offices. These students hold office for one year.

Devising a plan to sell the football field was one of the special projects carried on by the officers this year. They made "deeds" which were sold to the public, and the money obtained was added to the grandstand fund.

The Quarterback Club advertises the sale of the football field.

Barry, Paul, Denny, Tammy, Gordie and George get a charge out of promoting World Clothing Week.

World Clothing Week started off with a bang when the officers wore old clothes to school to publicize this drive. When NTHS sent five delegates to a television show in Seattle, three of the students who attended were ASB officers.

The student council is made up of the executive board and the homeroom representatives. These representatives are elected by their homerooms at the beginning of the school year and in January. Their duties are to take part in the student council meetings and report council decisions to their homerooms.

Many students were surprised and honored when they received unexpected invitations to join Quill and Scroll. This is a national honorary organization for high school journalists. Members are chosen from students who have been recommended by the newspaper, Multilith or annual teachers for their outstanding work and scholastic achievements. This group sponsored "Here's My Heart," a dance after the basketball game with White River. Money from the dance was used to augment expenses at the Pacific Slope School Press Clinic, held on the University of Washington campus on February 24th and 25th, which many members attended.

The Future Farmers of America is an organization for boys enrolled in vocational agriculture science. The primary purpose of the organization is to develop those qualities of leadership that will assist each boy to take his rightful place in adult society.

The North Thurston Chapter offers numerous opportunities for a boy to develop qualities in preparation for future leadership. Each qualified member may compete in contests such as dairy cattle judging, livestock judging, poultry judging and crops judging. Each may compete in public speaking and parliamentary contests. Each boy, as well, can learn through active participation how a committee functions and how to serve as an officer. The local chapter has been fortunate in winning many chapter and individual honors. Members exhibiting at fairs have won many grand championships as well as numerous blue ribbons. Parliamentary teams and public speakers have done exceptionally well: many banners have been earned by their judging teams.

At F.F.A's annual Harvest Ball this year, Evie Farr was selected as Chapter Sweetheart.

To start their fun-filled year, the Girls' League held their Big-Little Sister Party. Each freshman girl received a big sister from the senior or junior class.

At each meeting the Ramette is distributed. It contains the agenda of the meeting, articles of interest, the creed and a description of the girl-of-the-month, nominated by members and chosen by the executive council for her outstanding characteristics.

Other activities were the Father-Daughter Banquet, making up a Christmas basket for a needy family, and the Mother's Tea.

Suspense rises as freshman girls wait for their big sisters to be announced at the Big-Little Sister Party.

Learning To Teach

The Future Teachers of America is comprised of students who want to become teachers. Their activities are centered around this goal.

They have held two exchange meetings with St. Martin's F.T.A. this year. They sponsored a pickle sale and a dance.

During the second semester they visited the grade schools in the area to sit in the classes and observe the teachers, and possibly to take part in instruction.

In addition to sending a delegate to the weekly Chamber of Commerce meetings in Olympia, the members have designed a showcase display for the J. C. Eighteen members, their adviser, and two mothers on November 22 made a trip to KING-TV in Seattle. The purpose was to study the presentation of advertisements. The group was conducted on a tour of the studio and its film laboratory.

With the appointment this summer of Mr. Leonard, sponsor of troupe 1673, as Washington Thespian State Director, many responsibilities were placed on the shoulders of all NTHS troupe members. To carry out these responsibilities, officers were elected this year. The main item for their consideration was the Northwest Dramatic Arts Conference, a two-day convention on the University of Washington campus. Information concerning the conference had to be mailed to schools throughout this area, and arrangements for more than 200 delegates had to be made. On October 27th, five carloads of North Thurston students and chaperones left for Seattle. Workshops, meetings, general assemblies, sightseeing, the viewing of two plays, a luncheon and a night club supper were all included on the two days' agenda. The convention, if measured in terms of learning more about dramatics while meeting new and interesting people, was a huge success.

