Ask and Observe—Consider These Reflection Questions:

- What are the strengths and areas for improvement for this student?
- Within a domain, are there prerequisite skills, concepts, or supports that will help to promote access to grade-level or advanced content for this student?
- What are areas in which I can enrich and challenge this student's learning?
- How can differentiation or enrichment be adjusted to continue this student's progress toward advanced proficiency levels?
- How is this student progressing in Personalized Instruction in each domain?
- In what ways is this student engaged in learning, growth, and progress?

Take Action—Consider These Action Steps:

- Target instruction and enrichment to promote student growth using next steps and instructional resources recommended by i-Ready or other resources.
- Provide teacher-led small group instruction to students with similar areas for enrichment.
- Continue to use Personalized Instruction and Learning Games* to address priority domain(s) and provide instruction and practice at advanced levels (as available).
- Engage students in data chats, and provide opportunities for students to lead data chats to celebrate success, discuss growth, and set goals for the rest of the year.
