CELEBRATION OF LEARNING

Quotations For Successful Living

"Success in life is founded upon attention to the small things nearest us rather than the things that are remote and uncommon."

"The average individual thinks he knows a great deal more than he does know. The individual who really knows more than he thinks he knows, is rare indeed."

"I believe that the truly educated man is not the one who has all knowledge in his head, but one who knows where to look for information upon any subject at any time."

"Education is meant to give us that culture, that refinement, that taste which will make us deal truthfully with our fellow men."

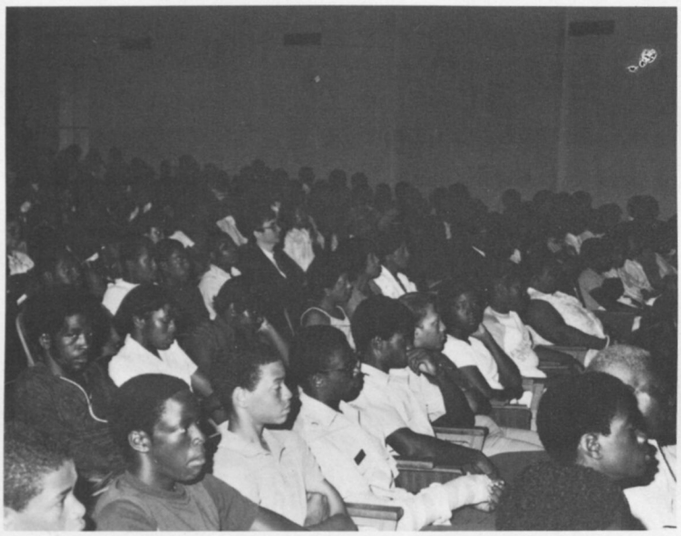

"I have learned that it is important to carry education outside of the school building and take it into the fields, into the homes, and into the daily life of the people surrounding the school."

"One should make it a rule never to let his work drive him, but to so master it, and keep it in such complete control, and to keep so far ahead of it, that he will be the master instead of the servant."

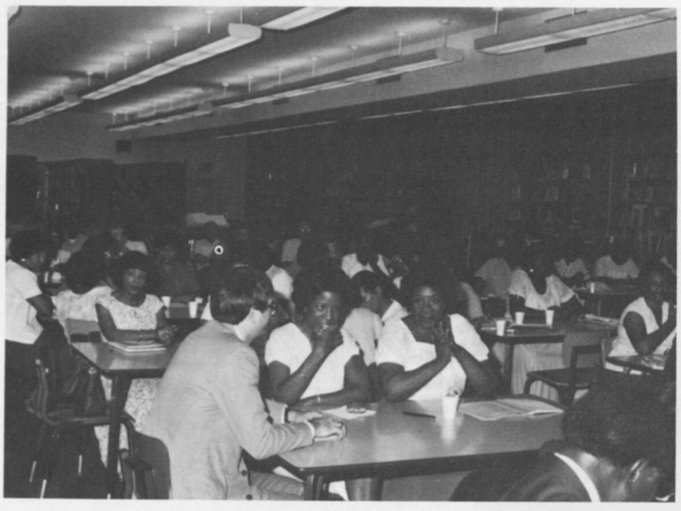

"There is no wealth in the mines or in the seas equal to that which is created by the growth and establishment in a people of habits of thrift and intelligent forethought."

