The Board of Education believes that positive parent and family engagement is essential to student achievement, and thus encourages such involvement in school educational planning and operations. Parent and family engagement may take place either in the classroom or during extra-curricular activities. However, the Board also encourages parental involvement at home (e.g., planned home reading time, informal learning activities, and/or homework "contracts" between parents and children). The Board directs the Superintendent of Schools to develop a home-school communications program in an effort to encourage all forms of Parent and family engagement.

Title I Parent and Family Engagement - District Level Policy

Consistent with the parent and family engagement goals of Title I, Part A of the federal No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 (NCLB) and its reauthorization in the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA), the Board of Education will develop and implement programs, activities and procedures that encourage and support the participation of parents of students eligible for Title I services in all aspects of their child's education. The Board also will ensure that all of its schools receiving Title I, Part A funds develop and implement school level parental involvement procedures, as further required by federal law.

For purposes of this policy, parent and family engagement refers to the participation of parents in regular, two-way, and meaningful communication involving student academic learning and other school activities. At a minimum, parental involvement programs, activities and procedures at both the district and individual school level must ensure that parents:

- Play an integral role in assisting their child's learning;
- Are encouraged to be actively involved in their child's education at school; and
- Are full partners in their child's education and are included, as appropriate, in decision-making and on advisory committees to assist in the education of their child.

The term parents, refers to a natural parent, legal guardian or other person standing in loco parentis (such as a grandparent or stepparent with whom the child lives, or a person who is legally responsible for the child's welfare).

District and school level Title I parent and family engagement programs, activities and procedures will provide full opportunities for the participation of parents with limited English proficiency, parents with disabilities, and parents of migratory children.

As further required by federal law, parents of students eligible for Title I services will be provided an opportunity to participate in the development of the district's Title I plan, and to submit comments regarding any aspect of the plan that is not satisfactory to them. Their comments will be forwarded with the plan to the State Education Department.

Parents also will participate in the process for developing a school improvement plan when the school their child attends fails to make adequate yearly progress for two consecutive years and is identified as a school in need of improvement.

Parent participation in development of district wide Title I plan

The Board, along with its superintendent of schools and other appropriate district staff will undertake the following actions to ensure parent involvement in the development of the district wide Title I plan:

- Hold annual parent/guardian informational meetings at flexible times and at accessible locations within the District in an effort to provide greater access
- Hold parent/guardian teacher conferences annually
- Communicate with parents/guardians related to student progress via telephone, written notifications, and e-mail
- Communicate with families and/or stakeholders by posting on the District's website and/or social media periodically through the year
- Parents and family members will be offered opportunities to participate in various committees at the school and District levels
- The District shall work in partnership with the White Plains Parent Teacher Association
- Families will be surveyed at least yearly to determine the level of satisfaction with parent and family engagement activities and to identify any:
 - barriers to greater participation in Title I activities, especially for parents who are economically disadvantaged, are disabled, have limited English proficiency, have limited literacy, or are of any racial or ethnic minority background;
 - needs of parents and family members to help with the learning of their children, including engaging with school personnel and teachers; and,
 - strategies to support successful school and family interactions

Development of school level parental involvement approaches

The superintendent of schools will ensure that all district schools receiving federal financial assistance under Title I, Part A are provided technical assistance and all other support necessary to assist them in planning and implementing effective parent and family engagement programs and activities that improve student achievement and school performance. As appropriate to meet individual local needs, the superintendent will:

- Prepare summaries of school achievement to be shared with parents/guardians,
- Provide computer software to facilitate the reporting of at-risk students progress to parents/guardians, to the extent practicable, in a language they understand,
- Assist in the identification of consultants and practices to improve family literacy and parenting skills,
- Provide technical assistance in monitoring the effectiveness of instructional programs and practices, and parent and family engagement activities,
- Implement a school parent/guardian compact for students who are not meeting the New York State Standards in elementary and middle schools (signed by both the teacher and parent/guardian, which spells out how the responsibility for the improved academic achievement is to be shared among the school, parent/guardian and student.)
- Coordinate and integrate parent and family engagement-strategies with our Pre-K programs.

Building capacity for parent and family engagement

To build parent capacity for strong parent and family engagement to improve their child's academic achievement, the district and its Title I, Part A schools will, at a minimum:

1. Assist parents in understanding such topics as the state's academic content and student achievement standards, state and local academic assessments, Title I requirements, how to monitor their child's progress and how to work with educators to improve the achievement of their child. To achieve this objective, the district and its Title I schools will participate in workshops and engagement opportunities focused on parent and family engagement in the educational process.
2. Provide materials and training to help parents work to improve their child's academic achievement. To achieve this objective, the district and its Title I schools will provide parents/guardians with literacy/mathematics family nights and opportunities to engage in the educational process as a family.
3. Educate its teachers, pupil services personnel, principals, and other staff in understanding the value and utility of a parent's contributions and on how to:
 - reach out to, communicate with, and work with parents as equal partners;
 - implement and coordinate parent programs; and
 - build relationships between parents and the schools.
4. Ensure that information related to school and parent-related programs, meetings and other activities is sent to the parents of children participating in Title I programs in an understandable and uniform format, including alternative formats, upon request, and to the extent practicable, in a language the parents can understand.

Coordination of parent and family engagement strategies

The district will coordinate and integrate strategies adopted to comply with Title I, Part A parent and family engagement requirements with parent and family engagement strategies adopted in connection with any of the following applicable programs: Head Start, Reading First, Early Reading First, Even Start, Parents as Teachers, Home Instruction Program for Preschool Youngsters, and State-operated preschool programs. These programs will be implemented by the building principals and coordinators and monitored by the Assistant Superintendent for Curriculum and Instruction or designee. Programs will be reviewed annually.

Review of district wide parental involvement policy

The Board, along with its superintendent of schools and other appropriate staff will conduct, with the involvement of parents, an annual evaluation of the content and effectiveness of this policy in improving the academic quality of Title I schools, including the identification of barriers to greater participation by parents in activities under this policy, and the revision of parent involvement policies necessary for more effective involvement.