This spring, as usual, a formal initiation for Thespian members was held. In order to become a member of this organization, ten points, representing ten hours of dramatics work each, must have been earned. After the initiation ceremony, the two seniors who have been most outstanding in dramatic work during their four high school years are announced, and awards are presented to them.

As this year comes to a close, Thespians look back upon it as a very profitable and worthwhile one. Satisfaction from a job well done, whether it be as a cast member, part of the backstage crew, or any of the other numerous tasks associated with the production of a play; skill acquired from work in dramatics; friendships gained; and responsibility accepted have all been experienced this year. Only to one who has known the thrill of hearing "Curtain going up!" or laughter at one of his funny lines or applause at the end of a good performance, can the real feeling of an actor be known. Only to those who have worked hard to prepare the actors, the stage and the audience for a performance can real appreciation for a play be known.

There All the Honor Lies!"

Friday, November 18th, was the opening night for the first play of the year, "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay." This comedy, written by Cornelia Otis Skinner and Emily Kimbrough, relates the adventures of the two young American girls who take a European vacation. The 1920 setting of the play adds to its humor. "Alice in Wonderland," adapted from the book by Lewis Carroll, was selected as this year's play for Junior Programs. It was presented on the 28th of February and March 1st. The last all-school production, "Three on the Aisle," was given in arena style on April 21st and 22nd. Mr. Leonard had a lead part in the Olympia Little Theatre's presentation of "The Mousetrap."

Rams Win Second League Championship!

This year the Rams finished their football season in fine style. They won seven games and lost one. In Seamount League play they won six games, the most important of which was a 13 to 7 win over Peninsula. The Suburbanites' only loss was at the hands of Chehalis. The team placed fourteenth in class AA high school football standings.

While the varsity was winning a hard-fought championship, the J.V.'s were following this example. They finished their season with a five-win-and-two-loss record, defeating Shelton 20 to 6 to clinch the championship. This was the first J.V. league championship in the school's history.

The season was topped off by the annual football banquet. At the dinner, the Inspirational and Mr. Hustle awards were presented to Garry Bower and Mike Thompson.

Rams Enjoy Best Season in School's History

North Thurston's varsity basketball team finished its regular season with a record of 14 wins and 3 losses. However, the Rams had to settle for a tie for the Seamount championship when they were upset, 79—77, in the second overtime play, by the Shelton Highclimbers in their final league game. The Suburbanites then had to face Shelton again to see which of the teams would go to District. The Rams won the playoff game in a stunning second-half rally, 66—47. In the District meet, the Rams met South Kitsap, a team which the Suburbanites had already faced twice in the regular season and defeated both times. The Thurstonites found the going tough as the Wolf defense pressed around All-Conference star Dale Ford, but Keith Shugarts, another All-Conference choice, picked up the slack, and the Rams edged by the Kitsap team, 44—43. The following night, the Suburbanites downed West Bremerton, 65—52, to win passage to the State AA Tournament in Seattle. The team's first opponent was Wapato, ranked 6th in the State Associated Press poll. The Rams, who were ranked 14th, were outplayed 76—63. The following day the Rams met their rivals, the Olympia Bears. It was a do-or-die game because the loser would be eliminated from the tournament. The Bruins had ranked 2nd in the state, but they were unable to warm up as the Rams trounced them, 63—39. The win over the Bears gave the Suburbanites the right to advance into the third round of the tournament. In the third round, the Thurston team met Central Valley, runner-up in last year's tourney and favored to defeat the Rams. The game was a close one, in which Central Valley slipped by the Rams 65—60 with the best shooting ever seen in state tournament play. The total season record for the Rams was 18 wins and 5 losses, under co-captains Garry Bower and Dale Ford.

The junior varsity won its first championship since the school opened with a record of 10 wins and 2 losses in league play and a season record of 12 wins and 2 losses. Bob Russell was chosen honorary captain and Ed Westberg was picked as Mr. Hustle. Marty Nodilo led the team in scoring.

The freshmen, defeating Curtis 38—34, won their second straight championship.

The season finale was the basketball banquet. At the banquet the individual awards were presented and everyone enjoyed a fine meal. The team and cheerleaders created immeasurable enthusiasm and produced a season of thrills and top sportsmanship.

