Investing in a St. Joes Education

When you invest in a St. Joes education, you are helping your child make the most of their high school experience, instilling within them the critical skills, ethics, initiative, and altruism that will shape their personal growth and expand their future opportunities.

As Connecticut's largest co-ed Catholic high school, St. Joseph High School provides a faith-based, academically rigorous, and well-resourced education that prepares students for college and beyond. Every family contributes to the cost of their child's education, ensuring the sustainability of our programs. Need-based financial aid and merit scholarships are available to help make tuition accessible.
