

Jamal Lord

Class of 1999

Jammal Lord was a force for the Bees where he was named a First-team All State quarterback. He was also a three-year starter on the basketball team. Drafted by the Nebraska Cornhuskers, Jamal became the starting quarterback. At NU he set several records including the single-game record for Quarterback rushing yards, Total Offense Record (2,774 yards in 2002, single-game Total Offense Record, and Season Record for Rushing Yards by a Quarterback. In 2003, Jamal was named Team Captain and made the Big 12 Commissioner's Fall Academic Honor Roll as well as Honorable-Mention All-Big 12. Jamal was drafted in the sixth round of the 2004 NFL draft by the Houston Texans. He finished his pro football career playing at wide receiver and cornerback for the Indoor Football League (IFL)'s Abilene Ruff Riders in 2007.