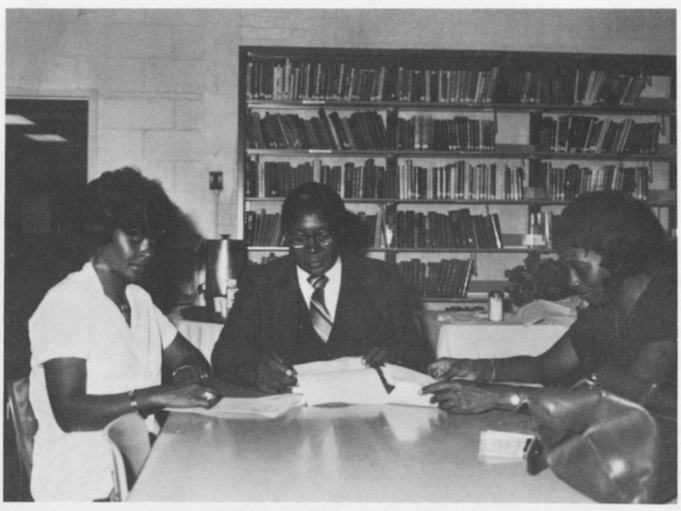

Booker Taliaferro Washington, 1856-1915

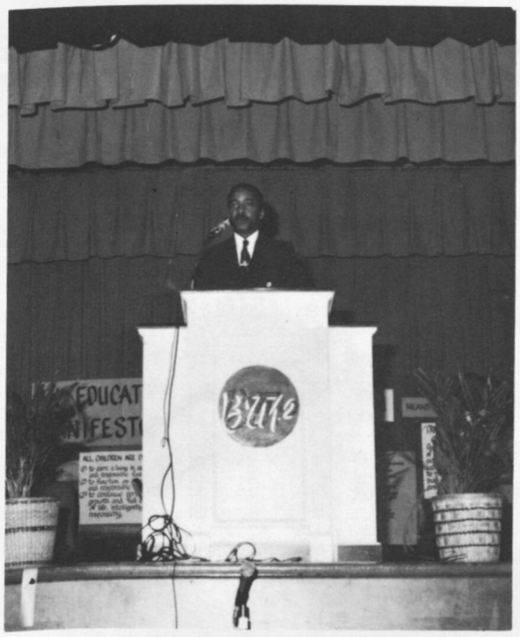

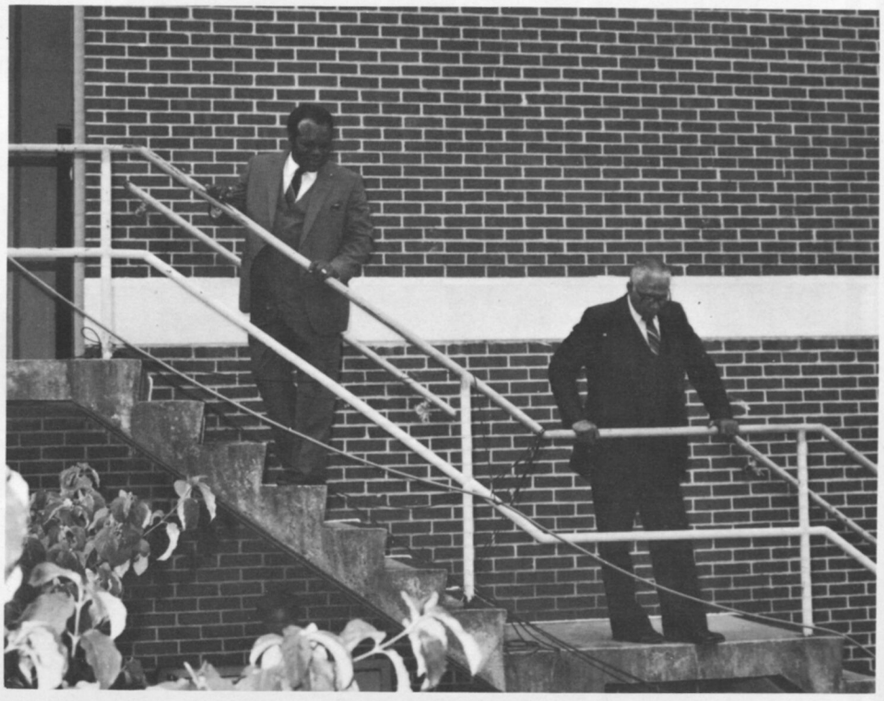

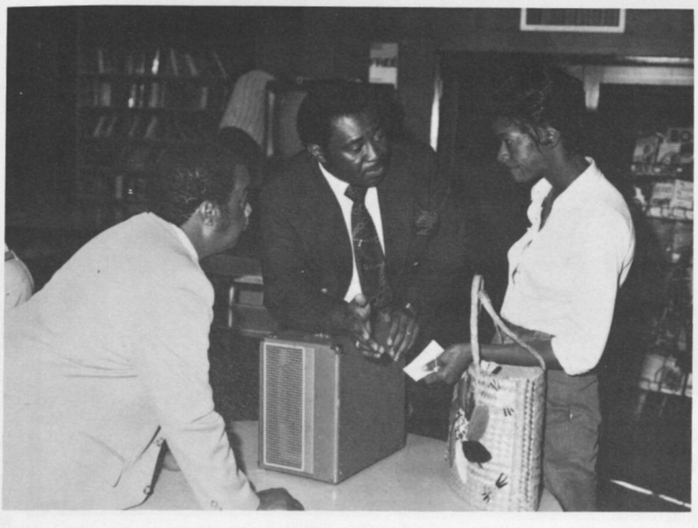

ADMINISTRATION

Principal's Message

Dr. R.L. Collins, Jr., Principal

To The Class of '83

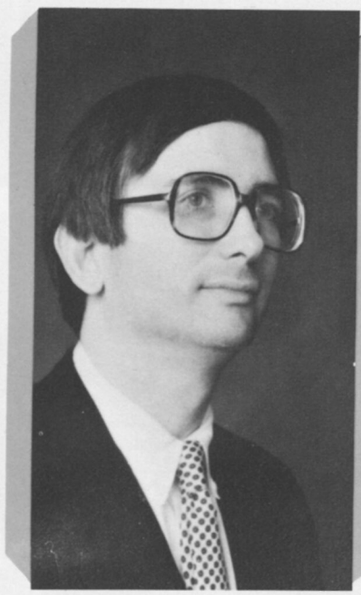

By the time you read this brief message, you can truly reflect on your days at Washington for you will be seniors in your final hour.

You are members of a Blue Chip Class and I am happy to have had an opportunity to be a part of your development.

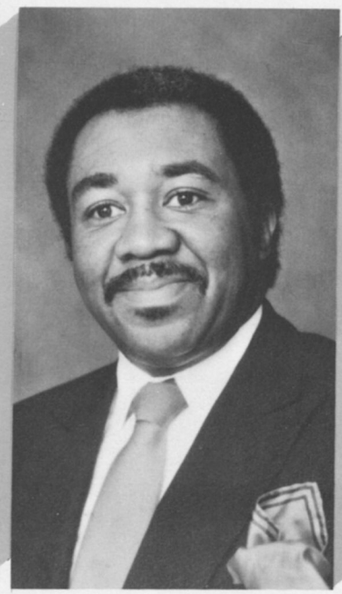

As you go through life, carry with you the thoughts of Helen Steiner Rice:

You can't do a kindness without a reward
Not in silver nor gold
But in joy from the Lord--
You can't light a candle to show others the way
Without feeling the warmth of that bright little ray--
And you can't pluck a rose,
All fragrant with dew
Without part of its fragrance remaining with you.

Best wishes for success!

Dr. L. Friedman, Asst. Principal

Mr. W. Harding, Asst. Principal

Mr. R. Winfrey, Asst. Principal

Adiós a Los Alumnos Del ultimo año

Es la hora para decir Adiós A los Alumnos del ultimo Año. No quiero decir "Adiós" pero solamente "Buena Suerte". Espero que la vida Sea Magnifica por ustedes desde el principio hasta el fin de su viaje en este mundo.

Su Profesora de español

English

It is time to say "Good-bye" to the Seniors.

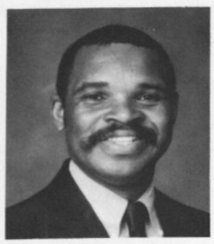

I do not wish to say "Good-bye" but only "Good Luck". I hope that life will be wonderful for all of you from the beginning until the end of your journey in this world.

Washington to house new humanities magnet

By BEVERLY BARNES

Reporter, Intown EXTRA

Washington High School principal R. L. Collins Jr. looks at the new magnet program his school will house as the formal recognition of Washington's status as one of the best of the city's high schools.

"Washington High School has established a very notable and prestigous track record in the last 58 years," he said. "With currently one student at Stanford, four at Yale, two at Vassar, one at West Point and a senior with a scholarship to Harvard, just to name a few, we've proven how well our students can perform.

"It was Dr. Crim's idea that we take a look at piloting the Paideia concept in our school based on the history of success of our program and the ability of our staff to deal with special projects."

On November 29, Washington will hold a convocation inaugurating the humanities center magnet. The following day, 60 ninth graders will take their seats in the newly-painted, newly-carpeted room that will house the program they are pioneering.

"These students have been selected on the basis of their academic record, counselors' and teachers' recommendations and seriousness of purpose to be part of a very strenuous, highly-structured educational program," Collins said.

With the exception of language, they will take all their classes together.

Computer science, earth science and advanced language skills will occupy the morning periods. In the afternoons the students will have a double-period introduction to the humanities, pairing social studies and English classes.

