

This season has been full of glitter, grit, and at least 47 counts of “5, 6, 7, 8” echoing in our dreams. But somehow, through the chaos, we qualified for state.

Shoutout to Lily, who basically said, “Sick? Never heard of her.” Even while feeling awful, she helped lead us to high scores like an absolute legend. Sniffles? Irrelevant. High kicks? Still sharp. That’s dedication.

We also have to hype up Hannah, our senior who joined this year. We’re so glad she took the leap because she’s been such a fun, hardworking addition to the team.

Now let’s talk about hip hop. Tori absolutely ate up that routine. She performed like she was born to hit those moves. The energy? Unmatched. The facial expressions? On point. The vibes? Immaculate.

And then there’s Calia, who smiled through the entire hip hop dance. Usually hip hop = serious face. But this time? Full sunshine.

Ellie danced through the pain of a sprained ankle that happened before we even stepped on the floor. Because apparently resting is optional when you’re built different.

Next up, we HAVE to shout out Saturn — because wow! Saturn stepped in and has been putting in the work every single practice. We are beyond excited to see where she goes this year — and next.

This season has been such a fun mix of hard work, inside jokes, sore muscles, and big accomplishments. Qualifying for state feels amazing, but honestly, getting to grow together and make memories has been the best part.

We hope even more kids join next year so we can keep building this team, do even more awesome dancing, and make even more incredible friendships.

Sidenote: Erin refused to talk about herself (very on-brand), so we’ll say it for her—she’s an absolute rockstar. Honestly, kind of a big deal.
