Why donate to the Center for Brain Health?

Audio	Video
[Trina Phillibert] You just can't wait to get out and tell other people, look what's happening here.	Trina seated.
[Bubba Rasberry] this is the leader. This campus is the leader. In higher ed.	Montage of LSU Health Shreveport and Bubba Rasberry seated.
[Julie Zadeck] There would be a huge hole in the community if it wasn't here anymore. And people need to know that, it's a place where miracles happen.	Julie Seated
Text on Screen “Why donate to LSU Health Shreveport?”	“Why donate to LSU Health Shreveport?”
[Trina Phillibert] in 2012, my brother was involved in an accident. and received a traumatic brain injury. He was, airlifted to LSU, And I think because of the trauma center there, he's still alive today. A friend of mine called me and I told her what we were going through, and she said, my daughter went through the program at LSU, and she met a PT that was her professor that she just swears by since she is the very best. Would you like me to contact her and see if she will see Bart? And I said, absolutely.	Montage of LSUHS Emergency Department and Trina Seated.
And from the time Bart got there, his abilities began to increase more and more, and more, he went to driving a car and gaining his independence and being able to move out of my mother's home. And I'm so proud to know that I can donate, that other people can receive the benefits that I have. And I would encourage, please give it will come back to you tenfold.	Montage of Bart’s Physical Therapy and Trina Seated.
[Bubba Rasberry] the possibilities are just huge. have been a contributor to the med center because I believe in the mission, And as long as I'm capable, I'll continue to give	Bubba Rasberry seated.
[Julie Zadeck] it feels good. It really. It just feels good to to give and to support something that you feel passionate about.	Julie Seated

Audio	Video
[Bubba Rasberry] when, you know, you contributed in a way, to whatever degree, you as you get older, there's something to be said about going to sleep at night with a sense of, contribution, not obligation.	Bubba Rasberry seated.
[Julie Zadeck] it has been instilled in me since I was a very young little girl. My father volunteered and donated as much as he possibly could throughout his life. he was able to do it. And so he wanted me to continue his legacy.	Julie Seated
Text on Screen A donation to the LSUHS Center for Brain Health Expands neuroscience education and supports research in brain injury and disease	"A donation to the LSUHS Center for Brain Health Expands neuroscience education and supports research in brain injury and disease"
[Julie Zadeck] I know the research that they are working on is Alzheimer's, and my family has a history of Alzheimer's. I think it's an area that definitely needs as much attention as can possibly be, dealt	Julie Seated
[Trina Phillibert] Well, you never know when something like this will happen to you or to your parent, sibling, friend. Don't wait until it happens, because the likelihood that someone in your realm of influence is going to have something go awry with their brain is pretty high because it's not only the traumatic brain injury and it's the diseases, it's the Parkinson's. I am dealing personally right now with a mother with dementia and so you will at some point in your life, deal with something like this, be in the forefront, give when you can. It certainly makes you feel good when you can, but it also may turn around and help you, in your own life, in your own well being and those that you love.	Trina seated.
Text on Screen Support the Center for Brain Health. Invest in the future of Brain Research and Neurological Innovation.	"Support the Center for Brain Health. Invest in the future of Brain Research and Neurological Innovation." LSU Health Shreveport logo