Additionally, students will be given an opportunity to become familiar with the arts through special sections on music, drama, dance, literature and the visual arts, which will be taught by professionals in these fields.

"Classes will be all taught according to the three main steps of the Paideia proposal (an educational philosophy borrowed from ancient Greece that attempts to equalize the relationship between student and teacher)," said Jeanette Whatley, the humanities center coordinator. "That means we will concentrate on the imparting of knowledge, the developing of skills through coaching, as opposed to mere instruction, and the furthering of understanding through use of Socratic questioning (questioning and discussion in which the teacher participates as an equal)."

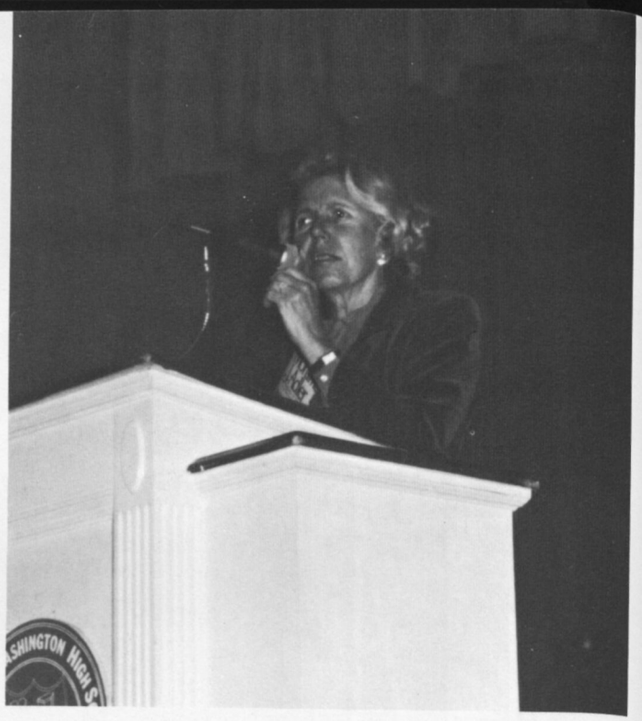

So far two of Washington's teachers have been trained in the Paideia method, and Mrs. Whatley, and members of the national humanities facility of Emory University, will conduct weekly development sessions with other teachers moving into the program.

Teachers will be trained to engage in more dialogue with their students and to help students think analytically.

Because the whole staff will become accustomed to the Paideia instructional concept, even Washington students who do not qualify will reap the benefits of the humanities program, Collins said.

"Similar teaching techniques will be used in all the classes, and every teacher will be on the same frequency in terms of enlarging the educational level of all students here," he said.

The number of students enrolled in the humanities program will double by the third quarter of this year when at least 60 more ninth graders will be added.

HISTORICAL BACKGROUND OF BOOKER T. WASHINGTON HIGH SCHOOL

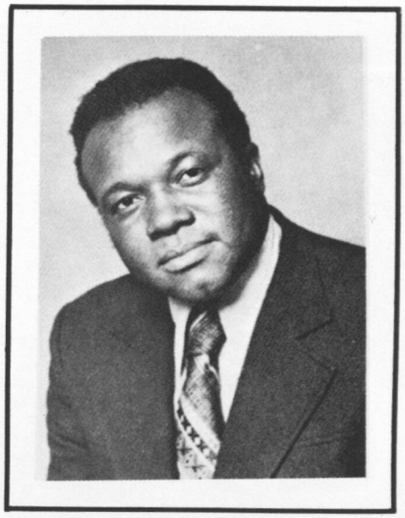

Booker T. Washington High School, named for the famous educator, began operation in 1924 under the sponsorship of the Atlanta Board of Education, with the late C.L. Harper as principal. This school was the first public high school for Blacks in Atlanta.

Several additions have been made to the original building which is situated on a 21.4 acre tract of land. In 1925, the only exact replica of Booker T. Washington monument at Tuskegee, Alabama was erected at the school's entrance. In 1942, the north and south wings were added to the building; several years later a cafeteria and gymnatorium were added. A technical building housing more than a dozen shops and teaching theater designed for many innovative and creative teaching methods, were completed in 1968.

Classified as one of the largest public high schools in the southwest from its infancy, Washington High School presently has the largest student population and professional staff in the Atlanta Public School System.

