Principal's Pen -Thank you to everyone who attended our Krewe of Read parade! It was so nice to see so many participants and spectators celebrating a love for reading and Mardi Gras. The end of the third nine weeks is almost here, and it is imperative that students put forth maximum effort as we make the final push toward our learning goals. While our students must remain focused, our parents must continue supporting their child's learning. If you have any questions or concerns, now is the time to contact your child's teachers so that he/she can be successful as the year ends.

Reading Corner- Spring is just around the corner. Birds will be singing, flowers will be blooming, and kids will want to be outside. While they are immersed in the sights, sounds, and smells of spring, make literacy connections to what they are experiencing. Example: If your family has or sees a beautiful garden, ask your child to describe that garden with as many descriptive words as possible. Turn it into a creative writing activity. If you plant a garden, help your child read about the different plants you use. Happy learning!

Math Matters -Want to know a secret about math? Building a foundation of numbers, counting, adding, subtracting, multiplying, and dividing (without fingers or calculators) can make your child's math classes "easy peasey" as they grow. Want to make them functional in society with math? Teach them common fractions as it relates to cooking, a ruler, and time. Parents, you might not realize it, but what you do day in and day out with a ruler, a tape measure, a recipe, etc. can be taught and practiced at home regularly. Real-life math is just as important as the math we do with pencil and paper.
