

March Intensive Student Fee Financial Disclosure Form

1. Refund Policy: There will be no refunds issued once a deposit has been received unless the course leaders successfully enroll a qualified student as a replacement and are able to transfer associated course costs.
2. Weather Disclaimer: Travel during March to and from New England is subject to potential weather-related disruptions. In the event of weather or other travel-related issues leading to itinerary changes, including shortening or cancellation, the school will make every effort to recover costs and refund unused funds to families. By signing up for a March Intensive course, participants and families acknowledge the possibility of trip cancellation and understand that not all course costs may be refunded. Families are advised to explore options for third-party trip insurance coverage.
3. Participant Financial Responsibility: In the event of a student injury, illness, or violation of behavioral standards resulting in modifications to travel plans, the participant will be responsible for covering the associated costs.
4. Account Surpluses: Trip costs are estimated carefully by course leaders. Due to the variability in travel expenses, it is anticipated that a surplus may remain in the course account. If the surplus exceeds $100 per person who traveled on the trip, the excess funds will be refunded to the families or guardians of participants who did not receive financial aid. If the surplus amount is less than $100 per person, the remaining funds will be allocated to the March Intensive scholarship fund.
