

The Industrial Revolution brought many new jobs and inventions never seen before. Due to all the technology and machinery being in the city, people had to leave their native country and loved ones to pursue working with technology. Machinery and technology affected the lives of many workers in the 1700s and the 1800s.

Technology and machinery made many jobs way easier to do than before. In the text it states: "... larger amounts of cotton could be produced in one harvesting season." This shows that technology had a positive impact on many jobs because with machines like the cotton gin, it had made working with cotton way easier and efficient than by hand.

People had to leave their own country and loved ones to work with technology. In the text it states "I left my native country, and all my friends." This shows that workers had to leave behind their belongings and loved ones to work with machines because all the machines were in far away cities.

The cotton gin made the slave population increase to almost four million. In the text it states: "By 1860, the population of enslaved people was close to four million." This shows that the slave population increased when the cotton gin was invented because it made cotton easier to work with and slave owners needed a faster way of processing cotton.

The invention of technology and machinery changed the lives of many people and workers. Machinery and technology have changed many jobs in a positive way. Workers had left their family to use technology in the cities. Due to the cotton gin, slavery was at an all time high at almost four million slaves working. Technologies like the cotton gin had positive and negative impacts on the world in the 1700s and the 1800s. When the Industrial Revolution was passed, it had many new jobs and inventions that changed the lives of many people and workers.
