

Ashok Swaminathan

Ash has been an electrical engineer for the past 30 years, with a few stints teaching college classes in circuit design. He has been working at Qualcomm helping to design the next generation technologies to connect educators with students.

Ash spends most of his free time with his family, living the Southern California lifestyle of surfing and outdoor activities. He strongly feels that the most important currency we can use to improve our lives is time, and has volunteered as a coach, and on volunteer committees in the community.

Coming from a family of educators, Ash recognizes the critical role of elementary education in the future success of our children. Both of his daughters have been through Cardiff and Ada Harris and are proud of the education and friends they have made along the way. Ash is very proud and lucky to be able to serve the residents of Cardiff in making this school district the best in San Diego, and well-prepared for the next generations of Cardiff children.
