INFORMATIONAL ITEMS

J. Coleman –From December through January, a lot of progress has been made for Student Government. After touching up on the last few key points of senior tiles with Mr. Lucenti, I put out the official signup sheet to the senior class, and we will be doing this project the week before the mid- winter break. I also finalized the virtual suggestion box, which is now up and available for any student to fill out and make a recommendation for Student Government to try to fulfill. Our vice president, Summer Mack, and I met with Dr. Luchey a few times these past few weeks, discussing our plans for a mental health seminar and a table we plan to do in March and also in May during Mental Health Awareness Month. Student Government has continued planning a winter pep rally, which we plan to have before February break, along with our spirit week calendar that same week before midterm and regents week. I worked with the Academic Student Life and DEI Committee to put together a black history month wall and some educational videos, which will be displayed throughout February. Summer and I attended the Sustainability Wellness Food and Nutrition committees meeting last week, and they're working on a mini rose sale for Valentine's Day the week before break, as well as working to provide higher- quality feminine hygiene products in the bathrooms. Lastly, the Technology Committee continues to work on improved apps and tech-related things that are accessible to students.

M. Jansen - Scott and I attended the meeting with the construction people and what their vision was, and it just amazed me that they're so well organized. They are just top class. They brought up things that I would never ever think of, and it was great to hear the teacher's input. I attended the Maplemere PTA meeting. We talked about some successes, like the holiday gift shop. For the next meeting, could you show us that film from the young boy, Nico? A young boy actually designed one of the hats that Josh Allen was wearing, and it was inspirational. I just had a request for a presentation. I noticed the food pyramid has changed. I'd like to have a presentation on it, if that's going to affect our kids.

S. Johnson - I've had two DEI meetings since our previous board meeting. One of them happened to be yesterday. They had sent out a Thought Exchange with some questions about some of the things we're working on there. I have to say the responses from the students were very interesting, and it's just a lot of great input coming back to us. What I was happy to see, and I suspect that Dr. Wilson and Jaevon saw the same thing, was that the kids really want to be challenged. We had a second meeting yesterday (Maplemere Focus Group). We went through a lot of great information. We held it at Maplemere, so the teachers were in person this time to get a chance to look at it, and they could walk around and explain things on the plans as we went along. Our architects put together some really good options and a lot of good discussion as to where we're going with the next step. I know Mr. Ryan was going to be talking with the rest of his staff at his next staff meeting.

D. Feldmann - The architect team from Young and Wright will also do something similar. They're going to be at our next Athletic Use Committee meeting, which is March 10th, I believe. If you remember the way that we staged the project, the Maplemere additions kind of go off first, but right behind it are some of the work back here in the athletic fields. They'll do a similar process with our user group on the Athletic Use Committee to kind of get their sense as to what they'd like to see back there and to kind of build and work on that design piece of it for that area as well.

S. Johnson - I attended the High School PTSA meeting virtually, and it was a small turnout and probably one of their fastest meetings. It was done in 20 minutes. They're working on their stuff for Dollars For Scholars scholarships that they give out every year. They still want to give out four of them at $1,200 a piece. They're going to be at the craft show doing a basket raffle, and they currently have 114 members, and they were doing a blood drive. Lastly, I listened to the governor's State of the State. I provided some information on that last week that related to schools.

A. Battaglia - Nothing for tonight.

D. Rabenold - I was unable to attend the Heritage Heights PTA meeting that just kind of slipped through my calendar of doctors in the last couple of weeks. I'm going to the NSBA Advocacy Institute, so I'll be missing some activity. I had given Dr. Ginestre a list of things we're going to campaign for, and just generally, the issues are very well researched, tied to House bills, and maybe Senate bills, depending on the issue. Again, as you know, there's a lot of stuff going on in DC with these issues and the funding of schools, but generally, it's fully funded and modernized. IDA again has many similar things in the line here, expanding, strengthening, and retaining educator workforce teachers, and prioritizing student health safety. Good thing we got someone in the audience promoting digital access and digital literacy. I think where Dr. Ginestre can help me the most is the ESCA type numbers, Title I type stuff. I again have specifics for our school districts. That was a good part of the conversation with the congressman.

B. Laible - First I'd just like to thank Dr. Ginestre for outlining some of the things you look at for a snow day, because as a Board Member, I do get a lot of questions from family. I've gotten three text messages tonight. Are we having a snow day tomorrow? So, I appreciate that. I attended uh the PTSA meeting for the Middle School. I also attended the Policy Committee meeting, where we had the readings. The other piece, which I wanted to discuss briefly, is the Athletic Council. That group is looking at prioritizing the facilities that make the most sense. We have a lot of athletics here and a lot of different programs, and there's a lot of interest from different groups as to what the fields would look like, and again, prioritizing. So that's the important work of that committee, and also getting feedback from other stakeholder groups. The other piece in that meeting that I think is equally important is just talking about the importance of our student athletes and understanding that they are leaders within and they are representing Sweet Home, and in developing and looking at how can we continue to increase the expectations and the standards that we have for them and not only them, but coaches, and have a competitive and strong athletic program. I think we have a really good program, but we can always continue to work on getting better and improving. In particular, the younger students in grade school and middle school. How do we work to help the younger kids be excited and ready to engage in those programs as they get into the higher grades? I think that's very important in productive work. I know when I look back at my high school years, the academics were important, but if I could do it again, I'd probably play another sport or two because that really does stick with you in many ways, more than sometimes some of the classes. Obviously, academics are important, but you learn a lot of really good lessons through athletics. I think we all know that. Not only athletics, but also the other extra programs we have in music, art, and whatnot. I'm glad to see that's something the committees continue to focus on as well.

P. Bellanti- I had the Willow Ridge PTO meeting on the first day back, which was the 3rd, I believe. They're looking to plan for the remainder of the year. They want to set up a fifth-grade committee for end of the year events for the fifth graders. They had four new staff members and two returning staff members over the last couple of weeks, so that is good for them. They're looking at their winter benchmarks and a couple of things coming up. They have a science night on February 27th, and then they are looking for coaches for Girls on the Run 8-week program for third to fifth-grade young ladies. I also attended the athletic council meeting. We do have that meeting with Young and Wright on the 10th. We're looking at everything from the color of the turf to what the dugout should look like, batting cages, pitching mounds, and then possibly if we have to rotate because of the direction of the sun. Again, it is a lot of things that we need to work on and talk to Young and Wright about. As to Brian's point, the culture of our Sweet Home sports, coaches, and athletics, and what it means to the community, and everything.
