Colleges vary widely in how they award credit for AP

VARYING COLLEGE CREDIT FOR AP

POTENTIAL FOR CREDIT VARIES

Colleges value AP courses for rigor; AP widely recognized

Most colleges award credit, depending on exam score

Less likely to receive credit within your major

A few colleges use only for placement, or as replacement credit

AP scores matter for credit, not as much for admissions

PROCEDURE FOR AP CREDIT

After senior AP score release, student orders official AP score report from College Board to be sent to attending college.

College registrar reviews marks and awards credit.

WHEN APPLYING, YOU MUST SUBMIT:

- High school transcript and
- College transcript(s) from every college where you have earned credit

STUDENTS ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR:

- Ordering Shorewood transcripts by setting up Scoir (we give instructions)
- Ordering college transcripts from each college
- OR, if a college specifies, filling out a self-reported transcript detailing all high school & college courses

ABOUT GPA / WHAT COLLEGES LOOK FOR

COMPETITIVE COLLEGES CONSIDER

- Grades in the context of your courses
- Rigor as it is appropriate for you
- Strength of school curriculum

WA STATE HAS UNWEIGHTED GPAs

- Dual Credit courses are not weighted more than general courses
- Students are NOT penalized when they apply to colleges
- Colleges recalculate applicant GPAs

NOTE ABOUT COLLEGE APPLICATIONS

ALL STUDENTS

- Taking dual credit means you have to be detail-oriented on applications
- Attend all “How to Apply” sessions held in September of senior year
- Read Senior Emails & use materials provided

RUNNING START

- You will apply as a first-year student

WHAT DO COLLEGES LIKE BEST?

They very rarely state a preference.

Students rarely regret their Dual Enrollment (DE) choices and they are prepared for 4-year college.

BETTER QUESTION:
To what am I most excited to say “yes?”

- We rise to the challenge when excited to say “yes” to something!

AN ENTHUSIASTIC “YES” TO ALL THREE?:

- Subject
- Setting
- Structure

IN YOUR CONTROL?

- Challenge yourself with appropriate level of rigor: balance choices with well-being
- Sell your why: Positive reasons for class selections you made, ways you grew, what you learned about evaluating opportunities
- Practice self-management: parents, let your students be responsible; cultivate self-starters
- Be a good high school student: get involved in things you care about
- Be tuned in to Shorewood communication
- Be open-minded about colleges
