DIGITAL CITIZENSHIP WEEK October 14-18, 2024

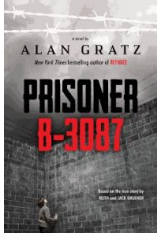

Let's promote a healthy, balanced, and positive approach to media and tech use among each other and lead by example in our consumption of digital content. People are using media and devices more than ever, and they need our help in learning to regulate its use and develop good media habits. This Digital Citizenship Week, commit to making your digital well-being a priority. Create a personal challenge for yourself to help improve something about your digital well-being. It could be reducing how much time you spend on a specific app, changing up your bedtime tech routine, adjusting how you post or what you follow. Being a responsible digital citizen is about navigating and interacting in online spaces respectfully, safely and with compassion.
