Journeying...an update! WPS 5-1-25

With April vacation behind us, May begins the last leg of our journey through this school year. Our educators have embraced the tremendous responsibility of being the primary guides for all of our students on this journey. Next week, we celebrate all of them during National Teacher Appreciation Week. Their dedication, passion and unwavering commitment to our students make all the difference. Their focus on building positive relationships and establishing joyful learning environments provide the foundation for the students willingness to engage in the journey. Please join me in thanking all of our phenomenal educators!

Hopefully, one of the many things that our teachers will enjoy next week will be the many various sessions being provided during our EdCamp-style professional development day that has been organized for them. It is taking place when the students do not have school on Tuesday for our local election day.

As mentioned in last month's update, Bus Registration for next school year is open. In preparing for the new School Start times this fall, we are urging everyone to register early this year so that the bus company has as much information as possible to finalize the routes and schedules. Please note that a late fee of $25 will be applied starting on June 1, 2025 which is earlier than it has been in the past.

The weather is certainly very different than it was before vacation. Even though the winter was colder this year, we didn't end up needing to use many snow days...much to the Senior Class' chagrin. Our originally scheduled last day of school this year was June 18th; since Juneteenth is a holiday, in order to make-up for our one snow day...for those of you playing along at home...our school year journey is now coming to an end on Friday, June 20, 2025. That seems just around the corner at this point.

Cheers!

Chris
