

Stony Brook School of Dental Medicine

Dear Parents and Guardians,

We are pleased to invite you to participate in an upcoming virtual parent meeting focused on children's oral health and wellness, hosted by the Stony Brook School of Dental Medicine Outreach Team. This meeting is designed to provide helpful, practical information to support your child's overall health and academic success through good oral health habits.

What to Expect During the Meeting: During this virtual session, our pediatric dental outreach team will review key topics, including:

- Why oral health matters and how it impacts your child's overall health, comfort, confidence, and school attendance
- Common oral-health issues in children, including cavities, and how they can be prevented
- Daily dental care tips, such as brushing, flossing, nutrition, and fluoride use
- What to expect as children grow, including tooth eruption and dental milestones
- Preventive care strategies, including sealants and regular dental visits
- Managing dental emergencies, such as toothaches or injuries
- An overview of Stony Brook's Mobile Dental Health Program, the services we provide, and how families can enroll