Mr. J.Y. Moreland, 1961-69

Dr. R.L. Collins, Jr., 1973

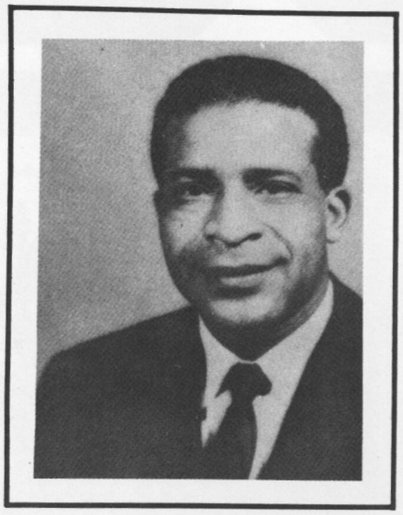

IN SUMMARY

Philosophy, Objectives and Priorities

Since its origin the purpose of Booker T. Washington High School has been to serve educationally, a widely dispersed and economically and socially varied community.

Washington High School as a comprehensive high school is one of the most common models of American secondary education. It strives to meet the needs of all youth of secondary school age through its parallel curriculum—college preparatory, general, and vocational. All of which include some common courses in general education. Within each curriculum some flexibility is maintained through the use of electives. By bringing together under one educational umbrella these varied offerings, students of Washington High School are able to pursue their varied interests and function on different ability levels.

The school continues to provide a public education for every pupil regardless of economics, cultural, intellectual, or physical qualifications. These students are encouraged to grow to their highest capacity socially, mentally, physically, and academically. Additionally, the school continues to attempt to provide experiences which help each pupil assume the responsibilities of meaningful and constructive citizenship.

MRS. P. PRYOR

This year Lydia Brandon and Kenneth Robinson will share the title as 1983 STAR STUDENTS. A STAR Student must be among the upper 10 percent or top 10 students scholastically in his or her class at the end of the first quarter or semester of the senior year. Lydia and Kenneth were named STAR Students because they received the highest SAT scores at Washington High School. Mrs. P. Pryor and Mr. Malone were chosen as STAR TEACHERS by Lydia and Kenneth respectively.

LYDIA BRANDON

The 1983 finalist for The National Achievement Scholarship Program for Outstanding Negro Students from Washington High School is LYDIA BRANDON. The Program was initiated in 1964. It is a competition for college undergraduate scholarships in which only black students are eligible to participate. A student who wishes to become eligible must demonstrate high academic standards and performance throughout grades 9-12. One must also confirm his/her scores on the PSAT/NMSQT by an equivalent performance in the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT).

New signing rule deflates recruiting pressures

By PETER SCOTT
Sports Editor, Intown EXTRA

When the NCAA agreed to let high school basketball players sign a national letter-of-intent early, the decision came none too soon for two highly sought after cagers from Washington.

Grady Johnson and his teammate Johnny Smith have made their college choices and they are glad they had an opportunity to get it over with before the pressure of recruiting hit them during the basketball season.

"When you are trying to start your season, you don't need the pressure of recruiting," said Johnson.

"I feel that now I will be able to settle down, play basketball and concentrate on my school work," said Smith. "If you have a school in mind by November, what's the use of waiting until April?"

Basketball coach Robert Bell said he and the boys have received from 150 to 175 inquiries from college recruiters.

The intensity of the recruitment involving stellar athletes cannot be fully appreciated by anyone other than those directly involved, said Bell.

Before Johnson and Smith made their final decisions this year, the telephones at their homes did not stop ringing, said Bell. "They (recruiters) came by the school at all times of day. Many coaches wanted to talk to the boys during class time. I've had as many as four coaches by here in one day," added Bell.

"Parents of these two young men were getting calls in the evening, some as late as 12 midnight. Recruiters with film footage of their campuses would take those to the homes of the players and show them to their parents," said Bell.

"Just recently, we finished a practice around 7:30 p.m., one coach from (an Oklahoma university) talked with the boys for over an hour. When that coach finished, another one from (a Louisiana school) took over. The fellows did not get to leave the gym until some time after 10 p.m.," said Bell. "The early signing will take the pressure off players who, in the past, felt pressure every time they looked in the stands and saw a white face in a black setting," said coach Bell. Players will be further helped by the early signing because those who are not selected by one college will know in time to be considered by other colleges, said Bell.

College recruiters have been eyeing Johnson and Smith since their junior years at Washington when the two helped the Bulldogs to a 19-6 season.

