

B.J. Royes

Distinguished Contributor

While we are used to hearing B.J. Royes's voice over the sound system here at football games and other athletic events, his contributions to West Bend East and West also include his volleyball expertise.

Royes was the West volleyball coach from 2004 to 2006. During that time, the team was WIAA State Tournament runner up in 2004 and third at the state tournament in 2006. He also coached for the West Bend Power Volleyball Club for 18 years and was named USA Volleyball National Junior Coach of the Year in 2009.

For many years, B.J. has been the game announcer for East and West volleyball, basketball, baseball, and football. In this role, he is one of the best in the business. His preparation, enthusiasm, and engagement with attendees and music selection enhances the game environment and experience for all attendees.

B.J. takes pride in his important role and strives to do the job to the highest level. His charismatic presence behind the microphone has the remarkable ability to unite and inspire fans, athletes, and the community. We are so thankful for his relentless commitment to coaching, mentorship, and community engagement, which has left an enduring impact on West Bend athletics.