Pre-season Forecast

Although numerous lettermen will be missing when initial turnouts begin, another fine baseball team is predicted for the Rams for the forthcoming baseball season: perhaps a repeat of their league championship team of last year.

The outfield will be paced by hard-hitting Garry Bower. Manning the infield will be J. W. Wright, smooth-fielding second baseman; Chuck Blacketer, shortstop; Jack Suvak, third base; Paul Carey, shortstop and third base; and Dale Ford and Keith Shugarts when they are not pitching.

Chief candidates for pitchers are Ford, Shugarts, Mike Thompson and Gene Parkhurst. In the catching department, Dave Brown, Jim McKinney and Sam Schlegel are the foremost candidates. No doubt some from last year's J. V. squad will step into varsity positions as the season progresses.

This will be the first year our baseball team has played on a lighted field. Evening games will be exciting for the spectators and make it possible for adults to attend. Highlight of the season for some lucky seniors will be the possibility of playing in an All-Star game at Cheney Field in Tacoma, and then the All-State game in Seattle.

A gasp, a scream, a sigh of relief. These are the reactions given by spectators at the performances of the North Thurston tumbling team. The boys provided half-time entertainment at several home basketball games.

The team displayed routines on mats, the springboard and trampoline. At one performance, Bob Hughes and Gary Lusby demonstrated a competitive trampoline match. The squad is made up of boys interested in developing the skills and co-ordination necessary to perform simple or complicated tumbling routines. After working hard and practicing all year, the team took a trip to the University of Washington to witness competitive gymnastics.

The tumblers are taught skill and teamwork by Mr. Roswell. He is assisted by the team captain, Ron Russell.

Wrangling Becomes a Formal Affair

Even though the paper record of North Thurston's wrestling team was nothing to brag about, the future looks very hopeful. This was North Thurston's first year at this sport, and it takes several seasons of supervised drill and work to become skilled at wrestling. With excellent showings made by some of the younger members, the future looks very bright.

This year's cheerleaders had a full schedule from the early summer of 1960 to the spring of 1961.

During the summer, three of the staff attended a cheerleading conference in Ellensburg. They came back full of enthusiasm and new ideas, which they passed on to the others.

The assemblies again were carried on in contest form. The class which showed the most school spirit during the assembly was rewarded with the megaphone. At the end of the year, the class which had won it the most times was presented with a trophy.

The assemblies, themselves, were usually 20 to 30 minutes long. The cheerleaders generally put on a brief skit or did a routine to a record.

A dance was sponsored at the end of the football season. The proceeds from the dance went towards paying for their outfits.

The cheerleaders attended every game and led the students in songs and yells, always pulling for more school spirit.

A big change came this year when the six girls on the staff were blessed with the presence of Dale Heinemann, the school's first yell duke.

Senior plaques have become a tradition at North Thurston and are eagerly anticipated each spring. Twenty-five per cent of the graduating class is eligible for these awards. The recipients are selected from all the students who qualify by a committee, appointed by the A.S.B. president, and the student body recorder. To be eligible for a plaque, the student must be a graduating senior who has maintained a "C" average throughout high school; he must have held an A.S.B. Card each year he was enrolled at this school, also. Transfer students may count activities at other schools, if these activities are comparable to those at North Thurston; however, no more than eight semesters may be credited toward the plaques. Recipients must have lived up to the A.S.B. constitution and be in good standing with the school and faculty. Each winner has to qualify in at least three of the following areas: (1) A.S.B. officer, member of song or yell staff; (2) One of the top five Thespians; (3) One of the top five in music; (4) RAMPAGE Editor, RAMBLER editor, business manager or photographer; (5) Athletics; (6) Class president or Girls' League president; (7) Six semesters on the honor roll or two years in Honor Society; (8) One of the top five in F.F.A.; (9) Member of the league all-star team; (10) Drill Team; (11) Service Club; (12) Clubs, organizations, special areas; (3) School service. Plaques are presented on Awards Day in the spring.
