Frances C. Richmond Middle School Announces Principal Finalists

HANOVER, NH – February 25, 2026 – SAU 70 is pleased to announce the finalists for the position of Middle School Principal at Frances C. Richmond Middle School. Following a comprehensive search and interview process, the district has identified two highly qualified candidates with strong experience in middle-level education and school leadership.

The finalists are:

- Anissa Morrison - current Interim Principal of the Frances C. Richmond Middle School. Anissa has been at RMS since 1993 and served as the Associate Principal and the Family and Consumer Science Teacher.
- Timothy O'Leary, current Principal of the Roxbury Prep Middle School. Tim has been a teacher at Oxbow and in Harlem, and served as Dean of Curriculum and Instruction.

Each finalist brings a unique set of skills and a shared commitment to student learning, staff collaboration, and fostering a positive school culture.

As part of the selection process, finalists will participate in a series of interviews and school visits, including opportunities to engage with students, staff, families, community members, and School Board members. Community input will be considered as the district works toward selecting the next principal.

“We are grateful for the strong pool of candidates who expressed interest in this role,” said Robin Steiner, Superintendent. “Each finalist demonstrates a clear dedication to middle school students and the values of our school community.”

The district anticipates announcing a final decision in March.