Johnson, a 6-8, 217-pound center, has selected Stanford University. Smith, a 6-9, 197-pound forward, has picked the University of Georgia.

Working as a center, Johnson averaged 17 points per game, 14 rebounds and 6 blocked shots.

In the classroom, he has a 3.86 grade point average, and he is president of the student government at Washington. He will study electrical engineering in college.

Smith averaged 12 points per game, 9 rebounds and 4 blocked shots.

He has a 2.7 grade point average. The power forward said he wanted to play college ball close to home so he selected Georgia. He plans to study criminal justice.

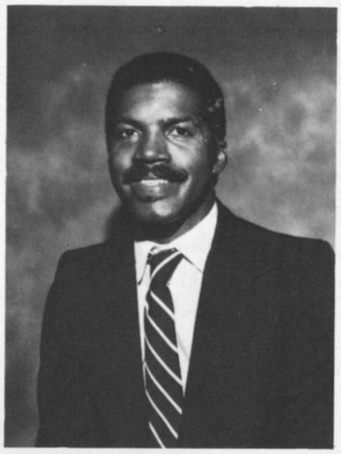

Grady Johnson and Johnny Smith, shown here with coach Robert Bell, believe that the new NCAA signing date allows them to escape from season-long recruiting pressures so they can concentrate on their basketball and school work. (Photo - Steve Deal)

As the curtains come to a close for the 1982-83 school year, the yearbook staff and advisors wish to express our appreciation to the administration, faculty, seniors and underclassmen for your support and cooperation for helping to make this yearbook become a reality.

It has been said that a picture is worth a thousand words—how fortunate we are to have before us a book, with many pictures and words to prolong the memories of 1982-83 here at the Washington High School.

The 1983 Washingtonian is an attempt to capture some of this spirit, to define it, refine it and present it in a form which will make the essential elements of the campus readily apparent. Ten years from now this annual may help you to remember what THE WASHINGTONIAN HIGH SCHOOL was like.

SONG OF THE CASTLE

WASHINGTON—I

By Mrs. L.D. Shivery

Washington! O Washington
  Thy name shall be our guide,
For learning, fame, renown and gain,
  Our gratitude abides.
As long as God's eternal love
  Shall hold they portals wide
For God and man in every land
  We'll serve for Washington.

Washington! O Washington
  Thy name shall never die
Our hearts are thine, they fame shall shine
  O'er earth and sea and sky.
Thy halls shall echo memories,
  Thy precepts reign sublime.
Where'er we roam, where'er our home
  We'll live for Washington.

Dear Alma Mater, keep our hearts
  In dear old Washington
A band of lovingschoolmates we
  Will live for Washington
"Vincit qui se vincit"
  The lesson thou hast taught
We trust the future may perfect:
  The work thy hands have wrought.

Washington! O Washington
  March on to victory
For honor bright 'gainst wrong for right
  Spread learning everywhere.
  "Truth Purity" thy white and blue
  With banner held unfurled
    Great deeds we'll dare;
    Do each his share.
We'll die for Washington

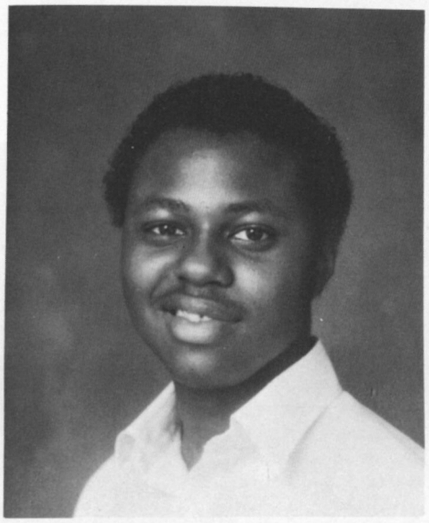

CHORUS
Washington! O Washington
Thy name shall be our guide
For God and man in every land
We'll live for Washington.

