		This week, I attended the i-ready training provided to us during our D-day. I am new to this platform so the information provided makes me feel more comfortable with the upcoming diagnostic administration.	I-ready training was provided on 9/9/25. *Stitch will administer the diagnostic on 9/10/23.  Next meeting: administering i-ready
		Other topics discussed: Not needed each time. Only as applicable.
		Week 2: 9/12/2025
		This week, I administered the i-ready diagnostic to all my students. I found that it took longer than expected and my students struggled with the diagnostic. I am nervous about the data analysis process, but excited to plan the next steps.	The I-ready diagnostic was administered successfully this week.

		Week 3: 9/19/25
		This week, we analyzed the data during grade-level collaboration. It was rough! My data states that my students require intense phonemic awareness intervention and subtraction with regrouping. In my cycle of inquiry, I have uploaded my results and action plan because this plan supports my ILP goal.	The action plan we worked on can be seen here (link). Next Meeting: Setting up small groups using i-ready data.

Was your ILP goal adjusted or changed?

No If yes, explain the change and why.

Next Steps:

- Revisit the ILP goal and upload supporting documents.
- Research PD on assessments to complete my first professional development log.
