The Key Learning Center Orton-Gillingham Associate training offers an opportunity for teachers, tutors, parents, and other professionals to be introduced to the fundamentals of the Orton-Gillingham Approach including strategies that can be used one-on-one, in small groups, and in the classroom. The focus of this course is foundational literacy instruction based on Orton-Gillingham principles. The course is grounded in the science of reading integrated with multisensory techniques and strategies for effective literacy instruction. It is suitable for teachers of elementary classes (grades K-4) and most beneficial for primary grade teachers.

The evidence-based OG Approach is effective for both initial reading instruction and for remediation with older students with deficits in language-based literacy skills. Accredited by nationally recognized organizations, this course is based on the Orton-Gillingham Approach. It includes direct instruction via lectures, hands-on activities, and small group learning with highly experienced mentor teachers.

The practicum (additional fee required) continues with trainees working directly with a student, utilizing the principles and strategies of the OG Approach to assess student needs, analyze data, and plan and teach lessons. OG experience is gained via a required year-long supervised clinical teaching practicum. The completion of coursework and practicum meets the requirements for both ALTA and OGA, making the participant eligible to apply for credentialing after meeting each organization's additional specific requirements.

The Orton-Gillingham Approach to Teaching Reading, Spelling, and Writing

Bridge from Basic to Advanced Course
Live Online

July 20-July 24, 2026
9:00-2:30 ET

The Bridge course is a follow-up to the OG Associate coursework and practicum for those who are ready to work with higher-level language concepts and older students. Key's Level III sequence is presented with a focus on strategies for the successful remediation of upper-level language skills. A review of syllabication and spelling generalizations is the bridge from phonology to advanced language skills. The morphological layer of English (prefixes, roots, and suffixes) and a sequence for morpheme instruction are introduced as well as an introduction to syntax and writing strategy instruction. Advanced-level lesson planning is presented.

100% Live Online

Bridge may be taken as a stand-alone course after Associate or as Part One of Certified.

Coursework: $955
Materials: $275
Total: $1230