CONGRATULATIONS WITH ALL OUR LOVE
TO

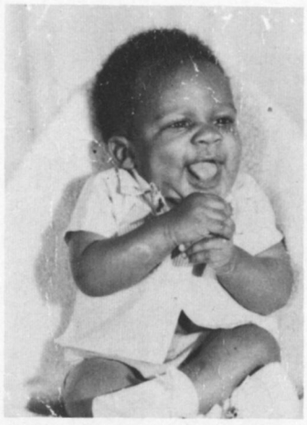

LEWIS BERNARD HARRIS

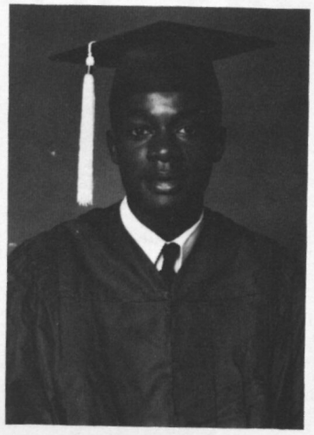

Life without purpose is barren indeed—
There can't be harvest unless you plant seed
There can't be attainment unless there's a goal
And man's but a robot unless there's a soul . . .
if we send no ships out, no ships will come in.
And unless there's a contest, Nobody can win for games can't be won unless they are played
And PRAYERS can't be ANSWERED
Unless they are prayed
So whatever is wrong with your life today you'll find a solution if you kneel down and pray
Not just for pleasure, enjoyment and health
Not just for honors and prestige and wealth
But PRAY FOR A PURPOSE to MAKE LIFE WORTH LIVING
And PRAY for the JOY of UNSELFISH
GIVING
For GREAT is YOUR GLADNESS and RICH YOUR REWARD
when you make your life's purpose
The choice of Lord.
Lewis, you have brought much joy into our lives.
WE ARE PROUD OF YOU!
LOVE,
Mom and Dad

JOHN

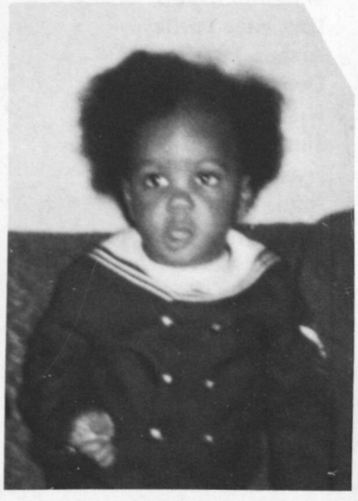

From Your Family and Friends

Do you know where you're gong to?

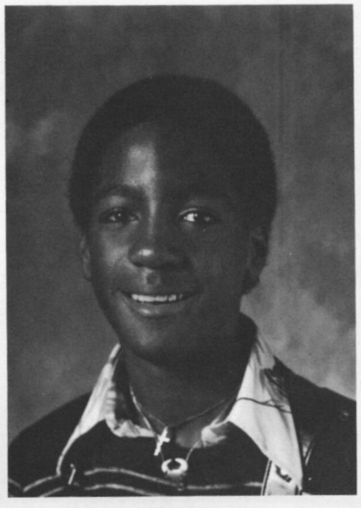

Now looking back as the clock turns backward I started out just like everybody else a sweet baby boy not knowing what the future holds for me as time passed I began to fantasize and dream of one day of becoming a man and to fulfill my; dreams. Now the clock is going forward again I understand why the love, care and interest of my parents was so great. The clock has not stopped yet I will go on to fulfill that dream and in fulfilling that dream I shall remember what the song writer has said No man is an Island. No Man stands alone. We need one another so I will descend each man as my brother; each man as my Friend.

Do you know where you're going to? Yes, I'm going to strive for the highest goal in life and won't be satisfied or relaxed until I have reached my objectives in Life.

Close to my heart
Are the wonderful ways,
You've filled my life
With such memorable days.
For through your example of love
I can see,
How meaningful living
And loving can be.
Close to my heart
Are the memories we share,
That live through the years
And keep me aware.
That mine is a heritage
Loving and true,
How blessed I've been
To have parents like you.

Being in a leadership position is never easy. Many times, mistakes are observed more readily of the leader, as in the case of an editor. Being editor of the 1982-83 Washintonian staff has been a great learning experience for me and the staff as well. We, were confronted with many obstacles, but with the help and guidance of our advisors, Mrs. Allen and Mr. Walker, we were able to turn the obstacles into opportunities for ingenuity. Through using an input-output organization, we were able to accomplish our goals. The staff was outstanding; I feel, with the many inventive minds adding input, being editor, has taught me how to grow as an individual. I'd like to thank God, my mother, Mrs. A. Evans and Dr. R. Collins for help and understanding during the year. It was greatly appreciated. To the 1983-84 Washingtonian staff, I leave motivation and the ability to maintain the high standards of the Washingtonian.
